"Considerable" Losses Inflicted on Enemy Near Abbi Addi, Says Communique in Rome.

MORE BOMBINGS BY FASCIST FLYERS

Concentrations Across the Takkaze River in the Mai Timchet Region Attacked From Air.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Dec. 20.—Italy's northern army defeated an Ethiopian force south of Abbi Addi, 25 miles west of Makale, inflicting "considerable" losses, an official communique says. One Italian noncommissioned officer and one Askari were killed.

The communique follows:
"Our detachments defeated and dispersed a group of Ethiopian warriors after a lively battle south of Abbi Addi, in the Tembien region. On our side a noncommissioned officer and an Askari were killed. Fifteen Italian soldiers were wounded. The enemy losses were considerable."

"Aviation forces again bombarded concentrations of enemy groups across the Takkaze in the Mai Timchet region."

"Chiefs, nobles and warriors of all Ogaad factions held at Goralah the traditional council of their tribe and repeated before the royal residence their full submission to Italy."

"Detachments of Ogaad warriors have been brigaded with our native formation."

Italians Advance in South and Occupy Four Towns.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY AT DOLO, Wednesday, Dec. 18.—(By Courier to Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland).—The Italian army has advanced to meet three oncoming Ethiopian forces, the Fascists crossing the southwestern frontier into Ethiopia and occupying four towns.

Driving north out of Dolo, the Italian columns seized the Ethiopian towns of Fidegan, Buralale, El Beit and Bar Abir, establishing a new front, about 50 miles broad, 25 miles into Ethiopia.

Another Italian unit, operating to the west, has cut down the undergrowth in that jungle region to forestall any surprise assault by the right wing of the Ethiopian forces, which are making in three divisions down the river valleys, which converge on this sector of the southern front.

The three Ethiopian armies, commanded by Ras Desta Demeu, son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie, are thought by the Italians to be stealing down the banks of the Gester, Ganale Doria and Dawa Parma rivers, moving mostly at night.

Their central column, moving down the Ganale Doria River, about 150 miles northwest of Dolo, had already experienced the Italian strength, their base at Neghell having been burned after a bombardment by Fascist flyers.

The Ethiopian right column, following the Dawa Parma River, which reaches the Italian Somaliland border at a point only 30 miles west of Dolo, also was thought by the Italians to have encountered difficulties in the dense jungles.

The Italian staff, describing this enemy force as a "large lost army," said it was maneuvering desperately about six miles from Malarcarie, apparently unable to get in touch with Ras Desta Demeu's headquarters for orders.

The Malarcarie front, held on the Italian side by an army including thousands of picked Blackshirts under Gen. Agostini, stands on the edge of a tropical desert, which ends in an expanse of suffocating desert wastelands.

The Italians are holding the open lands, watching alertly by day and turning large floodlights at night over the nearby deep jungle with its tall palms and dense foliage.

Behind the advance bodies at Malarcarie, to the west, Dolo, in the center, and the occupied Ethiopian towns to the north, mobile Italian units are held in reserve to swing into any spot where they might be summoned for aid in an emergency.

BALDWIN SEES KING GEORGE AFTER VICTORY IN COMMONS

ballot rejecting a labor motion of censure, 397 to 185, after the House of Lords, without a division, upheld the Government.

The Commons then adopted an amendment, moved by Lord Winterton on behalf of Government supporters, calling for continuation of the policy of support of the League of Nations and the principle of collective security, 390 to 165.

With the ballot of every voting Tory cast in his favor in the first vote, the Prime Minister was assured by the showdown that the Commons at least accepted his promise to live up to his recent general election campaign pledge of League of Nations support.

Conservatives took the attitude that as a result of the Commons debate, no matter how embarrassing the explanation might have been for Baldwin, the other members of the British Cabinet in London.

The reason advanced was that there was a lack of co-operation between the resigned Foreign Secretary, Hoare, who drew up the plan with French Premier Pierre Laval at Paris, and the other members of the British Cabinet in London.

"Such a position shall not be possible again," Baldwin assured the Commons.

Candidates for Cabinet Post.

Baldwin gave no hint to the candidates under consideration for the post vacated by Hoare, but political sources learned the list included Sir Austen Chamberlain, former Foreign Secretary, Chamberlain is a half-brother of Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Minister for League Affairs, Eden, who emerged safely from the controversy over the peace project, also was considered a likely candidate, as was Viscount Halifax, Lord Privy Seal.

The man who emerged with the most credit from the critical foreign policy debate, informed sources agreed, was the "scapegoat," Hoare.

Neville Chamberlain, winding up the debate late last night for the Government, expressed hope that Hoare would "at no long distance be able to resume his political career." Cheers from the ministerial benches greeted this remark.

Opinion on Hoare's Speech.

Parliamentary sources considered Hoare's defense of his part in the events of the last two weeks was a statesman-like speech, indicating that under the existing circumstances, which he termed "an atmosphere of war," he had to act as he did.

Chamberlain insisted the Government was ready to play its part in further collective action against Italy, if assured that all League members were ready to share in meeting any attack which might result from imposition of an oil embargo. He said, however, that the ultimate sanction behind the League was force.

Unless members of the League, he said, were "prepared to equip themselves so that they are able to meet any threat against them by any aggressor and prepared to use that equipment if necessary, they cannot expect complete success."

Little Entente and Balkan Entente Want Covenant Observed.

GENEVA, Dec. 20.—The permanent councils of the little entente and the Balkan entente decided in a meeting here today "that the League Covenant should be strictly observed."

The meeting, which included representatives of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Turkey and Greece, was presided over by Nicholas Titulescu of Rumania. Vladimir Potemkin of Russia conferred with Titulescu on the progress made toward the conclusion of a Russian-Rumania pact of mutual assistance which will be similar to the French-Russian and Russian-Czech pacts.

DR. SHEAHAN ASKS FOR EARLY OUSTER HEARING

Suit Will Be Tried as Quickly as Possible at January Term, Judge Witthaus Says.

The ouster suit against Dr. Edwin L. Sheahan, superintendent of St. Louis County Hospital, filed last week by Prosecuting Attorney John E. Mooney, representing Dr. Sheahan, filed an entry of appearance and general denial of the charges and asked for an early setting, "in the interest of Dr. Sheahan's good name."

The Court made the announcement after County Counsel John E. Mooney, representing Dr. Sheahan, filed an entry of appearance and general denial of the charges and asked for an early setting, "in the interest of Dr. Sheahan's good name."

"We are waiving all technicalities in this case so as to get it into a public hearing as soon as possible," Mooney said. "There is no law under the sun whereby Dr. Sheahan can be discharged by ouster proceedings, as he is an employee of the County Court. However, if a jury finds him guilty of the charges, he will resign."

Mooney said the entire suit was based on a partial report made last June by a grand jury which "heard only one side of the case."

"Scandalized and Vilified."

"While the grand jury as an institution is a good thing," said Mooney, "this grand jury was used in the destruction of a man's character. Dr. Sheahan is 50 years old, a graduate of two of the best colleges in St. Louis and of one in New York. He was scandalized and vilified in this report, but an indictment was returned against him and he had no opportunity for a hearing."

"The newspapers have printed cartoons and editorials on the case, organizations have taken it up and the country has been getting a bad name. Dr. Sheahan's children are ashamed to go to school because of these base charges. And that grand jury was brought and controlled by a man who had written a letter scolding Dr. Sheahan before he was heard."

Judge Witthaus, remarking that all litigants are entitled to an early trial, pointed out that there would be no more juries this term, but agreed to set the matter as near the head of next term's docket as possible.

"Deal" Charged by Anderson.

The reinstatement last September of Dr. Sheahan as superintendent of the hospital was the result of a "deal" between Republican politicians who wanted jobs for their friends and Associate Judge Wolschlaeger of the County Court, also a Republican, who wanted the hospital garbage to go to a friend, it was charged last night by Anderson in a speech before the Wellington Taxpayers' Association.

"Consequently," said Anderson, "the welfare of the indigent sick of St. Louis County was traded off for five jobs and a bucket of garbage."

The alleged deal was consummated two days after the county grand jury adjourned, he continued, at a meeting attended by Wolschlaeger, Presiding Judge Thomas H. Thatcher of the County Court, Mooney and two "heads of the Republican Party." Wolschlaeger had voted for Dr. Sheahan's dismissal last June and it was not until after this meeting that he switched his vote and joined with Thatcher, a Democrat, to restore Dr. Sheahan to office, the Prosecutor said.

SHERIFF BARS MINERS' DEBATE

Christian County (Ill.) Official Says It Would Stir Up Trouble.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Dec. 20.—Sheriff Ed Marvel today said he would not permit a debate between Christian County between Powers Haggood, representative of the United Mine Workers, and Tony Scremin, Progressive Miners' leader, on merits of the rival unions.

"It can see nothing to be gained for either union in this proposed debate, and it will serve to revive a controversy that has already caused too much trouble in the county," Sheriff Marvel said.

FREIGHTER TEARS HOLE IN SIDE OF LIGHTSHIP OFF BOSTON

Beacon Vessel Apparently in No Immediate Danger; Other Craft Returns to Harbor.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—An outbound British freighter, The Seven Seas Spray, tore a big hole in the port side of Boston Lightship, six miles east of Boston Lighthouse, today. An airplane pilot said the hole apparently ran below the water line. Rescue ships soon began towing the lightship to Quincy. Coast guardsmen said apparently none of the crew of seven was hurt.

The freighter, damaged above the waterline, returned to quarantine for inspection. Snow flurries and a strong north wind, carrying dense smoke from North Shore industrial cities, made navigation difficult at the time of the accident, Coast Guardsmen reported.

PERMANENT ROUTE PERMITS FOR STREET CARS AND BUSES Need Not Be Renewed Although Service Board May Revoke Them for Cause.

The Board of Public Service, on recommendation of Director of Director of Streets and Sewers McDevitt, issued permanent permits today to the Public Service Co. to operate street cars and buses over the routes now in use.

Several years ago the board acted to co-ordinate the bus and street car systems in order to avoid duplication of service and to extend transportation facilities throughout the city. Temporary permits were originally issued to the company and were renewed from time to time. The permits approved today will not have to be renewed, although the board, under the charter, is empowered to revoke them for cause.

W. Scott Hancock, president of the Federation of Improvement Associations, appeared before the board and urged the issuance of the permanent permits, stating he had not heard recently of criticism of the present routes. Sam Greenland, manager for the trustee of the company, said nearly 1,000,000 had been spent in the last two years for new buses, and 20 others of the small type had been ordered.

TWO TREES AT WHITE HOUSE

President to Have One Lighted With Wax Candles.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—There will be two Christmas trees in the White House this year because the President insists on the fragrance of hot spruce.

Dressed in modernistic angles, all white and silver, the "official" tree will stand in the east room and will be lighted by electricity. Upstairs, sparkling with colored balls, will be the President's choice, a tree lighted by wax candles. Both trees will be chemically fireproof.

In a speech before the Wellington Taxpayers' Association, "Consequently," said Anderson, "the welfare of the indigent sick of St. Louis County was traded off for five jobs and a bucket of garbage."

FARLEY'S $10-A-PLATE IDEA DROPPED IN CITY

Young Democrats Instead Will Give a Jackson Day Dance With $1 as Charge.

The suggestion of Postmaster-General National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley that Jackson Day dinners costing $10 a plate be held Jan. 8 throughout the United States by Young Democratic organizations was answered today with an announcement that the Young Democratic Club of St. Louis will celebrate with a dance at the DeSoto Hotel costing $1 a person.

Plans for the dinners were recently suggested by Farley to state chairmen of Young Democratic organizations, who listened in on a nation-wide telephone hookup. In all cities with populations over 250,000, he said, Young Democrats were to charge $10 a plate for the dinner. They should spend $1.50 for food, he said, keep $2.50 for their own organization and send $6 to the Democratic National Committee to help pay off the large deficit.

When a mimeographed copy of the Postmaster-General's remarks were received here the plan for a high-priced dinner was dropped almost immediately in favor of the more economical celebration. One executive of the local organization said it was felt that the blustering "Old Hickory," hero of the Battle of New Orleans, who was later credited with introducing the spoils system as seventh President of the United States, would be sufficiently honored in this way.

Other cities, including Kansas City, a Democratic stronghold, have also rejected the plan and are making similar arrangements for observing the day. In Washington, where President Roosevelt will speak, diners will pay $5 a plate. It was announced that $5 of this amount will go for food and $45 will be turned over to the National Committee.

Norton registered at the hotel Wednesday. He was in the city on Government business.

Richard N. Mather, also of Fort Worth, a senior attorney with the commission, said: "I talked to the boy about 1 a. m. this morning and he was in good spirits. He was not despondent."

Mather said Norton was graduated from the University of Texas and received his law degree at George Washington University. He had been with the commission for several months.

ORDERED TO PAY 44 BONDS

Nickel Plate Had Refused to Compensate Two Owners.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Supreme Court Justice John L. Walsh today ordered the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Co. (Nickel Plate) to cash 44 $1000 bonds for two owners who were refused payment when the bonds fell due on Oct. 1, last.

The bonds were issued on Oct. 1, 1933, and matured in three years. When payment was not made Oct. 1, the owners carried the claim to the State courts. The railroad first resisted on technical grounds and when that was overruled, a general denial of the charges was entered but admission was made that the two plaintiffs had not been paid.

GOVERNMENT JOINS IN TEST OF COAL ACT

Moves for Early Decision on Validity of Guffey Law "in Public Interest."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Government today joined the request for a Supreme Court ruling on constitutionality of the Guffey coal control act asked for earlier this week by James Walter Carter.

Shortly after 19 Kentucky coal operators had filed two petitions asking for a constitutional test of the law, the Government, through Solicitor-General Stanley Reed, agreed to the Carter request for a high court decision without awaiting action in intermediate courts.

John Dickinson, Assistant Attorney-General in charge of anti-trust cases, said the Government also would consent to the plea of the Kentucky operators that they be allowed to join in the suit. This would bring before the court at the same time the two suits in which District Judges have ruled on the constitutionality of the Guffey act.

Carter protested a ruling by the District of Columbia Supreme Court which upheld the soft coal act except as to wage and hour provisions. The Government filed a cross-appeal, protesting the lower court's ruling, which freed the Carter Company of 13 1/2 per cent in production taxes imposed against operators who do not comply with the code.

The district court restricted the Government, pending a final constitutional ruling, to collection of the 1 1/2 per cent production tax levied against complying operators.

The Government brief today said "the bituminous coal industry will remain uncertain as to the effect of the act until its validity is determined by this court," adding: "In view of these considerations, it seems clear that it is in the public interest to have an early decision."

The 19 Kentucky operators operate in the Marlan County field. They asked for a reversal of a ruling by the Western Kentucky Federal District Court upholding the law.

MAN ENDS LIFE WITH POISON

John Dauer Tells Daughter-in-Law: "I've Been Sick Long Time."

John Dauer, 64-year-old laborer, walked into the kitchen of his home at 1051A Gay avenue at 11:20 a. m. today and told his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Cecelia Dauer: "I just drank some poison. I want to die. I've been sick for years."

He was rushed to City Hospital and died there an hour and a half later.

Real Estate Men on Stand.

Three real estate men testified today about the realty deal, which involved the trade by Frank of the Magazine and Press buildings, in which there was a $75,000 mortgage, for what was then the City fall of the suburbs. These witnesses were Eugene D. Ruth Jr., who was favor of University City when the transaction was consummated; Wade H. Bush, agent for Frank in the deal, and John W. Lewis, agent for the Magazine Building for years.

All said they did not know Mrs. Hansel and that she had had nothing to do with the deal, so far as they knew. Bush insisted he handled it without help from anyone and received a $100,000 fee. Before Frank, Lewis said he handled this as a personal matter for Frank, with no agreed rate of commission, and was not paid, but did file a claim against the estate. Asked about the reference Mrs. Hansel made to Arthur W. Kuhlmann, Building Commissioner when Ruth was Mayor, in connection with the trade, Ruth declared Kuhlmann had no official duty in the matter.

Other Witnesses.

Clarence M. Turley, manager of the Missouri Theater Building, related, as a defense witness, that Mrs. Hansel called on him about arrangements when Dr. Hansel was behind in rent for his office in the building in 1929. She told him, Turley said, that she had given Frank a record since 1904 for traces of anything belonging to Mrs. Hansel, but he said there was no record of Frank having any of her property, although a ledger mentioned a trust fund in which the Hansels placed their income for time.

Edwin B. Meisner, 824 Forsyth boulevard, president of the St. Louis Car Co. and one of the executors of Frank's estate, was the first defense witness. He testified the executors had been unable to find the will, which the plaintiff asserted Frank kept her investments, or any evidence that he held property of hers or paid her income on investments. Contradicting a statement by Mrs. Hansel that she became excited once when calling on him, he said he did not notice any excitement, but that, in urging him to have her claim allowed, she had called him her "rock of Gibraltar."

Housekeeper's Deposition.

A deposition by Mrs. Bernadine Marquis of New York, formerly Frank's housekeeper, was read to the jury. She told about a motor trip to Virginia in the autumn of 1928, on which she and Mrs. Hansel and Mrs. Frank were traveling. Before the plaintiff's marriage to Dr. Hansel, Frank made a present of a $1000 Liberty bond to Mrs. Marquis and a similar gift to Mrs. Hansel, the deponent said. She asserted that Frank paid bills for her and for Mrs. Hansel, until the latter's marriage.

Asked whether Frank was affectionate with Mrs. Hansel on their trip, Mrs. Marquis said: "They used to kiss each other good morning and good night." She related that Frank would introduce her and Mrs. Hansel as his nieces. She was asked "If the kisses of Frank and Mrs. Hansel were more affectionate than those of uncle and niece. 'It was a little more affectionate than a niece-and-uncle kiss,'" she declared.

Mrs. Hansel's "Soul Kisses."

"I knew Mr. Frank never liked to kiss," she went on, "because I

Mrs. Arthur Reisman Found Guilty of Manslaughter—New York Jury Out 14 Hours.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Mrs. Arthur Reisman, 35 years old, was convicted today of first degree manslaughter for the killing of Virginia Seigh, her husband's secretary. The verdict carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison. The jury deliberated more than 14 hours before agreeing on a verdict recommending mercy.
Mrs. Reisman was returned to jail pending her sentencing Dec. 23. Her husband, beauty parlor operator, who took the Seigh girl to live in his home, sobbed.
Mrs. Reisman, tried on a second-degree murder indictment, was charged with shooting Miss Seigh to death Aug. 14 when the secretary and Reisman said they loved each other. The defense sought to prove that Mrs. Reisman shot Miss Seigh accidentally while she was trying to kill herself.

BUILDER INDICTED; ACCUSED OF FORGERY TO DEFRAUD HOLC

Leroy R. Thomas, Now a Fugitive, Charged With Falsifying Waivers of Mechanics' Liens.
An indictment returned by the September Federal grand jury against Leroy H. Thomas, Negro building contractor, 2125 Eugenia street, was made public today by District Attorney Blanton. Thomas is a fugitive, and with no immediate expectation of his capture, the prosecutor thought it best to make the case public as a warning to others.
Thomas is charged with attempting to defraud the Federal Government by presenting to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation forged waivers of mechanics' liens on a house on Hickory street, which he had built, and on which the owner was obtaining a loan. He had a claim of $445.50 against the HOLC for his work on the house, and in the attempt to obtain the money, it was charged that he forged the names of three men who held mechanics' liens, amounting to $182, making it appear that they had signed waivers.
A checkup led to discovery of the forgeries, and Thomas was notified to appear at the local HOLC office. Instead, he went to Cleveland, then to New York, where he disappeared.

DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST LEAD COMPANY DISMISSED

Man Sought $25,000, Alleging Two Investigators Assaulted Him at Potosi Last August.
A suit for $25,000 damages filed Dec. 12 by John Miller against the National Lead Co., James A. Casleton, is managing officer, and Theodore Link and Hugh Wright, investigators for the company, was dismissed in Circuit Judge Hogan's court Wednesday.
Miller alleged he suffered personal injuries at the hands of Link and Wright, who, he said, assaulted him at Potosi, Mo., last August. He said they acted as agents for their employers, their mission being to obtain statements in reference to damage claims against the company. The dismissal of the case stopped the taking of depositions, which had been requested by the defendants.

Mrs. Hansel has asserted this was the check for oil property which she gave Frank to invest. Cross-examination of Mrs. Hansel was being to obtain statements in reference to damage claims against the company. The dismissal of the case stopped the taking of depositions, which had been requested by the defendants.

Mrs. James Kelly, 6234 Fairmount avenue, Pine Lawn, who was cashier at Hotel Chase when Mrs. Hansel resided there before her marriage to the doctor, was the last witness for the plaintiff. She said Mrs. Hansel had shown her a check for $34,000 in 1924. "I suppose," Mrs. Kelly remarked, "she wished to prove she had money, because I was in arrears at the hotel,"

RELIEF LEADERS DISCUSS GRAVE RELIEF PROBLEM

St. Louis Group Agreed Federal Aid Must Continue, States Must Set Up Permanent Units.

The active heads of public and private relief agencies of St. Louis got together yesterday at the Bishop Tuttle Memorial to discuss the grave situation which has arisen in the relief program as a result of the Federal Government's decision not to allot more money for direct relief.

They were agreed that the WPA could not absorb all of the "employables" who have been on relief rolls; that in many instances direct relief is needed to supplement the wages of WPA workers, most of whom are paid only $55 a month; that Federal aid to the States for relief must be continued; and that states and their political subdivisions must set up permanent public relief departments.

Handship which has accompanied the transition from the Federal Government's relief activity from direct aid to work relief under the WPA has brought protests recently from the unemployed, from the Welfare Guild, representing the employees of relief agencies, and from the Church Federation's Social Service Commission, which termed relief as now administered "woefully inadequate and in many instances almost debasing."

Speakers at Meeting.
The meeting yesterday, attended by about 100 social workers, was held under the auspices of the family and child welfare department of the Community Council.

The speakers were: Peter Kasius, director of United Charities; Miss Caroline Bedford, director of the relief division of the St. Louis Relief Administration; Miss Frieda Romalis, executive secretary of the Jewish Social Service Bureau and P. H. Byrns, executive secretary of the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

Byrns said nearly every city in the country faces the same problem that confronts St. Louis. No one knows, he said, whether the Federal Government intends definitely to limit its relief activity to a works program. The uncertainty, he added, makes it difficult to get prompt action from states and communities.

The Government should clarify its policy and state definitely whether it intends to assume responsibility for only 70 per cent of the relief of the unemployed, or whether it intends to take up the balance of the cost of supplementary relief for thousands of families whose work wages are woefully inadequate.

Confusion Due to Transition.
Kasius, after summarizing the relief situation here up to the present, predicted that the question of relief will be an important issue in the coming presidential campaign. The present confusion, however, is only temporary, since it marks the transition from direct relief to work relief, he said.

A work relief program without any provision for direct relief is unsatisfactory, Kasius said. "Good works projects can be developed in St. Louis employing 10,000 or 12,000 men, but beyond that there is padding results in public criticism and the men begin to feel they are not really working."

Miss Edith Baker, head of the social service department of the Washington University clinics, who was chairman of the meeting, estimated that 22,095 families will be on relief next year in the city and county. It will cost $31,499 a month to take care of them.

There were 45,665 relief cases in the city and county Dec. 1. Of those, 28,000 who receive WPA jobs will be dropped from the rolls. There will remain 17,534 cases and, in addition, there will be about 4000 new cases, Miss Baker pointed out. "One sixth of the families here are on relief, but the other five-sixths cannot see the seriousness of the situation as we do," said Miss Bedford, the following speaker.

Last winter, she said, the St. Louis Relief Administration had to cut budgets of families 30 per cent. "This meant almost no provision for education and diets with only canned milk, the cheapest cuts of meat and the coarsest vegetables. Relief needs have continued to mount and since April we have felt the pinch more and more."

"Of the 60,000 children on relief, about 3000 or 4000 cannot go to school because they haven't enough clothing. About a fourth of the needs of families on relief cannot be met."

Decrease in Staff.
"There is added pressure from the increase in families applying for aid and the pressure, too, because of our decreased staff. We used to have 70 families for each visitor. Then it rose to 100, to 125, to 175 and now it is about 250 families for each visitor."

Miss Romalis said the progress of public aid agencies is being seriously hampered by the present situation. "So long as the public agency is not able to give even full relief to its clients, and so long as the community either in the person of the client or the contributor comes to the private agency with situations in which some immediate assistance must be given, the private agency is being seriously retarded in its development," she said.

MOTORCYCLE RIDER KILLED IN COLLISION WITH TAXICAB

Lee Healy Thrown From Seat by Impact; Head Strikes Door of Machine.

Lee Healy, 28 years old, 5050 Union boulevard, was fatally injured at 1:45 p. m. today when his motorcycle crashed into the side of a taxicab at Lexington and Taylor avenue in the second accident of the kind he had in the last month.

Thrown from his seat by the impact, his head crashed against the door of the cab and he fell to the street. He died at 3 p. m. at Christian Hospital. The driver of the cab was Roosevelt Richardson, a Negro, 3749 Windsor place. Healy formerly was a messenger for the Walgreen Drug Co., but had worked only a few days since suffering a scalp injury in a similar crash Nov. 22.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT JR. HURT WHEN HIS AUTO HITS TREE

Taken to Hospital With Another Harvard Student After Accident.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Dec. 20.—Kermit Roosevelt Jr., 20 years old, of Oyster Bay, L. I., a grandson of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, was injured today as his automobile skidded from the Arborway in the Jamaica Plain district, into a tree. He was taken to Forest Hills Hospital.

With him was William Burnham, 20, of Brookline, a classmate at Harvard, who also was taken to the hospital.
Both were held for treatment, their injuries, however, were described as "not serious" by hospital surgeons, who said Roosevelt suffered lacerations of the face and body and severe shock, and Burnham suffered cuts and bruises and both suffered slight concussions of the brain.

The car skidded from the Arborway near Prince street, colliding with a tree.

HIDEOUT WHERE MILNE WAS HELD REPORTED FOUND

Federal Agents Examine Deserted Farmhouse Near Doylestown, Pa., for Clues in Kidnaping.

By the Associated Press.
DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Dec. 20.—A deserted farmhouse, believed to have been the hideout of kidnapers who seized Caleb J. Milne IV, grandson of a wealthy retired textile manufacturer, was searched for clues by Federal agents today. Information furnished by Milne, it was said, led the officers to the place, a two-and-a-half-story dwelling in the Wrightstown farming country, 10 miles from here.

The agents were able to question Milne in his hospital room last evening, after a day in which only members of his family were permitted to see him.

It was learned Milne told them four men had lured him into an automobile last Saturday and had blindfolded him and told him: "You're going to stay with us and keep your mouth shut, too, if you know what's good for you."

Bound and Drugged.
Milne was quoted as saying they slapped his face, injected narcotics into his arm with needles, taped his eyes and lips, trussed his arms and fed him only once in the four days he was held captive.

He spoke with difficulty, it was said. Physicians said he still was ill from the narcotics, shock and exposure. They reported they had found 25 hypodermic-needle marks on Milne's right arm.

Agents quoted Milne as saying he left his apartment in New York Saturday to meet a "Dr. Green of Gracie Square," who telephoned him his grandfather, Caleb J. Milne Jr., was "very ill" in Philadelphia. Three other men joined young Milne and "Dr. Green" and all started for Philadelphia in an automobile, the agents continued.

At Summit, N. J., the car was turned into a side road and one of the men said to Milne: "You're not going to see any doctor."

The first thing they did, he said, was to blindfold him. He said he believed the car sped through Somerville, N. J., crossed the Delaware River at Phillipsburg into Pennsylvania and from there turned down toward Wrightstown and the hideout.

"They struck the first needle into me Sunday," the agents quoted Milne as saying.

It has been learned that Federal agents have been checking highways and lanes in the vicinity of Wrightstown.
Milne was found, drugged, trussed and gagged, in a roadside ditch Wednesday night. The Department of Justice has announced the kidnapers released him without collecting the ransom they demanded from his grandfather.

A hat and coat believed to have been worn by Milne the day he disappeared from New York have been found behind a school house near the spot where he was picked up by motorists.

Visited by Relatives.
Milne's grandfather returned to his estate in the Germantown section of Philadelphia late yesterday, saying it was not known when Milne could be taken home. Milne's grandmother and aunt, Anita Smith, visited him yesterday afternoon.

Harold J. Nathan, assistant to Chief J. Edgar Hoover of the Bureau of Investigation in Washington, came to Doylestown to take charge of the investigation.

COMMUNITY CHEST GIFTS UP

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Community Chests and Councils, Inc., says that social welfare agencies in 217 American cities have received almost 5 per cent more in subscriptions this fall than last, although only a third of the cities raised the amounts fixed as goals.

Community Chests in 204 cities showed a 4.5 per cent increase in contributions, with three-fourths of the chests improving their figures over those of 1934. It was the first time since 1931 that gifts showed an increase. Average degree of campaign success, says the organization, was 92.8 per cent. Fall drives netted $43,508,368, more than half of the approximately $75,000,000 raised by all chests in a year.

DRUNKEN DRIVER FINED $100

Eldon Proffer, a merchant, 2245A Sullivan avenue, was fined $100 by Circuit Judge William S. Connor today on his plea of guilty of driving while intoxicated. He was arrested Oct. 19 after his car struck the rear of another at Marcus and Natural Bridge avenues.

EX-HUSBAND CALLED IN THELMIA TODD DEATH

Grand Jury Foreman Wants to Question Him About Life With Her.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—George W. Rochester, foreman of the grand jury, announced last night he had gathered evidence which strongly indicated Thelma Todd may have been a victim of "murder by monoxide."

The body of Miss Todd, a movie actress, was found behind the wheel of her automobile in her garage Monday morning. An inquest verdict called her death from carbon monoxide "probably accidental," but recommended further investigation.

Rochester announced he had issued a subpoena for Miss Todd's ex-husband, Pasquale Di Cicco, "to learn whether there was anything in Miss Todd's life that might lead him to believe she was murdered." Di Cicco left here for New York Tuesday, the day after Miss Todd's body was found, saying he was going East to spend the holidays with relatives.

He, a wealthy sportsman, was divorced from Miss Todd in 1934, after a two-year marriage. Although not a member of the same party, Di Cicco had been at the Cafe Trocadero in Hollywood Saturday night shortly before police believe Miss Todd died.

Friends said Miss Todd showed a marked change in spirits—from gay to somber—after visiting a table at which Sid Grauman, theatrical man, and three other persons were seated. Shortly afterward she departed.

Other aspects of the case included extortion threats which had aroused Miss Todd's fears to such a pitch she urged her chauffeur to drive homeward at breakneck speed, and the possibility that the emphy of professional gamblers was stirred by reports that gambling was contemplated at Miss Todd's cafe at Santa Monica.

TWO SUITS PROPOSED
AS UTILITY ACT TESTS

7 Companies Offer to Consolidate Their Cases Against Government.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—A formal proposal was made by seven public utility companies yesterday for two suits to test the holding company act.

The utilities, in a brief filed in District of Columbia Supreme Court, offered to consolidate their suits. The Government has asked that action be stayed pending a decision on the act's constitutionality by the United States Supreme Court in a case filed by the Securities Commission against Electric Bond & Share Co. in New York.

The brief cited Attorney-General Cummings, announced intention to ask for dismissal of more than 40 other suits filed by utilities in courts outside the capital on the ground that Washington officials cannot be sued except in the local courts.

"Surely, two suits," the brief added, "one of the Government's choosing brought in New York, and one brought by certain of the plaintiffs in this court, each presenting a different situation to which this act applies, are not a multiplicity of suits and do not threaten the prosecution of the Government departments."

Shortly before the brief was filed, however, Cummings told reporters that the Government would insist on limiting the holding company test to the Electric Bond and Share case.

"We can't try but one utilities system at a time," he said. "These utility holding companies are tremendous affairs."

The utilities' brief contended that the law was "drafted ingeniously to paralyze the plaintiffs if they do not register, and to quarter them if they do." As the first step toward administration of the law, all holding companies were ordered to register with the SEC by Dec. 1, but most of the larger systems declined to do so on the ground that this might impair their legal challenge to the law's validity.

The seven utilities argued that their cases involved constitutional questions which would not be decided in the case singled out by the Government for the Supreme Court test.

While Electric Bond is a "management" company, they contended, their firms are strictly "holding" companies—without control over operations, management or investments of subsidiaries.

"The mere presence of the act on the statute books," is causing the companies "present irreparable injury," the brief asserted.

"Until the act shall have been declared unconstitutional as to them, plaintiffs will remain under the jeopardy of dissolution and the dismemberment of their properties. The voting rights of their securities and those of their subsidiaries will be clouded by uncertainty. They will be subject always to the threat of drastic regulation which will destroy or curtail their rights to control and manage their business and properties. As a result, their credit and their ability to finance their legitimate operations and undertakings are adversely affected."

nance their legitimate operations and undertakings are adversely affected."

The Government has until Monday to reply to the brief. Justice Jennings Bailey then will rule on the Government's motion for the stay.

The seven companies involved are: The United Light & Power, United Light & Railway Co., Continental Gas & Electric Corporation, American Light & Traction Co., the Tennessee Electric Power Co., the North American Co. and American Water Works & Electric Co., Incorporated.

To Campaign for Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Oscar L. Chapman, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, yesterday obtained an indefinite leave of absence to take part in President Roosevelt's campaign for re-election in Colorado and the West. The announcement was made by Secretary of the Interior Ickes. Chapman later explained that in addition to aiding the Democratic ticket, he would be active in behalf of Senator Costigan's campaign for re-election in Colorado.

COLLECTION AGENCY'S LEGAL FEES LISTED

Hearing of Suit Charging Practicing of Law Is Concluded.

Hearing of a quo warranto suit charging C. S. Dudley & Co., a collection agency of 1218 Olive street, with practicing law without a license was concluded today at the Civil Courts Building before Du Val Smith of St. Joseph, Special Commissioner for the State Supreme Court. The hearing began yesterday.

No testimony was taken, but a statement of the activities of the company were incorporated into a statement of facts filed with the Commissioner, and to be submitted, with his findings, to the Supreme Court Feb. 6. The suit was filed Sept. 18 by the Attorney-General, as a test case. Boyle G. Clark of Columbia, general chairman of the State's 38 bar disciplinary committees, attended the hearing, assisting the Attorney-General's office.

Denies Agency Practiced Law.
The hearing was concluded with the statements of attorneys in the case. Charles P. Williams, representing C. S. Dudley & Co., told the Commissioner that he did not see how it was possible for the Supreme Court to lay down rules, legislative in character, restricting the activities of business firms not functioning as lawyers. The collection agency, he said, in referring claims to lawyers, had merely acted as agents, and had not engaged in practice of law.

Clark contended that the company, by referring claims to lawyers, was in the position of soliciting business and turning it over to lawyers, and that such practices were not authorized in view of court decisions prohibiting corporations from referring clients to lawyers representing those corporations, with the intent of profiting by such an arrangement. Assistant Attorney-General Franklin Reagan said that while a collection agency had a right to collect claims for clients, it should not venture into the field of law, by referring cases to lawyers, and acting, as he termed it, in the capacity of associate counsel.

Lists of fees charged by the agency and attorneys to whom it referred cases, when collections could not be made through the company adjusters, were presented for the record by M. M. Kahn, secretary of the agency yesterday. The lawyers' fees were outlined as follows: 9 per cent of the first $500 collected; 8 per cent for all amounts between $500 and $1000; 2 per cent for amounts in excess of $1000; $4.50 for amounts between $15 and $50, and 30 per cent of amounts less than $15.

The company's fees were 6 per cent of the first $500; 4 per cent for amounts between $500 and $1000; 2 per cent for amounts in excess of $1000; $3 for amounts between $15 and $50, and 20 per cent for amounts less than $15. All fees were contingent upon collection of the accounts. In cases where no attorneys were engaged, the agency charged amounts equivalent to their fees and the lawyers' fees combined.

Turning Over of Claims.
It had previously been brought out that since last Oct. 23 the agency did not turn claims over to attorneys until after the client had been notified and requested to designate a lawyer. If the client failed to name an attorney the company engaged one, according to Williams. Questioning of J. E. Pitts, vice-president of the company, brought out that in the period from July 1 last to Oct. 23 last, 500 claims were filed with the company, of which between 40 and 50 were referred to attorneys selected by the company. Since Oct. 23, 200 claims have been taken for collection by the agency, about 12 of which were referred to attorneys. In two of the latter cases, the attorneys were selected by the customers, the rest by the company. Pitts also said that the company now has 950 active claims, of which 95 are in the hands of attorneys. Since January, 1933, Pitts

EX-HUSBAND ADMITS SEEING OLGA STECK JUMP TO DEATH

Thomas L. Matkins Released From Police Custody After Telling of Quarrel With Actress.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—Thomas L. Matkins, former husband of Olga Steck, was released from police custody yesterday, after admitting he saw the one-time Ziegfeld "Follies" beauty leap to her death from his twelfth-story hotel window, after a quarrel over money. Matkins, who previously had said he did not witness the jump, was taken in custody for questioning Wednesday night.

"I heard a swish behind me," Inspector Charles Dullea quoted Matkins as saying. "I saw her poised at the window. Before I could do anything, she went out—in a dive, just as she used to do when she was quite a swimmer."

Matkins, bond salesman and father of Miss Steck's two sons, told Dullea the quarrel was over money and his asserted refusal to allow the former musical comedy singer to remain at the hotel. The pair was divorced in Salt Lake City 17 years ago.

SURVIVES 45-DAY FAST AND ANTS EATING HIS HAND

Hindu Yogi Emerges From Sealed Tomb; Throng of Pilgrims Witness Feat.

ALLAHABAD, India, Dec. 20.—With his hand partially eaten by white ants, a Hindu Yogi emerged from a cement-sealed tomb near here after 45 days without food, water or air.

Thousands of pilgrims, in religious ecstasy, witnessed the climax of the remarkable feat, which is known as "samadhi"—the perfect absorption of thought. It is regarded as the highest endeavor of religious penance.

The Yogi, reviving from his deathlike trance on orange juice, showed little trace of fatigue or suffering beyond a white pallor.

On entering the tomb, 16 feet square and four feet high, he gave instructions that it should not be opened until the forty-fifth day, when the guard outside heard him say, "Om," the mystic name for divinity.

MAN HURT BY CONSTABLE DIES

Leonard Harston, Arkansas Farmer, Said to Have Attacked Officer.

BEEBE, Ark., Dec. 20.—Wounded last night in an altercation with Constable Tom Wright of El Paso, Ark., Leonard Eugene Harston, 29-year-old farmer of El Paso, died in a hospital here Wednesday.

Harston is alleged to have attacked the Constable after he had refused to arrest a high school coach whom he charged had engaged his brother in a fight. No charges have been filed against Wright, officers said.

said, 5000 claims have been filed with the company, 550 of which have been referred to lawyers.

Clark asked Pitts to give the company's net income last year, but Williams objected, and it was finally agreed that the average gross annual amount of claims filed with the company should be incorporated in the record instead. Pitts estimated this at $400,000. Williams stated that in most of the cases referred to attorneys, the correspondence on the cases was entirely between the lawyer and the company rather than the lawyer and the customer.

Claims Outside State.
It was also brought out in questioning of Pitts that only 8 per cent of all claims filed with the agency are filed by creditors living in Missouri against debtors residing in Missouri. Most of the claims, Pitts said, were filed against debtors residing outside of Missouri.

The State has charged that the agency split fees with attorneys engaged to obtain judgment when the company was unable to enforce payments from debtors. The company's contention, according to Williams, is that there was no fee-splitting, but separate fees were charged by attorneys and the company, in cases referred to lawyers.

The State has asked that the agency be ousted from the State and fined for the alleged violation. Assistant Attorney-General Franklin Reagan represented the State at the hearing.

PROFITS OF CITY-OWNED LIGHT PLANTS IN STATE

22 Systems Made $574,000 in Year, Survey by Kansas City Firm Shows.

A year's net profits from 22 municipal electric plants in Missouri were $574,881, as compiled and published by Burns & McDonnell Engineering Co., consulting engineers at Kansas City.

These profits were realized after providing for depreciation and for interest on outstanding bonded indebtedness against the plants. In cases where depreciation was not included in the municipality's accounting, the engineers calculated it at 4 per cent of the total plant investment.

Municipal plants do not pay taxes, and so the profits as compiled were without the deduction of tax charges such as would have been paid by privately owned plants. In a majority of the cities, however, the municipal plants supplied electricity for street lighting and other public purposes without charge, a service of substantial value and a rather large item in the operating expenses of any city which purchases the service.

Data From Questionnaires. In a few of the cities the profits included earnings of waterworks operated in connection with the electric plant. The compilations are published in a 182-page book, "Results of Municipal Light-Planting," in which the engineers give data on 415 cities in the United States and Canada. The publishers state that the data was compiled by means of questionnaires and that all public ownership cities giving adequate information were included.

The reports do not cover exactly the same 12-month period in all cases, but are for the latest fiscal year for which figures are available.

The smallest net profit given is $2 for Centuria, a city of 2009 population, and the largest is $107,708 for Columbia, with 14,967. Revenue from the waterworks is included in Columbia.

The largest city in the list is Hannibal, with a population of 22,761 and a year's profit of $94,407. Kirkwood, with population of 9169, had a net profit of $54,550, and Carthage, about the same size, a profit of $46,431.

The smallest city in the list is Gallatin with population of 1504 and net profit of $12,073 in the year. Rates Comparatively Low. Rates for electricity in most of these cities, as reported by the Federal Power Commission in a study of electric rates in Missouri cities, are comparatively low. The Power Commission has ranked the cities by population groups from low to high in charges for 25 kilowatt hours, 100 kilowatt hours and 250 kilowatt hours. Kirkwood is bracketed with two other cities having equal rates as having the lowest charged for all three kilowatt-hour groups among communities of 5000 to 10,000 population. The net charges are $1.19 for 25 kilowatt hours, $3.13 for 100 and $6.22 for 250.

Hannibal and Columbia, with net charge of $1.25 for 25 kilowatt hours have the second lowest rates for that amount of current among communities of 10,000 to 25,000 population. Marshall, with a charge of $1.25 for 25 kilowatt hours, has the second lowest rate in communities of 5000 to 10,000 population, and Chillicothe and Poplar Bluff are third in that class with charges of $1.31. Carthage, with a charge of $1.35 for 25 kilowatt hours, is fourth. All of these are municipal ownership cities.

Comparative Rates. The lowest domestic rate in the State is that of the Laclede Power & Light Co. in St. Louis, $1.07 for 25 kilowatt hours, $2.85 for 100 and $5.70 for 250. Net rates of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. in St. Louis and nearby communities are slightly higher, being $1.19 for 25 kilowatt hours, $3.13 for 100 and $6.22 for 250, the same rates as charged by the Kirkwood municipal plant.

The highest rate in cities exceeding 25,000 is in Joplin, served by a privately-owned plant, where the charge is $2 for 25 kilowatt hours, $5.75 for 100 and $10.75 for 250.

Sedalia and Moberly, also served by privately-owned plants, have the highest rates in cities of 10,000 to 25,000, and in cities of 5000 to 10,000 the highest rates are in Maryville, Nevada and Warrensburg, also served by private companies.

Among cities of 2500 to 5000 population Butler and Lebanon, with municipal plants, have the highest rates for 25 kilowatt hours, $2.35, but for 100 and 250 kilowatt hours their charges are considerably below those of the high city, Aurora, where the privately-owned plant charges $7.94 and $12.44, respectively. The cost of 100 kilowatts is $4.90 in Butler and $5.35 in Lebanon; 250 kilowatts, $9.40 in Butler and $9.66 in Lebanon. Lebanon and some other cities having municipal plants were not included in the Burns & McDonnell survey because of lack of adequate information about them.

INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL MEETING CALLED BY BERRY FOR JAN. 6

President's Co-Ordinator Says Aim Is to Work Out Plan to Further Stimulate Business.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—After a conference with President Roosevelt, George L. Berry yesterday directed his industrial council to assemble here Jan. 6 to try to work out a plan for further stimulation of business.

The President's co-ordinator for industrial co-operation told reporters on leaving the White House that the holidays had prevented an earlier meeting of the representatives of labor and industry chosen at his turbulent conference last week. Berry added that industry would be more fully represented than was indicated at the close of that conference.

"We're not closing the doors to those who declined to participate in the conference," he continued. "We would be glad to have their ideas."

Labor and industry are to have equal representation on the council.

JURY VOTES DEATH PENALTY FOR MAN IN MURDER OF SIX

Leo Hall, Ex-Fugitive, Convicted; Woman Co-Defendant Who Accused Him, Freed.

PORT ORCHARD, Wash., Dec. 20.—Leo Hall, 33 years old, an ex-fugitive and former ministerial student, was convicted yesterday of the murder of six persons at Erland's Point in March, 1934. The jury recommended the death penalty.

Mrs. Peggy Peterson Paulos, his co-defendant, whose signed statement caused Hall's arrest two months ago, was acquitted. She testified Hall forced her to accompany him to Erland's Point on a robbery venture, and that she helped him bind the six persons, later found shot, beaten and cut to death.

Mrs. Paulos and Hall were

CORPORATION REPORT FORMS MADE PUBLIC

Securities Exchange Commission Wants Detailed Information Never Before Sought.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20. — The form under which most of the nation's corporations must publish annual financial data for the information of investors and stockholders was made public yesterday by the Securities Exchange Commission.

Although highly technical, the new form and rules for its use are considered important by SEC officials. "Never before have corporations been required to give such detailed information."

The data is intended to help investors determine the worth of a company, the quality of its management, and how it compares with other companies in earnings and efficiency.

While not calling for uniform bookkeeping methods, the form asks for the same information of all corporations whose securities are listed on stock exchanges, unless reasons for confidential treatment exist.

The form, required by the Securities and Exchange Act, follows rules fixed previously for basic reports of corporations to the commission in order to obtain permanent listing on stock exchanges.

It is entitled "Form 10-K," where as the basic report is known as "Form 10." It eliminates considerable data called for in "Form 10," but reports on items which may change during the year. The first reports will be for the year 1935.

The commission asks for a complete financial breakdown of the company's operations during its last fiscal year.

Information on salaries of officials and directors will continue to be reported, thus, for the first time, furnishing a year to year record of changes.

COAL BOARD CALLS PRICE-FIXING HEARING

Appalachian Producers Directed to Determine Minimum Charges Within Week.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20. — The Federal Bituminous Coal Commission has directed Appalachian producers to attend a hearing, Dec. 27, to determine "the propriety of immediately establishing minimum prices to carry out the purposes of the Guffey act" and to determine "such schedules of minimum prices as are necessary to carry out the purposes of said act."

The call was issued because of declining prices, coal operators said. District boards were directed to file proposed price schedules with the commission before the hearing.

Two factors, coal men say, have caused the delay in fixing prices for the area, which produces two-thirds of the coal the country consumes annually:

(1) The numerous suits to test the constitutionality of the Guffey coal control act. Some coal men say that if they abided by code prices, they could not hope to compete with a neighboring operator who might not have to abide by code prices because he had obtained a court injunction.

(2) The technical difficulties attendant to price fixing in so large an area. A producers' committee has been working on the price schedule night and day for months, but has been delayed by technical problems.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, called this commission's call "timely and constructive."

"Price demoralization in the industry at the present time constitutes a positive menace to the wage structure," Lewis told reporters.

"Ruthless competition exists between the different groups of producers, and coal is being sold from 75 cents to one dollar a ton less than cost of production. Obviously, the industry could not long continue in this way without trying to break down the wage structure. That would be strenuously resisted by the mine workers of the country."

Disorder in Michigan Prison
Convicts Complain About Food in Noisy Demonstration.

By the Associated Press.
JACKSON, Mich., Dec. 20. — A noisy demonstration by 1600 prisoners in the dining hall of the Southern Michigan prison yesterday was quelled within an hour, prison officials announced. No one was injured.
Banging dishes and shouting complaints about their food, the convicts demanded that Warden Charles Shean hear their grievance personally. Shean tasted the food and ordered that it be replaced. The prisoners completed their meal, but became unruly again when they were ordered to leave the prison yard and return to their cells. A call was sent for State police and city officers, but prison guards broke up the demonstration without outside help.

RAILROAD LABOR PLEA FOR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

"Only Way Out of Morass in Which Roads Have Been Placed by Bankers."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Government ownership of railroads was urged last night by the Railway Labor Executives' Association as "the only way out of the morass in which the roads have been placed by the bankers."

In a circular sent to all Congressmen, the association said that "so long as the roads are used as chips in a financial poker game—the cards being stacked against the little fellow—there can result only increased difficulties for the railroads and a continuation of practices" which were said to endanger equities in railroad stocks and bonds.

A bill providing for Government ownership is pending in the Senate. It was introduced last session by Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, who said he would not press for immediate action.

Wall street financiers, the rail way labor leaders charged, were shown by a court investigation this year to have wrecked the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad a "once prosperous" carrier.

The circular contended that road's funds had been siphoned into Wall street to such an extent that the carrier's president testified "we had as high as 25 rail breaks in 23 hours because of old rails."

"Thus it appears, not only were the fortunes of investors jeopardized by the manipulations of the Wall street financiers but also were the lives of employees and the traveling public placed in jeopardy by their greed and desire for increased profits," the association said.

"That banker control of your roads, with its constant demand for rake-offs, has caused and causes continuous loss of positions by employees—some hundreds of thousands before 1929 and hundreds of thousands since the depression, all of which had its part in bringing on the depression and intensifying that depression.

"That control by bankers has prevented and still prevents the full development of the service your roads are capable of rendering; has aided and financed competitors, and acts as a brake upon management in its efforts to make the roads the great agencies of commerce they were intended to be."

"The Government really built the roads, allowed the service so necessary to the public interest to be used as money making machines for a few financiers and their hangers-on, lent them money when they were in difficulties caused by that coterie of financial buccaneers—and is again lending them money. Is it not high time that this vicious circle was ended?"

MEDORA ROOSEVELT COMMENTS ON HER COMING OUT PARTY

On Her Coming Out Party Says in Radio Address That Men Are Most Interested in Food and Liquor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The young men gathered at coming out parties as matrimonial prospects for debutantes are merely hungry and thirsty, Medora Roosevelt, 17 years old; daughter of the George Eliot Roosevelt, second cousin of the late Theodore Roosevelt and distant kin of the man now in the White House, said in a radio interview yesterday.

Miss Roosevelt was commenting on her own coming out party at the Hotel Ritz-Carlton, Jan. 3.

"There will be about 150 persons there, and I don't suppose I'll know more than 50 of them," she said.

"The average man who dashes around to deb parties has no matrimonial intentions—he's more interested in free liquor and food."

She found the exactions of a girl's first year out far from enchanting, she said. Her summation of a debutante's life involved scant sleep, pestiferous calls from florists, photographers and sales persons, frantic dressing for engagements, wearying dances and parties ending with a hamburger sandwich near dawn.

WILD LIFE CONFERENCE CALLED BY ROOSEVELT

Co-operation Between Agencies Is Aim—Missouri Entitled to 30 Delegates.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Bldg. WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—President Roosevelt announced today that he had called a North American Wild Life conference to meet in Washington Feb. 3 to 7 under the direction of F. A. Silcox, chief of the Federal Forestry Service. The object of the conference will be the adoption of a program for closer co-operation between governmental agencies, conservation organizations and individuals for the restoration of wild life on the North American continent. The President said that he doubted if the conference would recommend Federal legislation.

More than 1000 persons are expected to attend the conference, the President said. The Governor of each state will be invited to attend in person or to send a representative. Each state will be entitled to twice as many delegates as it has Senators and Congressmen. These delegates, the President explained, will be elected by conservation organizations within the states. Under the plan, Missouri is entitled to 30 delegates in addition to the Governor or his representative.

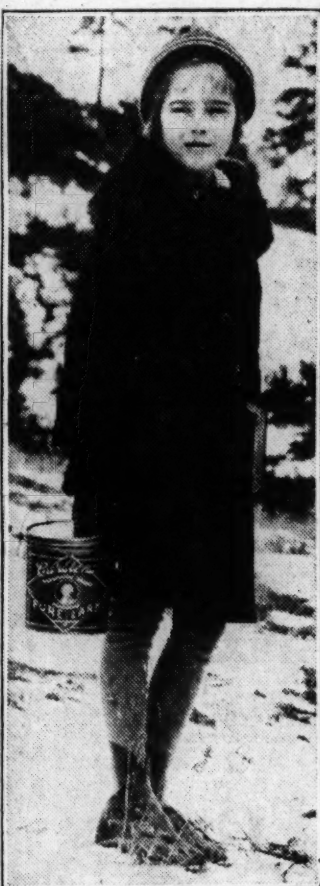

The Federal Government will be represented by officials from the agencies whose duties include the restoration and conservation of land, water, forests and wild life. Representatives are also expected from Canada and Mexico.

General meetings and scientific group studies will be held during the conference. The President said that he did not think he would address any of the meetings.

Asked whether the conference had been called because of the recent activities of Jay N. Darling, former chief of the Biological Survey, who has repeatedly charged that he could not get co-operation within the Federal Government for wild life conservation, President Roosevelt said that the meeting was the result of the impetus given to wild life conservation by "Ding."

While in and out of office, Darling charged that the lack of co-operation among the Federal agencies was resulting in an alarming decrease in American wild life. He specifically charged that the mosquito control programs of Relief Administration Hopkins and the visit to Paris.

hydro-electric projects of Secretary of the Interior Ickes were depriving bird life of natural feeding grounds. When the charges were brought to the President's attention today and he was asked whether these problems would be met by the conference, he replied that they would be considered indirectly.

Frank Hoffmeister, 33 years old, an oiler at the Baden Waterworks, killed himself with a shotgun in a borrowed automobile in Calvary Cemetery yesterday. The body, in the back seat of the machine, was found in the afternoon by a cemetery employee. He had been shot in the head.

Hoffmeister, who lived with his parents at 8918 Halls Ferry road, obtained the gun from a roomer at his home, and borrowed the automobile from a friend, explaining that he wanted to go Christmas shopping. During the day he visited his wife, Mrs. Gladys Hoffmeister, who resides at 2342 Dodier street.

BOLIVIA'S CAPITAL CONGESTED BY DEMOBILIZED SOLDIERS

By The Associated Press. LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 20.—This city on the Andes plateau, one of the smaller South American capitals, is suffering from overpopulation as a result of demobilization following the Chaco War with Paraguay.

The last census showed La Paz to have 160,000 residents. But since the war ended in June, an additional 20,000 have come to La Paz. As a result rooming houses are at a premium. Several organizations have urged the city government to oblige owners of vacant lots to build by taxing idle land heavily and new houses lightly.

BECK ASSAILS TVA AS "SOCIALISTIC" IN SUPREME COURT

Argues U. S. Rights Over Rivers Extend Only to Navigation and Not to Power Production.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Final Government arguments before the Supreme Court today on the Tennessee Valley Act narrowed to the question whether its primary purpose was to aid navigation.

"If the primary purpose was to develop and sell power, it (the law) would be invalid," said Solicitor-General Stanley Reed.

James M. Beck, a former Solicitor-General, carried the burden of final attack on the constitutionality of the act on behalf of 14 preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power Co.

Reed, who collapsed recently while arguing the validity of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act, said TVA was started "in good faith" to improve navigation.

The Government's position is that the production of power sold from Muscle Shoals is incidental to navigation improvement.

Justice Brandeis Questions Beck. Justice Brandeis asked Beck if he had been able to find any cases in which preferred stockholders had been permitted to challenge a contract as in the dispute being argued.

Beck said he saw no difference between the preferred and common stockholders and that the company itself would be "completely destroyed" by the TVA.

Explaining what he considered the issue, he said: "The Government has no title to the waters. They belong to the State, in which they are located, subject only to the Government's right to use them for purposes of navigation."

"We deny that the Government can make any use of property in which it has only an easement." "We admit the right of the Government to 'dispose' of its property, but we deny that under such power of disposal, it can make a continuing manufacturing use of its property for non-Federal purposes."

"We also deny that the Federal Government has an absolute and unqualified title in navigable waters simply because it constructs a dam to improve their navigability. These belong, in each state through which they flow, to the states respectively, subject only to the power of the Federal Government in good faith to improve navigability."

"The theory that the Government has rights in respect to its property, which it does not enjoy without such property, is a pernicious constitutional heresy."

"Humiliating Chapter in History." Beck called the TVA a "humiliating chapter" in history. Copies of his speech were distributed to newspaper men as he started.

He said his clients were "being thrown to the wolves," the company would be "annihilated," and that "this presents a case of administrative malevolence."

"If," he said, "the Federal Government can invade, in the large field of electricity, six sovereign states, usurping their reserve powers in respect to basic industry and substituting Federal officials for local officials, and Federal laws for state laws, it can do so with a greater number of states and in respect to industries that are even more important."

"To preserve this line of demarcation that is so vital to the perpetuity of the Union is the august function of this great tribunal. Let it beware of such an entering wedge as the approval of this unprecedented Socialistic scheme would be."

Argument Yesterday. During arguments yesterday by Forney Johnston of Birmingham, Ala., attorney for the stockholders, and by John Lord O'Brien of New York, attorney for TVA, Justices asked many questions.

Justice McReynolds questioned the TVA lawyer on the right of the Government to sell surplus power produced by Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals.

"Do you think the Government can spend an unlimited amount of money to produce electric power and sell it all over the country in competition with private industry, unregulated and beyond the power of the State to control?" he asked. "I think that's correct," O'Brien replied.

"The price may be high or low," McReynolds said. "It may break up every public utility in the State." "That is not the purpose," said O'Brien.

"That's the effect," McReynolds commented. "Can the Federal Government do that?"

Right to Sue Questioned. On the other hand, Justices Brandeis and Stone inquired into the right of minority stockholders of the Alabama Power Co. to file the suit which led to the Supreme Court test. These stockholders sought to enjoin performance of a contract under which the company was to sell lines to TVA for transmission of power.

Brandeis asked Johnston on what "allegation" and "court findings" the lawyer based his statement that rights of minority stockholders had been threatened.

Johnston said lower courts had declined to hear testimony on the valuation of the transmission lines. Brandeis, at one point in the questioning, said: "I am still struggling with the question on whether you have a right to complain." At another point, counsel for the stockholders insisted his clients would be damaged by the contract because the power company was in danger of "annihilation" as a result of TVA activities.

HOPKINS INDICATES WPA WILL AID MISSOURI ON PENSIONS

Authorizes "Studies" in Various States to Analyze Applications for Allowance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Missouri will be able to get WPA funds to help set up the State old age pension system, Harry L. Hopkins, WPA Administrator, indicated at his press conference yesterday.

Hopkins said that he had authorized several "studies" to analyze applications for old age pensions, to be carried out with Federal funds in the states. He added that WPA funds would not be available for administering the pension system.

Recently W. Ed. Jameson, head of the Missouri Eleemosynary Board, and State Commissioner Allen M. Thompson, in charge of the State's old age pension system, drafted a plan for a study project, such as Hopkins referred to, in cooperation with WPA experts here. They took the plan to Missouri with them in order to submit it to the routine way through Matthews Murray, State Works Progress Administrator.

Old age pension applications in Missouri are expected to total 100,000, and Jameson and Thompson reported that their staff was inadequate to pass on these applications in time to get the pension system started.

ASSESSMENT ON STOCKHOLDERS OF CLOSED BANKS UPHOLD

Illinois Supreme Court Declares It Is Not Necessary to Prove All Claims.
 SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 20.—The State Supreme Court yesterday held that it is not necessary that all claims be proved by creditors of a closed bank in order to decide the amounts due the individual stockholders.
 In a decision written by Justice Paul Farthing, and concurred in by Justices Clyde E. Stone, Norman

L. Jones and Francis S. Wilson, the Court upheld the constitutionality of the State Banking Act pertaining to assessment of stockholders. The opinion was in a case appealed from the Circuit Court of Kankakee County by stockholders of the American Trust & Savings Bank. They were defendants in a suit brought by creditors who asked for an assessment against 173 stockholders. The lower court ordered the assessment, overruling the contention of the defendants that before such an assessment could be made the Master in Chancery must require creditor claims to be proved.

The decision affirmed the lower court decree. The Court held unconstitutional the law providing that on bank checks issued but not collected before the bank on which they were drawn is closed the receivers shall return the checks to the presenting bank.

FIVE QUESTIONED IN DEATH OF ARIZONA MAN AND BRIDE

Sheriff Says Pair Were Killed, House Set Afire, Perhaps by Rejected Lover of Woman.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 20.—Officers questioned five men yesterday about the deaths of a man and his bride, at first thought to have been accidental.

Sheriff Hugh Talley said evidence indicated that Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Calderon were killed at their home near Safford and the house set afire, perhaps by a rejected lover of the 21-year-old woman. The bodies were found Sunday. Sheriff Talley came here to ascertain if bloodstains found under Mrs. Calderon's head checked with stains on the clothing of one of the men held.

WIDOW HURT BY AUTO ON WAY TO CHURCH

Mrs. Mary Wamhoff Suffers Fractured Skull and Injury to Abdomen.

Mrs. Mary Wamhoff, a widow, 3911 North Twenty-second street, was injured critically when struck by an automobile at Natural Bridge avenue and Farrar street while on her way to church at 8:30 a. m. today.

She suffered a fractured skull and an injury to the abdomen. Lee Ward, 5037 Kensington avenue, a filling station operator, reported that he was driving east in Natural Bridge avenue and Mrs. Wamhoff stepped off the curb and was hit by his machine. She is unconscious, and was identified by her son, William, who said she was about 60 years old.

William Burton, Washington University medical student, residing at a fraternity house at 4543 Forest Park boulevard, suffered a skull injury and a fractured hand in a collision between his automobile and another machine on Grand drive, in Forest Park, last night. He is in Barnes Hospital. Erwin Richter, living in St. Louis County, driver of the second car, suffered scalp wounds.

There were 23 automobile accidents in the city during the 24 hours ending at 4 a. m. today. Eleven persons were hurt.

Patient Killed, Doctor Injured When Auto Hits Truck

Frederick Glosemeyer, 67 years old, a retired farmer of Peers, Mo., was killed when the automobile in which he was riding with his physician and a nurse collided with a parked truck on Highway 40, about 15 miles west of St. Charles early last night.

The physician, Dr. H. Schmidt of Marthasville, Mo., was taking Glosemeyer home, following an X-ray examination at St. Joseph's Hospital, in St. Charles. They were accompanied by Miss Erna Haferkamp of Marthasville, a nurse employed by Dr. Schmidt.

The truck, loaded with concrete pipe, had broken down and was parked partly on the highway while the driver, John Jackson of Kansas City, Mo., went to St. Charles for a mechanic. Jackson later told a State highway patrolman he had lighted a flare behind the truck. He was held for the Coroner.

Dr. Schmidt reported that the headlights of another machine blinded him, and he failed to see the truck. His car was demolished, and it was necessary to pry the wreckage apart to remove Glosemeyer's body. Dr. Schmidt and Miss Haferkamp returned to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was pronounced suffering from internal injuries and she was treated for cuts and bruises.

MAN FINED $100 ON CHARGE OF DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

Indicted After Letter From Maj.
Lambert Who Saw Accident Last May.

Richard Dana, 54 Kingsbury place, charged in an indictment with driving while intoxicated, pleaded guilty today and was fined $100 by Circuit Judge Harry F. Russell.

His attorney, J. Marvin Krause, told Judge Russell Dana had come here from a sanitarium at Asheville, N. C., where he has been under treatment for a nervous disorder and that physicians there had recommended that he stay another six months. Dana himself told the Court, in response to inquiries, that he had quit drinking and had not "touched the wheel" of an automobile since last May.

His indictment last March resulted from the interest taken in the case by Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, who was then beginning an active campaign for traffic safety.
Maj. Lambert, vice-president of the Board of Police Commissioners, witnessed an accident in which Dana was involved and wrote to Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, stating that Dana's condition at the time was a "menace to public safety." Dana, 27 years old, is listed in the city directory as vice-president of the Monward Realty Co.

SURVEY FOR RELOCATION OF POND ROAD ORDERED

County Court to Provide Eastern Entrance for Heavy Traffic to Babler Park.

A survey for the relocation of Pond road to provide an eastern entrance for heavy traffic to Bab-ler State Park was ordered by the St. Louis County Court today.

The new road would be situated a quarter of a mile west of the present road, which is narrow and winding and ends at Wild Horse Creek road. It would start at Manchester road, circle to the northwest, skirt the park at its eastern border and end at Easterton road, near the new Superhighway No. 40 now under construction, and thus make the eastern entrance accessible from both Manchester road and the superhighway.

Mayor John D. Fels of Maplewood, chairman of the Fifty and sixty-six Highway Committee, requested the change. He said most of the property owners along the new route had agreed to donate the 100-foot right of way.

Gain in Construction Figures.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Building construction awards during the current week will aggregate $86,817,000, the highest figure in almost five years, the Engineering News-Record has announced. Acceleration of public works projects was mainly responsible for the heavy increase. This type of work accounted for $31,117,000 of the total and private awards for the balance of $55,700,000. Public awards were made up of $34,580,000 Federal projects and $21,120,000 state and municipal works. The largest individual undertaking was the $29,000,000 by Tennessee Valley Authority forces.

LANGER, ACQUITTED IN THIRD TRIAL, IS SILENT ON PLANS

Former N. Dakota Governor Blames Senator Nye; Two Co-Defendants Also Freed.

BISMARCK, N. D., Dec. 20.—Acquitted yesterday in his third trial on Federal conspiracy charges, former Gov. William Langer maintained silence concerning his political plans. The one-time Republican chief executive, who was re-nominated as his party's candidate for that post after a jury convicted him at his first trial in June, 1934, would not comment on reports that he would seek his old post.

Langer termed the 20 months' litigation which terminated in his victory an attempt to procure his "political assassination" and blamed Senator Nye for his troubles.

Langer and his two co-defendants acquitted with him—Frank Vogel, former State Highway Commissioner, and R. A. Kinzer, former executive relief secretary—were charged with conspiracy to obstruct Federal relief measures by soliciting contributions for "the leader" from workers paid with Federal money. "The leader" was an organ devoted to support of the Langer administration. Oscar Erickson, its publisher, was freed two days ago on a directed verdict from the same accusation.

The four were first convicted in June, 1934, and won a new trial on their appeal to the Federal Court. Last month a jury disagreed in their second trial. Langer was ousted from the governorship by the State Supreme Court soon after its first conviction.

MAN CONVICTED OF ASSAULT TO KILL IS ORDERED RELEASED

Illinois Supreme Court Criticizes Trial of Arthur Embien for Attack on Eli Daiches.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 20.—The Supreme Court yesterday ordered the release of Arthur Embien, convicted of assault with intent to murder Eli J. Daiches, Chicago, an advertising agency executive.

Daiches was killed in an alleged plot to collect insurance. The court reversed the verdict of the Cook County Criminal Court on the ground that Embien was not tried within the statutory period.

Embien was arrested Oct. 19, 1934, at Gary, Ind., and held four months. He was freed of a charge of conspiracy to kill when an alleged co-conspirator refused to testify against him. He was then tried on the assault charge, based on an attack made on Daiches several months before the murder. Convicted, he was sentenced to one to 14 months in prison.

The opinion said: "Officers may not thwart the provisions of the Constitution and the statute by arresting without warrant and incarcerating the prisoner without an order of commitment of some court of competent jurisdiction. The trial court was in error in not granting the defendant's petition for release from custody."

Frank C. Walker's New Job.

By the Associated Press.
SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 20.—An announcement is made here that Frank C. Walker of New York, who resigned as executive director of the National Emergency Council, has accepted the vice-presidency of Comerford Theaters, Inc. He succeeds his cousin, M. B. Comerford, who was fatally injured recently in an automobile accident. Walker, who will spend most of his time in Scranton, becomes acting head of chain of Comerford motion picture theaters in Pennsylvania and New York State. His uncle, M. E. Comerford, who is president of the corporation, is in poor health.

VALIDITY OF PROCESSING TAX ON COCONUT OIL CHALLENGED

Restraining Order Issued to Prevent Payment of $20,000,000 to Philippine Government.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Constitutionality of the processing tax on Philippine coconut oil was challenged yesterday in District Supreme Court. A temporary restraining order to prevent payment of $20,000,000 to the Commonwealth Government was issued. The order against the Comptroller-General and the Secretary of the Treasury was granted on petition of Haskins Bros. & Co., Omaha soap manufacturers, who said the United States has no power to tax for the benefit of another government.

Morrison in Charitable Corporation.
By the Associated Press.
DOVER, Del., Dec. 20.—The United States Corporation Co. filed a charter with the Secretary of State yesterday for the Elizabeth Reeve

Morrison Morgan Foundation, Inc., with Anne Morrow Lindbergh, Constance Morrow and Dwight W. Morrow Jr., all of Englewood, N. J., as incorporators. The charter has no capitalization. The objects and purposes of the corporation, as stated in the charter, are exclusively for the charitable education of children.

MILK PRICE SHOVED UP ANOTHER CENT

Second Increase in Month Boosts Cost to 12 Cents a Quart in City.

An increase of 1 cent a quart in the retail price of milk, the second such increase within a month, bringing the cost to 12 cents, was announced today by St. Louis milk distributors.

The increase restored prices to the level of before Sept. 14 when milk prices were reduced from 12 to 10 cents a quart. At that time cream prices were reduced also but the former price was restored Nov. 1.

The 1-cent increase in the price of milk announced Nov. 20, followed a public hearing on a proposed marketing agreement for the St. Louis area under the amended Agricultural Adjustment Act. Farmers asked for a continuation of the price of $2.25 a hundred pounds for milk sold as bottled milk, now being paid under a Federal milk license which would be replaced by the proposed agreement.

Testimony at Hearing. Dealers suggested a price to producers of $1.85 for bottle milk, contending they lost 2.5 cents a quart by buying at $2.25 a hundred

NEGROES TO DIRECT HOSPITAL FOR RACE

Negro Doctors Eventually to Administer Phillips Institution, Official Says.

The Homer G. Phillips Hospital for Colored, which will be opened in July, will be administered eventually by Negro physicians, who will have complete medical administrative responsibility, Dr. Ralph L. Thompson, Hospital Commissioner, said today in announcing appointment of the hospital visiting staff.

The plan, which Dr. Thompson said was unique among municipal hospitals in the country, was developed by the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, dean of the School of Medicine of St. Louis University, and the faculty of the school. It has been endorsed by the Mound City Medical Forum, society of Negro physicians.

Until Negro physicians are trained to assume the chief positions in the several medical departments of the hospital, those positions will be filled alternately by members of the faculties of the medical school of St. Louis University and Washington University. St. Louis University teachers will take the first two-year period of administration.

Father Schwitalla explained that a similar policy which has been used in the administration of St. Mary's Infirmary, Fourteenth and Papin streets, since 1933 under St. Louis University guidance, had convinced him the plan was feasible for the new hospital. At present Negro physicians have little responsibility for the medical administration of City Hospital No. 2.

Negroes would be able to assume complete responsibility for certain of the hospital departments within a few years, Dr. Thompson said. Those departments are medicine, surgery, obstetrics and gynecology. In other more specialized fields, such as neurology, pediatrics and orthopedics, the time would be longer, he said.

Dr. John W. Stewart, assistant professor of surgery in the St. Louis University School of Medicine, was appointed chief of staff for Phillips Hospital. Dr. Wallace B. Christian, a Negro, will be his assistant. Dr. Oral S. McClellan and Dr. Henry E. Hampton, both Negroes, will retain their present salaried positions as superintendent and medical director of City Hospital No. 2, respectively.

White physicians will be directors of the other departments, with a white associate, and a Negro assistant. The Negro physicians appointed assistants were nominated by the Mound City Medical Forum. St. Louis has about 100 Negro doctors.

The new staff will take over the present City Hospital No. 2 on Jan. 2. Although the visiting physicians are charged with full responsibility for the institution, they serve without compensation. The staff will meet at 8 p. m. tonight at City Hospital No. 2 to hear an explanation of the new plan by Dr. Thompson, Father Schwitalla, and others.

STUDENT ORDERED TO PAY $2 OF $10 A WEEK TO WIFE

Court Directs Him to Provide Temporary Allowance From His Allowance.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—A University of Illinois senior today was ordered to pay $2 weekly out of his $10 a week allowance from home to his student-wife, pending action on her divorce bill. The ruling was made by Judge Rudolph Desort on the application of Alice Ozment, 22 years old, Chicago, for temporary alimony from Lowell Ozment, 21, Harrisburg, Ill., to whom she was married at Paxton, Ill., June 2, 1934.

Ozment's attorney, A. C. Lewis, argued that the wife's parents were better off financially than Lowell's, but Judge Desort advised the husband to move out of his fraternity house to cheaper quarters and to get a part-time job. Mrs. Ozment charged cruelty.

CHAIN GROCERY MANAGER FINED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Harold Wheatley Pleads Guilty in Killing of Man Run Down by Automobile.

Harold Wheatley, 3639 Folsom avenue, 21-year-old manager of a chain grocery, was fined $250 by Circuit Judge William S. Connor today on a plea of guilty of manslaughter in the death of Robert Crain, 4041 McRee avenue, who was struck by Wheatley's automobile Aug. 20.

The accident occurred at Folsom and Thurman avenues. Wheatley told police he sounded his horn, but Crain failed to heed it and walked into the path of the automobile. Witnesses at the inquest testified they heard no horn and estimated Wheatley's speed at 40 miles an hour.

MAN DIES OF HIS INJURIES IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Wilmer Liebig Thrown From Car When Truck Hit It, Then Tore Hole in Church Wall.

Wilmer Liebig, 4921 Pernod avenue, assistant sales manager of the St. Louis Dairy Co., died at Jewish Hospital today of a fractured skull suffered yesterday, when his automobile collided with a coal truck at Pendleton and Garfield avenues. Liebig, 32 years old, was thrown to the street when his car crashed into a telephone pole after the collision. The truck, driven by Frank Viviano, 2427 North Whittier street, also continued across the curb and tore a hole seven feet square in the wall of a Negro church at 4301 Garfield.

MAN TESTIFIES FIRST WIFE HELPED HIM GET SECOND

Witness in $75,000 Alienation Suit Says She Posed as Sister While He Courtied.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—A story of how Norbert U. Kolb's first wife was alleged to have posed as his sister while he courted a new prospective bride for himself and shopped around for a new husband for Mrs. Kolb was related in Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher's court yesterday.

Kolb, a 42-year-old contractor, offered the story as defense in a $75,000 alienation of affection suit filed by his former wife, Mrs. Ella Kolb, against his second wife, Mrs. Gertrude Kolb.

Kolb told the Court that he introduced Ella to Gertrude as his sister "because I didn't want Gertrude to know I was married."

"May our love never die," he testified was his toast at a party, attended by Ella and Gertrude when he placed a diamond engagement ring on Gertrude's hand.

Subsequently, he said, he placed an advertisement in a newspaper for a new husband for Ella. There were 50 replies and he took Ella to see the applicants, introducing her as his sister.

MARK TWAIN MEMORIAL BRIDGE

Span at Hannibal, Mo., Named for Humorist.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Dec. 20.—The Municipal Bridge spanning the Mississippi River here has been named "Mark Twain Memorial Bridge" in honor of the memory of the internationally known humorist and author, Samuel L. Clemens, who spent his boyhood in Hannibal. It is nearly completed.

The bridge crosses the river near Cardiff Hill, a favorite boyhood playground of Clemens. A PWA loan and grant paid part of the $1,000,000 construction cost of the span, 2636 feet long with a concrete roadway 22 feet wide. The Missouri Highway Commission also aided the city in financing the project. Illinois will build an approach on the east side of the river.

MARSHALL GETS PWA FUND

Petersburg, Ill., Also Included in Grants for Municipal Plants.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Secretary Ickes today allotted $1,538,345 of old PWA funds for construction of six municipal power plants. Grants were on the old 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials basis. They included:

Missouri—Marshall, $158,545 for improvements to the municipal plant and distribution system. Illinois—Petersburg, $140,000 loan and grant for a power plant and distribution system.

TWO CONVICTED OF PLOT TO LOOT INSURANCE FIRM

Gustaf Lindquist, Former Official in Minnesota, Is Found Guilty With Abraham Karatz.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Gustaf Lindquist, 54 years old, former Minneapolis Insurance Commissioner, and Abraham Karatz, former Minneapolis attorney, were convicted by a jury last night of conspiring to defraud the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Co. of Springfield, Ill.

Their punishment was fixed at one to five years' imprisonment and each was fined $1000.

The men had been on trial before Judge Joseph Burke since Dec. 3, accused of having planned to gain control of the insurance company through funds said to have been embezzled from a Chicago bank, and then to loot the insurance firm's portfolio.

Convict Is State Witness.

The State's chief witness was Joseph Balata, brought from Joliet penitentiary, where he is serving a term for the conspiracy to loot the Amalgamated Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago. The State charged Balata was the leader of a plot to use about $54,473 obtained from the bank in obtaining control of the company.

Lindquist and Karatz contended they went into the venture with clean hands, but were duped by Balata. Both denied that they had any untoward intent.

Karatz and David (Long Count) Barry were convicted of the original charge of conspiring to swindle the Amalgamated Bank and have begun appeals.

TWO ESCAPERS GET
18 MONTHS IN PRISONSentenced Under Federal Law
That Makes Felony of Break From Custody.

Eugene Sullivan and Thomas Corrigan, who escaped last July from the Sheriff of St. Charles County while serving Federal sentences for violation of the narcotic laws, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Davis today of their escape, and were sentenced to 18 months in Leavenworth Penitentiary.

The two were indicted Tuesday under a Federal statute making it a felony to escape while a Federal prisoner, punishable by a maximum of five years' imprisonment.

Sullivan, acting as spokesman for the two, told the Court they were not in their "sober minds" when they escaped. He said they were returning from recreation outside of the jail, jugged behind the party of prisoners and walked away. Corrigan was arrested two days later at the home of his wife, and Sullivan was recaptured in Chicago last August.

Roscoe Mace, 30 years old, pleaded guilty of passing a counterfeit 50-cent coin and was sentenced to three years in Leavenworth Penitentiary and fined $1000. He told Judge Davis he had attended a "counterfeiting school" in St. Louis, and named a man, whom he said he paid $10 a day to teach him how to make imitation coins. When arrested by police, 52 counterfeit coins were found in his rooms. Assistant United States Attorney David Robinson informed the Court that the man named by Mace as the operator of the counterfeiting school was now serving a five-year sentence for robbery.

Fred Von Brunsch was sentenced to two years and fined $500 on his plea of guilty of operating an unregistered still. He was arrested Sept. 11 in Butler County, and his case was transferred to St. Louis to allow him to enter his plea. He previously was sentenced for a similar violation of internal revenue laws.

Packs Explains Agreement. A major league baseball monopoly? Is organized hockey a monopoly? These were questions that promoter Tom Packs asked when he invited to make a statement on charges of monopoly brought against himself and other wrestling promoters by Billy Sandow and Jimmy Marshall.

We have to organize to protect ourselves and to get talent," he said. "We have to organize, managers, promoters, and we must dictate to us, more or less of a gentlemen's agreement between us." Packs outlined the way the "gentlemen's agreement" worked. "A wrestler takes part in a match," he said, "and I feel I can't use him. I expect other promoters to back up my action, that way we can keep the talent in line."

Sandow's brother, Max Bauman, said the promotion of wrestling was at Convention Hall in the Municipal Auditorium, Marshall spoke on the card there Tuesday against Ivan Rasputin, a Russian.

Not Yet Attained.

THE Cardinals' objective in this was to obtain one who would take the spotlight off the club, the goal has not yet been attained, in the person of Parmelee, the club in a measure at mercy.

The St. Louisans carried the battle to the Hounds in both overtime periods. A majority of the play was around the Greynhound net. Pete and Rieckey gave Kansas City fans a moment in the final minutes of the last canto when he came through the Hounds defense with left puck-handling and went in on top of Levine. The goalie, however, waited for the shot, timed it perfectly and smothered the final Flyers' threat.

GOALIE LEVINE MAKES 40 STOPS IN MATCH WITH LEAGUE LEADERS

After "Shrimp" McPherson and league-leading Flyers play the St. Paul sextet in an American Association hockey match at the arena tonight, following a short road trip on which the St. Louis team lost one game and tied one. At Kansas City last night, the Flyers and Greynhounds went two overtime periods to a scoreless draw.

The Saints will be making their first appearance of the season on the local ice. In St. Paul last Tuesday night, St. Paul trimmed the Flyers 3-2, for the St. Louis team's first road defeat of the campaign after six consecutive victories. The Saints and Flyers met here again Sunday night.

In Kansas City last night, the Greynhounds staged off a series of vicious attacks by the Flyers to gain a draw. The Flyers kept the puck out of the Kansas City net, but couldn't slip the puck past "Shrimp" Levine. Greynhound goalie, who was credited with 40 stops.

23 Stops for Murray. The Greynhounds gave Mickey Murray, St. Louis net-tender, only 23 shots to handle, but most of them were short-range scorers that were difficult.

Kansas City took the offensive early in the contest, as the Greynhounds worked the puck near the St. Louis goal, but Carbol Mattie broke up the attacks.

After Purpur was sent off for a minute penalty after 4 minutes of the second period, and again the Greynhounds launched an onslaught. Brink, Mulvihill, Ahlin and Leprie all missed close shots. After 13 minutes, Carbol went to the penalty chamber. The Hounds drove once more for the St. Louis goal, but the opening they sought failed to present itself.

Bottom Stops Mattie. On a sudden counter rush, Mattie sent the puck from the attacking Hounds and drove for the Kansas goal. Only Bottom was back to stop him, but the veteran defenseman threw himself headlong into the onrushing Flyers and sent him sliding head first across the ice, the puck safely beyond his grasp.

The Flyers launched their delayed attack in the third period. Walker, Purpur, Palangio, McPherson and Oodson all managed to get their way into scoring territory, but Levine was working at the top of his form and blocked all shots.

RUDOLPH GAINS SIXTH VICTORY IN WORLD TITLE BILLIARD EVENT

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 20. — Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland tightened his hold on first place in the world's pocket billiards championship last night by defeating Willie Mosconi of Philadelphia, one of his leading challengers, 125 to 44 in 15 innings.

The victory virtually clinched the title for Rudolph, who won the tournament last year only to lose the title to Andrew Ponzl in a challenge match. It was his sixth triumph in seven games and Mosconi's third loss in eight starts.

Jimmy Caras, young Wilmington (Del.) star, was left as the only serious contender for the lead after Rudolph disposed of Mosconi. Caras whipped George Kelly of Philadelphia, the national champion, 125 to 33, in an afternoon match that went six innings. Caras moved into second place with six games won and two lost, while Kelly wound up in a third-place tie with Mosconi. Caras and Rudolph still have to meet in the round-robin tournament.

Rudolph forged ahead early when he put together the high run of the game, 54, in the second inning. Mosconi couldn't keep his cue ball under control and frequently got into trouble. Rudolph built up a 78-33 lead at the intermission. Mosconi made his best run, 28, in the fifteenth frame, then Rudolph stepped up and pocketed the 36 balls he needed to complete the game.

Another afternoon match saw Joe Frocta of Gloversville, N. Y., who set a record by defeating a pair of shutout games the last two days, get back on the winning side by defeating Pasquale Natale of Chicago, 125 to 80, in a 41-inning game. Bennie Allen, Kansas City veteran who blanked Proctor Wednesday night, again showed good form as he completed his tournament schedule with a 126-to-46 victory over Frank Taberski of Schenectady, N. Y., in the windup match of the seven innings.

Allen in Good Form.

The 45-year-old Allen, a champion more than 20 years ago, finished with four victories in nine games, tying Charles Seaback of New York for fifth place in the standing. Taberski, another veteran, couldn't equal Allen's brilliant performance tonight when he star-conceded a high run of 52 in the second inning and put together clusters of 38 and 20 in the sixth and seventh frames. Taberski's best run was 24, in the fifth inning.

Rudolph can clinch a tie for the championship tonight when he star-conceded a high run of 52 in the second inning and put together clusters of 38 and 20 in the sixth and seventh frames. Taberski's best run was 24, in the fifth inning.

Two afternoon matches complete today's schedule. Taberski meeting Max Camp of Detroit and Mosconi facing Natale.

SQUASH MATCHES TODAY

A semifinal match in the championship flight, and the final of the class "B" tournament are scheduled today in the squash raquets tournaments being held at the University Club. Charles Fox meets Louis Dennig in the semifinal competition, with the victor to meet Jack Gordon, defending champion, for the title. The match will start at 6 o'clock.

The title match will be between A. C. Brown and Arthur Dunn, who have already met once for the championship, both having won it, but both refusing it, after a disputed shot on the final point of the game. By agreement, they decided to play the match over, and today's match will decide the title.

19 Are Given Letters.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Dec. 20. — A Southern Illinois star, Leroy Kaska, fullback from Johnston City, has been elected as one of two captains of the 1936 Illinois Wesleyan football team. Joe Yuricel, tackle, from West Page, Va., is the other leader. Two Southern Illinois players, besides Kaska, were among the 19 awarded letters. They are Bob Oliver, tackle, from Johnston City, and Dennis Cochrane, halfback, from East St. Louis.

Other games scheduled tonight are: Central at Webster, Bluffett at Kirkwood. South Side Catholic High at Central Catholic High of East St. Louis. The McBride Alumni play the varsity tonight, as does the C. B. C. Alumni squad at C. B. C. OH, DIZZY dear, when you were here. On wages you were mum. But when you got to Evansville and Loquacious you become. It must be Rickie's glittering eye. That holds you in a spell. But as from town to town you lie. The cockeyed world you tell.

Jack Dempsey knows a giraffe when he sees one, but after sizing up Joe Louis he says there ain't no such animal.

Jack is waiting to see what the Brown Bomber's reaction would be after being knocked into the lap of some ringside reporter before he gives him his final stamp of approval.

However, as there are no Firpos among the present crop of heavyweight leather pushers, such an occurrence is a remote possibility.

Scarfpin, Pittsburgh tackle was cut in the first by flying glass when a bus carrying the team to Los Angeles was struck by an automobile. He missed the game, but Pitt didn't get it in the neck.

With Scarfpin in the lineup, the worst Pitt could expect would be a tie. Merry Christmas!

NEW ORDER BANS ARMY OFFICERS FROM COACHING CIVILIAN TEAMS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20. — Gridiron warriors of the future will have to get their battle orders from civilians. Active Army officers will not be permitted to be football mentors, except at West Point.

A War Department command effective Jan. 1 bars officers from engaging to act as coaches of civilian universities.

Current agreements under which Capt. Lawrence M. (Biff) Jones is coach at Oklahoma University and Maj. Ralph Sasse at Mississippi State, are not affected, but they cannot renew contracts.

Shortage of officer personnel is said to have prompted the order, which forces officers to confine their activities to military functions when they are assigned to R. O. T. C. units at schools.

The order is understood to bar officers from even assisting in athletic instruction on a part-time, voluntary basis if this interferes with the regular military instruction work.

Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staff, is said to believe that officers doing college duty have given too much time to athletics.

Maj. Robert Neyland, a successful coach, recently returned to Army duty after serving as football mentor at the University of Tennessee. He is at the Canal Zone garrison.

ILLINOIS FIVE PLAYS DE PAUL TEAM TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Illinois will attempt to prove that it belongs among the better Big Ten basketball teams again this season, tonight in the Chicago Stadium against De Paul's strong five.

There is a feeling in the neighborhood that any team capable of whipping De Paul is of championship caliber. Purdue did it last week, squeezing out a 28 to 24 decision over the Demons. The game attracted 8000 spectators on a snowy night. At least that many are expected to attend tonight's battle if the weather behaves.

While the Illini and De Paul are battling it out, Michigan will play Mount Union at Alliance, O., and Minnesota will be host to Nebraska at Minneapolis.

Michigan will swing over to Cleveland to meet Western Reserve tomorrow night in one of seven games involving conference teams. Indiana meets Vanderbilt at Nashville, Tenn.; Iowa, which defeated Loyola, 33 to 26, at Chicago last night, meets Western State Teachers at Kalamazoo, Mich.; Purdue meets Butler at Indianapolis, and Wisconsin goes to Milwaukee to play Marquette. Chicago and Northwestern play at home, the Maroons meeting Armour Tech and Northwestern tackling Michigan State.

Duke Five Is Winner.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 20. — Seldom extending itself, Duke University's basketball five trampled Baltimore University here last night, 49 to 29. The Bees were outclassed in every department by the veteran Blue Devil quint. Joe Riley, star forward, proved Duke's individual star. He scored 18 points.

Cubs' Sensational Pennant Drive Regarded as Biggest Surprise of 1935 Campaign

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—To the critics peering intently from the sidelines, the sports campaign of 1935 seems to have involved a rapid succession of surprising results, topped off by the dizziest college football season in history.

The biggest surprise of all, based on the returns tabulated today in the fifth annual Associated Press poll, was the sensational stretch drive of the Chicago Cubs to baseball pennant victory.

Closely pressing this major shock the form players were the twin form reversal in which Notre Dame's football team figured, on successive Saturdays. Of the two stunning results, Notre Dame's last-period triumph over Ohio State was rated more surprising than the downfall of the Irish the following week at the hands of Northwestern.

Braddock Victory No. 2. James J. Braddock's victory on points over Max Baer for the world heavyweight boxing championship topped the individual surprises of the year. To many observers, however, the surprise was not so much the triumph of Wilmer Allison over Fred Perry, British ace, in straight sets in the United States tennis championships or the victory of Sam Parks Jr., a 50-10 shot, in the American open golf tournament at Oakmont.

The defeats of Jesse Owens, Ohio State's record-smashing track athlete, by Eulace Peacock in the National A. A. U. championships, also were ranked among the main surprises.

Point totals in the poll, based on a 3-2 tally of preferences listed by sports editors and writers, showed the Cubs' victory at the head of the list with 92 points. Experts rated the closing drive of the Chicagoans, featured by a 21-game winning streak, as the best in the majors since the Boston Braves swept to the top in 1914.

Braddock's victory over Baer took second place from Notre Dame's football triumph over Ohio State by a single point. The totals were 83 to 82.

While football contributed 14 episodes or developments to the list of surprises, the poll covered a wide range of upsets. Asa's victory in the rich Santa Anita Handicap apparently was the biggest surprise to horse race followers.

Collapse of the Giants. The second straight collapse of the New York Giants was considered a bigger surprise than the defeat of the world champion Cardinals at the finish of the National League baseball race. Babe Ruth's retirement, a major surprise because of its circumstances, was mentioned by only one observer.

"Unknown Winston's second knockout by Jack Sharkey, on the same night, belongs among the most surprising events," commented one sports editor, "surprising because I thought he would stay down the first time."

TURF CLUB TO GIVE $50,000 TO CHARITY

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20. — The Los Angeles Turf Club, operating Santa Anita Park, announced yesterday it would give $50,000 to charity here from earnings of the second winter racing meeting which opens Christmas day.

This will make my sixth New Year's day game as assistant and head coach," he reflected. "So far we've won one, tied one and lost the others. I can say this much, with a few breaks going our way instead of to the other side, the course would have been different in several of the games."

"I think we have a good chance to beat Southern Methodist and that isn't only coaching talk. From what I saw of the Mustangs a couple of weeks ago, they certainly are not invincible. Sure, they play a snappy brand of ball but they'll have to have a mighty strong line to hold Stanford's running attack."

This is Thornhill's sixth trip to the Bowl as a Stanford coach, and he thinks it's "about time we got a break." Before he became head coach he was assistant to Glen S. (Pop) Warner.

"This will make my sixth New Year's day game as assistant and head coach," he reflected. "So far we've won one, tied one and lost the others. I can say this much, with a few breaks going our way instead of to the other side, the course would have been different in several of the games."

LOUIS "STALE," FIGHT WITH GASTANAGA IS POSTPONED

BOMBER, ALONG WITH MANAGER AND PROMOTER ARE SUSPENDED

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Dec. 20.—Still a trifle amazed at yesterday's quick postponement, Cuban boxing promoters associated with Mike Jacobs of New York in promoting the Joe Louis-Isidor Gastanaga bout, prepared today to refund the money received on advance sales and start all over again, hoping the new date for the fight would stand.

Jacobs, who came here yesterday to investigate reports that "political conditions" might interfere with the holding of the bout on Dec. 28, ended a day of wrangling by postponing the battle to Feb. 2 and ordering the advance sale stopped.

The difficulty was not that trouble was expected, but that Louis had "gone stale," Jacobs explained after being assured by Government officials, including Jorge Echarte, Secretary of State, that there was no danger of disturbances.

He remained adamant even though Rafael Cepeda, president of the Cuban Boxing Association, ordered virtually everyone concerned with the postponement suspended until Louis should appear in Cuba. The order covered Jacobs, Louis and Julian Black, one of the "Detroit demon" co-managers.

Bomber needs a rest. "Louis seems to have gone stale and needs a rest," Jacobs said. "His manager has cabled and telephoned to us, saying the boy positively cannot fight Dec. 28. He has had 15 fights in 11 months and his doctor has told him not to put on a glove for at least a month."

The fight would not be transferred to the United States, the promoter added, as "Gastanaga must fight Louis here in Havana before he gets a chance to fight in the United States."

In order to settle on the Feb. 2 date, Mike Jacobs had to get permission from Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, who accompanied him here. The agreement for a Schmeling-Louis fight next summer provided that Louis should not fight again after Jan. 31 until he met the German heavyweight.

Have No Agreement. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—"We have no agreement with Cuba, although we have, in the past, tried to work together."

This was the statement of Brigadier-General John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, when questioned concerning the assertion by Rafael Cepeda, president of the Cuban Boxing Commission, that the threatened Cuban suspension of Joe Louis would be effective in the New York State.

"I don't think we will be bound to suspend Louis and Jacobs," he said, "although we will investigate the matter thoroughly."

It Will Be a Smith Day When All-Stars Play

When the Eastern All-Stars face the All-West eleven in San Francisco New Year's day, there will be three Smiths in the lineup. Players are, from left to right: E. Gallagher, Star Halfback of Cleveland Eleven, Played on U. S. Team in World Tourney

By Dent McSkimming.

Last spring, after a succession of league and cup competition victories, the Central soccer club of St. Louis ran into a most stubborn opponent in the western cup final. Five games were required before the high-scoring Central forward line could beat down the defense of the Chicago Wieboldts and carry off the western championship.

Today four players who starred for the Wieboldts in that tense, almost dramatic series are members of the St. Louis club they tried so hard to beat. Bill Watson, Werner Nilsen, Hugh Davidson and Bob Thompson will appear in the lineup of the Shamrock club (successor to the Centrals) in the game with Sportsman's Park Sunday afternoon. All of them will have backfield positions, a department where in the Centrals of last season were admittedly weak.

Some local soccer fans probably rate Tom Scott the better of the two fullbacks of the Wieboldt club of last season, and judged by his performance in the Western final series, the bruising Tom is entitled to such preferential rating, but it may be interesting to know that after the playing of the Chicago vs. Scottish League Stars at Chicago last summer, the manager of the touring Scottish team told newspaper men that he regarded Davidson as far more effective than Scott. In all likelihood, the Scottish club manager was impressed with Davidson's cleaner tackling and better position play. Scott's style was cramped in that game because he could not make full use of his long kicks. So, in some respects, the Shamrocks have taken the better of the two stars.

As a result of these backfield changes, the Shamrocks of today bear little resemblance to the Centrals who won the national championship last spring. Only Lehman, Gonsalves, Patenaude, Roe

Olympia Eleven Will Play Here Christmas Day

THE Olympia Soccer Club of Chicago, will be the Christmas day opponent for the Shamrocks. It was announced this morning by Phil A. Riley, business manager. Slavia of Cleveland, which held the locals to a 2-2 draw in a recent match, will play here Dec. 29.

Officials of the Shamrock club are negotiating with Heidelberg of Pittsburgh for a two-game series here on New Year's day and Jan. 5. Heidelberg defeated the Shamrocks, 4-2, recently.

and McLean of the probable starting lineup are holdovers.

Played on U. S. Squad. Five players in Sunday's game were members of the United States team which played for the world championship at Rome in the summer of 1934. In addition to Nilsen, Lehman, McLean and Gonsalves, all of the Shamrocks, Jimmy Gallagher of the Cleveland club was placed in the U. S. team. Gallagher, a short, curly-headed Scot, is one of the best wing halfbacks in America, a fine team player and a smooth article in ball control.

Junior Skaters In Final Trials For Local Meet

Preliminary activities in the junior and juvenile divisions of the Silver Skates ice carnival, to be held a week from Sunday at the Arena, will be finished tomorrow morning at the Arena with at least seven competitors still outstanding in the two divisions.

The final trials in the junior division, Dec. 29, will find the competitors seeking points in two events, the 440-yard dash and the half-mile. Chief standouts in trials so far are Eddie Behring, Bud Handlan, Roy Weimer and Zurnheid.

The juvenile division in the carnival is to consist of one event, a 440-yard race, and principal competitors for this event so far have been Tommy Lydon, Jack Cullinane and Alfred (Junior) Perry.

The 50-event program, in addition to the junior and juvenile divisions, also lists the Southwestern and Missouri State championships for senior men, the senior women's championship, the women's novice class, and the men's intermediate division.

Besides the races, the program will be featured by the figure skating program to be presented by the St. Louis Skating Club.

CANADIENS USE NEW FRONT LINE AND TIE HAWKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Montreal Canadiens, in their search for players symbolizing the French tricolor, have located a new trio who fill that bill and also play a fair brand of hockey.

The trio, who form the flying Frenchmen's new line, are Joffe Deslites, right winger who starred with the Saint John Beavers last year, and the Bourcier brothers, Jean and Conrad, who played with the Verdun Maple Leafs.

The new line worked together for the first time last night as the Canadiens tied the Blackhawks, 2-2. It showed plenty of promise. Jean was literally hugged by his teammates as he battled in front of the goal and started a rebound on which Lepine scored to send the Frenchmen away to a 2-0 lead in the second period.

The Blackhawks came back with a strong counter attack in the final chapter to tie the score on goals by Mushy March, who teamed with Howie Morenz and Johnny Gottselig for the scores.

A scoreless tie was played between the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Boston Bruins at Toronto. The Bruins, with Eddie Shore out with a back injury, resorted to defensive hockey.

Tiny Thompson succeeded in stopping 36 Leaf drives while George Hainsworth, in the cage for Toronto was called on to block only 24.

In New York, the Detroit Red Wings, smiled on by Lady Luck, walked off with a 3-1 decision over the fighting New York Americans. Pat Kelly scored unassisted for the Wings in the first, but the Americans tied it with a goal off the stick of cotton, assisted by Schirner and Stewart.

Then the Wings got lucky. In the last few seconds of play in the first period, Lewis took a shot, and the rebound struck Art Chapman and bounded back into the net for a goal that was credited to Lewis.

In the second period the Wings got another goal on a similar bit of fortune. The shot was made by Larry Aurie, the rebound hitting his skate to trickle in for the third score.

Few Field Goals. Only eight field goals were kicked in the Southwest Conference this season.

Played on U. S. Squad.

Five players in Sunday's game were members of the United States team which played for the world championship at Rome in the summer of 1934. In addition to Nilsen, Lehman, McLean and Gonsalves, all of the Shamrocks, Jimmy Gallagher of the Cleveland club was placed in the U. S. team. BONTHRON WILL SEEK PLACE ON NEXT AMERICAN OLYMPIC SQUAD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Although the twin shall not meet this winter, America's arch-rival millers, Glenn Cunningham and Bill Bonthron are pouncing the boards again these days.

Cunningham has a dual objective. He plans to campaign again this winter over the indoor circuit in preparation for a bid for a place on the American Olympic track team. He already has reported to Bill Hargis, his old coach at the University of Kansas.

On the other hand, Bonthron has definitely decided to pass up competition this winter but likewise has his eye on the Olympics. He's working out three nights a week at the New York Athletic Club keeping in trim with distance running and a routine of exercises.

"Maybe Reggie McNamara and I have something in common with regard to announcing our retirement," Bonthron smiled. "I thought I might hang up my spikes for all time after last summer, but the urge to continue is irresistible."

Bonthron isn't doing night work in a gym for his health. He doesn't have to. Track fans won't see him this winter, but they'll get many an eye-full of the black-haired barrel-chested Princeton alumnus when the outdoor season starts.

He's working just often and long enough to keep his muscles from becoming rusty, and when the outdoor path season opens he'll be on the track, ready to meet any and all comers. If he meets with a fair share of success he'll be among the candidates for the international games at Berlin next summer.

"I haven't lost my appetite for competition by a long shot," said Bounding Bill. "I'm darned anxious to meet Cunningham, Gene Venzke and the other fellows again, but I'm going to wait until the spring. I'm in pretty good condition right now and I really think that with regular workouts throughout the winter I'll be fit for outdoor racing and a fight to gain a place."

WRESTLING RESULTS

NEW YORK.—Sander Varr, Huskies, threw Jack Hader, Chicago, George Hader, New York, and Gabe D'Annunzio, Italy, drew. Ivan Managoff, Russia, defeated Fred Meyer, Chicago. John Swenski, Poland, defeated Jim Kendrick, Oklahoma.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Dr. Barney Connors, St. Louis, tossed Les Wolfe (118 minutes) and won decision over Ted Christy on the Taitao Higami, Japan, threw Lord Lando, England.

KANSAS CITY, Kan.—Steve Savage, Detroit, tossed Pat O'Shocker, Salt Lake City, two out of three.

On the American Olympic team I'd like to make the team. We not, and who wouldn't?

Bonthron, an accountant by profession, attends night school when he is taking a course in commercial law and three others in accounting.

When he isn't working, studying or running, he and Mrs. Bonthron go in for golf.

FORMER EAGLES FLYING HIGH IN THE "BIG SHOW"

By W. J. McGoogan.

Glen Brydson, who played right wing for the St. Louis Eagles last season, has moved into a tie for second place in scoring in the American division of the circuit, according to figures recently issued by headquarters and including games of Sunday, Dec. 15.

Brydson is playing with the New York Rangers this season in company with another former Eagle, Vernon Ayres, defense man. Both have been going well, with Ayres showing considerable more checking ability than he displayed with the Eagles last season.

Brydson was not used by Coach Patrick much until lately, when Bill Cook became ill and it was necessary to place Glen on the line with Frank Boucher at center and Bun Cook at left wing.

A Fine Debut.

The first night that Glen took the spot he picked up two assists in a contest in which the Rangers defeated their New York rivals, the Americans, 5 to 2, in an overtime battle. Both of Brydson's assists were made on goals scored by Boucher. The Rangers had come from behind to square the count at 2-2 in the third period. Brydson opened two plays for Boucher and made perfect passes to the center, who scored.

Carl Voss, another St. Louis player last season, is playing a center

INNOCENT WOMAN OUT OF PRISON AFTER YEAR

Mrs. Louise Botts, Mistaken for Forger, Not Resentful About Sentence.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 20.—Mrs. Louise Botts after 13 months behind prison bars, is free. She did not commit the crime for which she was sentenced. Officers and witnesses simply made a mistake in identification.

The 27-year-old bride of five months was convicted in Kokomo, Ind., on a check forging charge and sentenced to serve from two to 14 years in the Indiana women's prison here.

At her trial a number of persons "positively" identified her as the woman who had passed the checks. Her alibi were of no avail and the jury found her guilty.

Recently Chief of Police C. A. Neal of Kokomo, reported that checks identical to those she had been accused of forging had appeared again in Kokomo and Peru, Ind. Furthermore, those victimized had identified a picture of Mrs. Botts as that of the woman who proffered the checks. But Mrs. Botts was in prison.

The State Clemency Commission thereupon issued a decree that she was innocent of the original charge and Mrs. Botts is free again to return to her husband in Brazil, Ind. "I don't know whether there is any way I could get damages and I don't care. I don't intend to try."

One of her most frequent visitors during her incarceration was her husband, William Botts, a PWA worker. He, too, knew she was innocent, but was helpless to prove it. But her father, Charles Hess, never came.

"He couldn't stand it," she said. "For him prisons hold a horror. I was brought up in a Christian home. I always attended Sunday school and church. No one in our family had ever been in prison."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Botts is hopeful that the real forger will be apprehended lest she again become the victim of mistaken identity.

RETRIAL IN INSURANCE CASE OVER KILLING ALLEGED ROBBER

Moberly Man Was Found to Be Carrying Toy Gun; Widow Obtained Double Indemnity.

MOBERLY, Mo., Dec. 20.—A new trial here has been granted to the Prudential Life Insurance Co., against which Mrs. Wilma Eagan recently was given a $400 judgment in the death of her husband, Joe Eagan, killed by a Moberly police officer during an alleged robbery attempt.

Eagan was killed when the officer surprised him and Marcus Evans at a local barbecue and beer stand. When Evans opened fire on the officer, the officer, himself shot in the leg by Evans, wounded Evans and killed Eagan. Eagan was found to be carrying a toy pistol.

Mrs. Eagan was paid $400 on an insurance policy. She then brought suit to invoke double indemnity, alleging her husband's death was an accident; that he was killed while the officer was shooting at Evans. At the trial the officer testified he fired at both Eagan and Evans. The jury, however, found for Mrs. Eagan. Evans now is serving 18-year terms in the penitentiary on a plea of guilty.

Realty Tax Again Waived.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 20.—For the third successive year, Illinois has waived the State tax on real estate and personal property. Expenditures formerly met through the levy are now financed by the sales tax and from liquor licenses and imposts.

4955 ON WPA JOBS IN ST. CLAIR COUNTY

Administrator Says 1600 Are Yet to Be Assigned—Many Insufficiently Clothed.

According to a report by Fred G. Austin, WPA administrator of the East St. Louis District, a total of 4955 men and women were on WPA jobs in St. Clair County yesterday, besides 459 persons not on relief working as timekeeper or in supervisory capacities. An additional 835 persons on relief have not registered for assignment or have been rejected as unfit upon reporting for work.

Of those assigned, 745 persons have failed to report for work. Relief authorities are now investigating these cases to learn whether their failure has been due to illness, miscarriage of work cards, wilful refusal to work or unsupported employment in private industry. Those who are employed may be prosecuted for fraud and those who refuse to work will be stricken from the relief rolls. To date, six persons have been cut off relief for refusal.

Sixteen hundred employables, 800 men and 800 women, remain to be assigned. Austin said that today the men would be sent to work on the $3,561,536 drainage renovation project sponsored by the East Side Levee Board, which has already employed 3600 men in St. Clair County. Prevention of prostitution during the transfer of family heads from relief rolls to WPA jobs is a problem confronting relief officials. Under a new ruling, workers will receive relief orders for seven days after payment of their pay check for their first full two-week work period, regardless of whether they receive a check for a previous incomplete period.

In families where the WPA pay is less than the relief budget, that is, families with more than six members, supplementary relief will be given if sufficient funds are available. George M. Curry, County Relief Administrator, said. Some will receive extra fuel, milk and clothing orders to make up the deficiency.

Where there is more than one employable member, he or she may be given an allowance by the National Youth Administration or sent to a Civilian Conservation Corps camp. Curry added, however, that he had not received notice that there would be an allotment of relief funds for January.

Providing clothing for workers on the Levee Board project presents another serious problem. No clothing orders have been issued to adults on relief since October, and the provisions in earlier months were scanty. Work on the project, which consists of digging in the damp earth to widen and deepen Schoenberger Creek and Harding Ditch and increase the grade of the levees, was stopped yesterday at 11 o'clock because a large part of the 3600 men employed were not adequately clothed to endure the increasing cold.

Claude Brosnars, WPA foreman, following his appearance yesterday before Curry as head of a committee to request that provisions for extra clothing be made, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that many of the men were working clad only in thin sweaters, overalls and shirts, with little or no underclothing, and wearing shoes with large holes in the soles. Several men, he said, were compelled to wear rubbers, having no shoes at all, and were developing serious colds.

Curry said that provisions for continuing relief until after reception of a full-period pay check were made to allow workers to spend the pay for the short work period for clothing, but Brosnars contended most of this money would have to be paid out in debts or for transportation. The Union Clothing Co. and the Big Store of East St. Louis have donated hundreds of inexpensive gloves.

The rates of pay on St. Clair County WPA jobs are: $32 for unskilled workers, $60 for intermediate, $75 for skilled and $83 for professional and technical. Pay checks are given out every two weeks, and full payment is made regardless of loss of time due to illness or inclement weather.

CHARGES WOMAN ROBBED HIM

Man Has Minnie Kirksey, Gunman's Widow, Arrested.
Minnie Kirksey, 29 years old, was arrested by East St. Louis police yesterday on complaint of Fred Bechtoldt, of Freeburg, Ill., that he was robbed of $37 while in a resort at 301 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, in the district known as "the valley." A warrant against her was issued by Justice of the Peace Brady.

She was the wife of James Hickey, notorious Shelton gunman, who was killed by deputy sheriffs in a raid on a Signal Hill residence during an investigation of an alleged plan to kidnap G. Locke Tarlton, wealthy East Side contractor. Minnie Kirksey and her sister, Ruth, both of whom were living in the house a few blocks from the Tarlton home, were released after an inquest.

ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT REVERSES MURDER SENTENCE

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 20.—The Supreme Court set aside yesterday the 14-year sentence of Herbert Buxton of East St. Louis, who was found guilty last June 7 in the Circuit Court at Belleville of the murder of Emil Kirsch in an East St. Louis drug store. The Supreme Court held Buxton's guilt was not definitely established. Kirsch, a bystander, was shot during an attempted holdup of the store at 1435 East Broadway, in June, 1932. An eye-witness testified that he saw Buxton standing outside the store, and when the shooting occurred, he said he was Buxton jump into an automobile and drive away. Two other men, Charles L. Winchester and Melvin Watson, on whose statement Buxton was indicted, are serving terms for Kirsch's murder.

Harland Bartholomew Urges Revision of City Zoning Code

In Report to Plan Commission Suggests 80 Neighborhood Associations to Protect Environment.

Establishment by proposed statutory authority of 80 formally organized neighborhood associations throughout the city's residential territory, to safeguard the environment of homes, was advocated by Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission, in a report to the commission yesterday.

This was a feature of recommendations for a new urban land policy, based upon an intensive and exact study of the uses of all land in the city, results of which were embodied in the report.

The City Plan Commission deferred consideration of the report until next month, to give members opportunity to study it. Chairman E. J. Russell said the Legislature would not pass the proposed neighborhood law unless public sentiment was aroused for it. Aaron Waldheim, a member of the commission, remarked that discussion of annexation of the suburbs by the city should be revised.

The study showed that 91.1 per cent of the city's area, exclusive of streets and alleys, was zoned for purposes contrary to the existing development, much less land being used for apartments, commerce and industry than was zoned for these purposes and much more land being used for one and two-family dwellings than was zoned.

Other recommendations for an urban land policy included:

Revision of the zoning code in keeping with the established facts of supply and demand for the different classes of property use.

Continued adherence to a high standard of building code regulations, with occasional modernizing steps.

Rigid enforcement of sanitary and fire laws to assure cleanliness in all classes of residential property.

Removal of all obsolete structures.

Repair and renovation of old buildings which have become unsafe or unfit for human occupancy.

In addition, the report urged elimination of the smoke nuisance as an "indispensable prerequisite of rehabilitation of the blighted districts," and formation of a housing association to study conditions and suggest policies.

80 Units Outlined.

A map in the report showed a suggested layout of 80 residential neighborhood units, omitting the clear-cut industrial areas centering largely along the railroads and the large park and cemetery areas. Even appropriate names for the units, such as "Garden City," "Lindell" and "Tandyl" were suggested after the fashion of the larger 26 established social tracts of the city. Each unit would comprise a region of comparatively few city blocks inhabited generally by people of homogeneous interests.

"In the newer districts," said the report, "the citizens of a particular neighborhood should be able to preserve satisfactory existing environment by certain immediate measures, such as securing any rezoning that may be in the best interests of the neighborhood and by studying local needs for parks, playgrounds or other community uses of land.

"Neighborhoods in the blighted districts will probably find it difficult to achieve rehabilitation by purely voluntary action. Re-zoning will be beneficial, but will not alone serve to correct past mistakes. Stronger measures are needed, including the elimination of inharmonious uses.

Legislation Suggested.

"Re-establishment of property restrictions will be necessary. It is suggested that a legislative act should be adopted which will give local neighborhoods the power to organize for purposes of protection of property and the improvement of environment. Such an act has been published recently by the National Association of Real Estate Boards. It provides for the organization of neighborhoods and election of trustees, somewhat in the same manner as is now done by property owners in several private places, such as Compton Heights, Vandeventer Place and Forest Place.

"As here proposed, the neighborhoods would be larger than existing privately restricted places. A neighborhood should be large enough to create and maintain a good environment; approximately a quarter of a square mile is very nearly a minimum. With the approval of a majority of citizens living in such a neighborhood, the law should permit re-establishment of building restrictions. Inharmonious, non-conforming uses could gradually be eliminated through amendment of the zoning ordinance applicable to all neighborhoods. Elimination of inharmonious uses could be accelerated through the use of the power of eminent domain, if desired.

Present Use of Land.

Land use of all property in the city (exclusive of streets and alleys, which occupy more than one-quarter of the developed area) was found to be as follows:

Use	Acres	Pct.
One-family dwellings	6,913.3	22.0
Two-family dwellings	2,563.8	8.3
Institutions	1,965.3	6.3
City property	1,495.5	4.8
Parks and playgrounds	2,696.2	8.6
Multiple dwellings	2,444.1	8.1
Hotels	2.4	0.1
Commerce	1,562.4	5.0
Garages	161.7	0.5
Light industries	1,387.4	4.5
Heavy industries	1,729.1	5.6
Railroads	1,745.5	5.6
Vacant land	6,360.9	20.6
Totals	31,032.7	100.0

However, there was a sharp contrast between actual use of land and the zoning provisions for use, summarized as follows, by percentage:

Type	Actual Use	Area
Residential	50.0	31.5
Multiple dwellings	8.1	20.1
Commercial	5.6	11.1
Industries and	15.7	37.3
railroads	5.6	17.2
Vacant land	20.6	...

Vacant land, existing notably in the northwestern and southwestern parts of the city, was found to cover 18 per cent of the 62 square miles occupied by St. Louis. Of the developed part 26.2 per cent was in streets and alleys—an area comparatively small because of large blocks, undeveloped land and presence of large parks and cemeteries; 10.4 per cent was devoted to institutions and municipal purposes, including the waterworks, the River des Peres Drainage Works strip and cemeteries, and 8 per cent was in parks and playgrounds. Bartholomew declared St. Louis, measured by accepted standards, was lacking in adequate area and equitable distribution of parks.

Residential property represented the greatest investment and greatest form of taxable wealth in any city, the report asserted, adding: "How inadequately this principal asset has been protected by zoning is shown by the fact that only 31.5 per cent of the city has been zoned as residential. It is not logical to assume that residential areas can be transformed to other forms of property use even though they were to be zoned for other uses. It is logical, however, to assume that the great majority of residential areas should be protected by zoning them for this purpose.

"There is a decided limit to the demand for multiple dwelling accommodations in any city. This has been a favorite form of speculation for land developers, but the disadvantages of over-crowding and the lack of certain conveniences found in one and two-family dwellings indicate that there will be some what decreased demand for multiple dwellings. One of the most unfortunate zoning mistakes has been the excessive provision of commercial area.

"The zoning ordinance is badly out of scale and out of harmony with the present development of the city. This lack of a more balanced relationship between existing property use and zoning districts is due to the lack of adequate factual information at the time of the preparation of the zoning ordinance and the then existing exaggerated ideas of city growth. It has been found that similar amounts of land are required for different uses regardless of the size of the city. These rather definite laws of property use which have now been developed for the first time afford a logical basis for more accurate zoning.

"Unless zoning regulations can be drawn in more or less close relationship to existing use and with provision for a reasonable rather than an improbable ratio of growth, zoning will be of limited value. The haphazard process of city growth will continue in the future, leading eventually to certain economic decadence.

Blighted Areas Increasing.

"There are certain alarming trends in the character, usefulness and value of private property in St. Louis, so pronounced that, if continued, they will undermine the whole economic structure of the city. Among the more significant trends about which practically nothing is being done are: 1. A large shift of population away from all the central areas; 2. Blighted areas are increasing in size; 3. Tax delinquency is becoming acute; 4. Most of the predominant economic and social problems of the city grow out of the blighted areas."

The report argued at length on the desirability of restoring the blighted areas to usefulness. It urged a wide public understanding of the facts it presented, to be followed by a fundamental solution rather than temporary expedients.

Post of Disbarred Attorney Filled.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 20.—Wallace Cooper, Warrensburg, was named by the State Supreme Court Thursday as a member of the Bar Committee of the Seventeenth Judicial Circuit to succeed Max D. Aber, Warrensburg. Aber surrendered his license to practice last week, after a Johnson County grand jury investigated the activities of Aber and three other lawyers in connection with suits in which John Dawson, wealthy farmer, allegedly paid $40,000 in settlements and fees.

MISSOURI CAPITOL BASEMENT CLEANED AFTER THREE YEARS

Janitors Get Busy When Reporters Find Dirt and Debris

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 20.—A casual inspection of the basement of the State Capitol Wednesday by several newspaper correspondents, which resulted in a complaint to State officials about its filthy condition, was followed today by a start on the first general cleaning of the basement in nearly three years. A gang of Negro janitors, was busy today in the basement with brushes and brooms.

The inspection disclosed heaps of trash, abandoned records, broken furniture and discarded equipment pushed back in dark corners, and piles of debris, accumulations of waste paper, bottles and dirt in general, which had not been touched for months, except to add to them.

The condition of the basement again calls attention to a general lack of care of the remainder of the Capitol, which, according to literature distributed by the users, would cost about $10,000,000 to replace. Complaints frequently have been made about the general condition of the building. Grime and stains remain indefinitely on the marble floors and walls of the corridors, doors bear smears and the accumulated finger prints of all who went through them in months past. Corners of walls and columns in the corridors are chipped and the walls are dingy.

The State Board of Permanent Seat of Government has custody of the building. It is made up of Gov. Park, Secretary of State Dwight Brown, State Auditor Forrest Smith, State Treasurer R. R. Macy and Attorney-General Roy McKittick. The board supervises a staff of about 50 employees, 16 of whom are listed on the payroll as janitors.

JUDGES AND COMMITTEES TO DISCUSS JURY PERSONNEL

Means of Improvement to Be Considered at Meeting Tomorrow in Civil Courts

Means of improving the personnel of juries serving in the Circuit Courts will be discussed by the Circuit Judges and committees representing the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, Associated Industries of Missouri, St. Louis Bar Association and the Medical Society of St. Louis in a meeting in the general term room of the Civil Courts Building at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The Chamber of Commerce and Associated Industries are sponsoring a movement to encourage business men to serve on juries when called and to instruct their employees to do likewise as a means of preventing excessive awards in damage cases and other suits. Representatives of the two organizations recently discussed the same subject with the Board of Jury Supervisors.

SOCIAL SECURITY APPROPRIATION LIKELY IN 1936

Congress Expects to Provide Funds Cut Off by Late Senator Huey Long's Filibuster.

ACT IS SUBJECT OF MUCH CONTROVERSY

Public Asks: "What Will It Do?"—Employer: "What Is Cost?"—Worker: "How Much for Me?"

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Federal Social Security Act, passed at the last session of Congress, is still inoperative until the states pass approved measures to carry out its provisions. The necessary appropriations, balked when the late Senator Huey P. Long's spectacular filibuster throttled the deficiency bill in the session's closing hours, are expected to be made when Congress meets again in January. Yet the states, again in January. Yet the states, again in January. Yet the states, again in January.

The two paramount plans in the Social Security Act include provisions for a co-operative Federal-State system of unemployment compensation and the other for Federal old-age benefits. Special sections of the act provide also for children, for the blind and Federal aid for state and local public health services. But the unemployment and old-age sections are the most far-reaching, costly and controversial, dwarfing the other provisions.

25,000,000 Workers Affected.

Approximately 25,000,000 workers in the United States will be affected by the old-age benefit provisions, and about 23,000,000 of them will come under the provisions for unemployment compensation. The magnitude of the program is indicated by the reports of Congressional committees. The taxes on payrolls, which will raise the unemployment funds, was estimated at $200,000,000 for the fiscal year 1936-1937, increasing to $2,800,000,000 by 1950. The reserve account to be sustained for unemployment insurance alone is estimated at $250,000,000 by 1937, $1,900,000,000 by 1940, $2,000,000,000 by 1945 and $4,000,000,000 by 1950.

Fundamentally the unemployment compensation idea is to create reserves from which funds may be paid to employees who can find no work when their employment slackens. As explained in the research report devised by the Kansas Legislative Council, the Federal-State tax offset system is planned under the Social Security Act. The State must pass a law and compensation would

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Federal Social Security Act, passed at the last session of Congress, is still inoperative until the states pass approved measures to carry out its provisions. The necessary appropriations, balked when the late Senator Huey P. Long's spectacular filibuster throttled the deficiency bill in the session's closing hours, are expected to be made when Congress meets again in January. Yet the states, some of which also will be in session then, must act to put the national program into force.

The Social Security Board has just conferred on plans at Washington with State public welfare directors and commissioners. As the hour for its application approaches, the public begins to ask: "What will social security do? In the case of business men, it is: 'What will it do to me?' In the case of employees, it is: 'What will it do for me?'"

The two paramount plans in the Social Security Act include: Federal-State system of unemployment compensation and the other for Federal old-age benefits. Special sections of the act provide also for children, for the blind and Federal aid for states and local public health services. But the unemployment and old age sections are the most far-reaching, costly and controversial, dwarfing the other provisions.

Dog Quintuplets Named for Dionnes

PUPPIES born to one of a pack of 40 hounds taken to Hollywood from Kansas City, Mo., for a motion picture, have been gathered into a basket by MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN, actress. The studio said it was planned to send the puppies to the Dionne children as a Christmas present.

be paid by it, with the Federal Government merely acting as trustee of the State reserve funds and aiding the State administration in paying its expenses. A Federal payroll tax is levied which may be offset by State employment compensation tax laws.

Grants are to be made by the Federal Government for administration but not for the actual payment of compensation. An appropriation of $4,000,000 has been authorized for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1935, and $40,000,000 annually thereafter.

Provisions of Act. Every business man who employs eight or more workers must pay the Federal payroll tax, based on the total amount of wages he pays. For the calendar year 1936 this tax will be 1 per cent of the wages; for 1937, 2 per cent; thereafter, 3 per cent. Revenue from this tax, however, will not be used to pay unemployment compensation, which must be paid from the taxes the states themselves levy. If a state does not pass an unemployment compensation law, the revenue from the Federal payroll tax collected in that state goes into the United States Treasury for general appropriation. It is not apportioned to other states.

If the state does not come into the security program and levies unemployment compensation laws, employers are subject to both the state and the Federal payroll taxes. However, he may credit against the Federal tax the amount of contributions paid (before the date for filing the tax return) to the state unemployment compensation fund, up to 90 per cent of the Federal tax. Only those employers subject to state employment compensation laws approved by the Social Security Board are granted credit against the Federal payroll taxes.

Here is what unemployment compensation will mean to the individual employee. Any worker performing a service for an employer within the United States will be included within the scope of the beneficiaries and he will have to yield none of his own salaries or wages to benefit. This applies to all workers with the exception of those employed in the following ways:

Exceptions Listed.
Agricultural labor.
Domestic service in a private home.

Services by officers or crews of vessels in United States waters.
Services by an individual employed by a member of his own family.

Governmental services, national, state or local.
Service for non-profit organizations devoted to religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes.

There are two other important general exceptions: A worker to be eligible for unemployment compensation must be employed in establishments employing eight or more workers. Also he must have been employed for a certain number of weeks during the preceding year.

If all states participated in the program, about 50 per cent of those employed in this country would be included. Estimates based on fairly normal times (the census of 1930) give the total number of gainfully employed as 48,830,000. With the various exemptions, the net total eligible for unemployment compensation would be 22,874,000. The total revenue estimated by researchers for the Kansas Legislative Council, ranging from the 1 to the 3 per cent tax on payrolls, is from $234,000,000 in the calendar year 1936 to $907,000,000 in the calendar year 1951.

What It Costs Employers. If you are a business man and your annual payroll is $20,000, you will pay $200 under the one per cent tax in 1936; $400 under the two per cent tax in 1937 and $600 under the three per cent tax of 1938 and thereafter. If your payroll is $100,000 a year you will pay in the respective order above $1,000 in 1936; $2,000 in 1937 and $3,000 a year thereafter. If your payroll is $1,000,000 annually you will pay, respectively, $10,000, $20,000 and $30,000.

It is understood that these figures are minimum. If the state tax for unemployment compensation exceeds 90 per cent of the Federal tax (the offset figure), the total tax would be greater than the above figures. Reserve funds of each state are to be deposited as a trust fund with the United States Treasury. The State may make withdrawals if necessary to meet unemployment compensation claims. The purpose of this fund is to prevent deflationary effects which might result at the outset of a depression if each state invested its own funds. The Treasury is to invest funds not needed for current withdrawals in interest-bearing obligations guaranteed by the Federal Government.

The Federal payroll tax on employers of eight or more wage earners is to be collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, returns to be made not later than Jan. 31 following the close of the calendar year. If payment is delayed the employer must pay an interest rate of one-half of one per cent a month until the tax is paid.

No state legislation is necessary for the old-age pension part of the social security program. Taxes are levied and the benefit payments made therefrom solely by the Federal Government. However, in this case both the employer and the employee are taxed.

Contributions will be made from the payrolls and directly from the wages of individual workers. These funds will be put into a reserve account in the United States Treasury. Both employer and employee will pay at the rate of 1 per cent each, beginning in 1937, and increasing one-half of 1 per cent every three years until a maximum tax of 3 per cent is reached in 1949. Thereafter the tax rate will remain at 3 per cent.

When the worker reaches 65 years of age he is entitled to a regular monthly payment from these funds for the remainder of his life. First benefits will be paid in 1942. Payments will range from $10 to a maximum of $85 a month, based on the number of years the recipient has made contributions and upon his total wages during this period.

The combined employer-employee tax for old-age pension in the ordinary business enterprise thus would range from $200 in 1937 to $1200 in 1949 on a payroll of $20,000, and from $20,000 in 1937 to $60,000 in 1949 on a payroll of $1,000,000. It is estimated that the United States from these combined taxes will receive $278,800,000 in 1937 and $1,877,200,000 by 1950. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue may issue stamps and coupons for collection and payment of these taxes through the postoffice.

All Sixty-five in 1942 Eligible. All workers reaching 65 after Jan. 1, 1942, are eligible with the same general exceptions as those for unemployment benefits.

Corporation officers and high-salaried employees also will come under the eligible for old-age benefits. However, the individual tax will apply only to the first $3000 in wages during the calendar year, whatever the total salary may be. The net total of employees in the United States eligible for old-age pension benefits would be nearly the same as that given for unemployment insurance.

The beneficiary must have been paid wages of at least $2000 after Dec. 31, 1936, to be eligible, and he must have been employed, at least part time, during the calendar year after that date to be qualified by Jan. 1, 1942. Qualified individuals employed after that date cannot receive their benefits until they retire. The monthly amount will be based on percentages of the total wages paid after Dec. 31, 1936, ranging from one-half of 1 per cent of total wages up to $3000; one-twelfth of 1 per cent of wages between $3000 and $45,000, and one-twenty-fourth of 1 per cent of wages above $45,000.

Thus, if one is a worker receiving an average monthly salary of $50 a month and had been employed five years after Dec. 31, 1936, he would get $15 a month benefit. This figure rises in a graduated scale according to the longer period of employment, until that period of employment reaches 40 years, when, if he retires, he will be eligible to receive $32.50 a month from the Government.

SOME WPA WORKERS UNLIKELY TO GET CHECKS BY CHRISTMAS

Illinois Official Says Men Whose Employment Period Ended Thursday Will Get Paid.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Reports that all WPA workers would receive pay checks by Christmas were denied Thursday at Illinois headquarters of the Works Progress Administration.

Ralph H. Burke, Assistant State Administrator, said checks would be issued to those workers whose regular period of employment ended Thursday, and that he would make every effort to get checks out to those whose payroll period ends tomorrow. The order from Harry Hopkins, Federal Administrator of WPA, Burke said, "referred only to those whose regular period of employment ended Thursday night. Employees of the Treasury office and of the WPA will work Sunday to get these checks out."

Burke said that district heads in the downstate area had been advised to send their payroll accounts to the Chicago office by special messenger, rather than to trust to the holiday-jammed mail facilities.

ILLINOIS RELIEF COMMISSION DISMISSING 2100 EMPLOYEES

Number Working Will Be Reduced to $100 by Jan. 1, Wilfred Reynolds, Secretary, Says.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Dismissal of 2100 employees of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission was started Thursday. This will reduce the number of employees to $100 by Jan. 1, Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary, said.

This reduction, 800 in Cook County and the remainder downstate, will fall short of Gov. Horner's estimate that the staff would be reduced to 3500 by the first of the year.

"No new developments," was Reynolds' response to queries as to what progress had been made in obtaining the estimated $3,000,000 the IERC will need during January to supplement State funds of $2,000,000.

CHANGE OF VENUE GRANTED IN SUITS OVER STOLEN NOTES

Clark, Mo., Residents are Defendants; St. Louis Bank Held Partners Lost in Robbery.

MOBERLY, Mo., Dec. 20.—Thirty-one of 33 suits on notes filed in Circuit Court here by the First National Bank in St. Louis against various residents at Clark, Mo., near here, have been sent to the Boone County Circuit Court at Columbia on a change of venue. The change was asked by the plaintiff.

The notes sued upon had been given to the bank of Clark by the individuals named as defendants. The Clark bank then had posted the notes with the St. Louis bank as security for a loan. Several months ago the notes were stolen from an employee at the St. Louis bank. Unsuccessful efforts were made by the First National to obtain duplicates of the notes from the individuals. Then suits were filed, in which judgment was asked. The Clark bank then filed an intervening petition, asking judgment of $46,000 against the St. Louis bank and the note signers, alleging that is the amount due as the difference between the sum owed the St. Louis bank and the face value of the notes.

ICC AUTHORIZES FREIGHT RATE READJUSTMENT ON KNIT GOODS

Opinion Applies to Factory Products in All Territory East of Rocky Mountains.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized a broad readjustment of freight rates on cotton, woolen and knitting factory products in all territory east of the Rocky Mountains.

Of primary importance under the order were new rates authorized from northern and southern points to Mid-West destinations.
The Commission, in a 101-page opinion, allowed a general rate increase from the South to Midwest points 10 per cent higher than the northern level. It expressed the opinion that a differential relationship between southern and northern rates was not prejudicial to interstate commerce.

New England mills had challenged the 10 per cent differential as an unlawful rate disadvantage to them, contending it should be even greater in their favor. The majority ICC opinion discussed the broad north-south rate question, but said that evidence showing the south enjoyed lower production costs on cotton textiles was excluded because it was a "part of the industrial problem as distinguished from the strictly transportation problem with which we deal."

The Commission divided on the case, with Commissioners Lee, Mahaffie, Miller and Caskie dissenting. Under the Commission's ruling, the carriers are not required to institute the new rates but may do so if they desire.

NEW YORK LIQUOR LAW TEST
Running of Goods From Connecticut Is Challenged.
By the Associated Press.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 20.—An indictment in a test case to determine whether New York State residents can "run" liquor across the line from adjoining states was voted by the county grand jury here today against Joseph Ryan of New Rochelle.

The issue will be the constitutionality of the State law adopted in 1934 making such liquor "running" a misdemeanor. The Westchester County Liquor Dealers' Association was instrumental in precipitating the test. Lately it has protested against the importation of liquor by Westchester County residents from Connecticut, where liquor is cheaper because there is no State tax. Counsel for Ryan insisted the clause in the law prohibiting importation applied only to dealers. Ryan will seek dismissal in Supreme Court to start the case toward the Court of Appeals.

NEW YORK LIQUOR LAW TEST
Running of Goods From Connecticut Is Challenged.
By the Associated Press.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 20.—An indictment in a test case to determine whether New York State residents can "run" liquor across the line from adjoining states was voted by the county grand jury here today against Joseph Ryan of New Rochelle.

The issue will be the constitutionality of the State law adopted in 1934 making such liquor "running" a misdemeanor. The Westchester County Liquor Dealers' Association was instrumental in precipitating the test. Lately it has protested against the importation of liquor by Westchester County residents from Connecticut, where liquor is cheaper because there is no State tax. Counsel for Ryan insisted the clause in the law prohibiting importation applied only to dealers. Ryan will seek dismissal in Supreme Court to start the case toward the Court of Appeals.

Mrs. Foster, daughter of the late Peter Anderson, contractor and Republican City Committeeman, charged that her husband had deserted her Oct. 28, 1934, without cause. They were married in June, 1926, the petition stated. Her maiden name was Foster. ASSOCIATION SOUNDS OUT 900 ON HOUSING PLAN IN COUNTY Bellefontaine Road Organization Sends Letters to St. Ferdinand Township Residents.

About 900 residents of St. Ferdinand Township have received letters from the Bellefontaine Road Association asking them to express their views on the proposed establishment of a Federal Resettlement Administration housing project in the north part of St. Louis County. Accompanying the letters were copies of resolutions recently adopted by the association, protesting against the plan. The letter said that the Resettlement Administration should have consulted property owners in the neighborhood instead of locating the site where it would be "improperly placed, most unfit, and certainly least desirable." The resolution of the association said property values and the future of the neighborhood would be impaired. Federal officials recently said that the price asked for the proposed site of the community was too high and the plan had been abandoned. More recent efforts, however, to obtain options at lower figures have been made.

ROAST GOOSE IS ON THIS YEAR'S MENU

Savory Fruit Stuffing Goes Well With Any Holiday Poultry.

What shall it be for Christmas dinner this year is the question in the minds of many housewives. Shall it be turkey, or the traditional roast goose, duck or a perfectly baked ham?

All of the above mentioned have merits and in the end the Christmas bird will probably be a turkey. There is much to be said in favor of the other meats mentioned.

Goose Requires Stuffing.
Goose and duck should be stuffed but wild ducks require a special kind of technique which we will overlook for the present. Fruit and fruit juices play a great part in the stuffing of these birds. Goose and duck need the tartness that some fruits can give. Apple, orange, pineapple may be chosen with a little grated rind in the stuffing to give piquancy. If you don't like the idea of a fruit dressing, the old bread crumb-mashed potato type with onion and a bit of mace added will probably suit very well. Here is our choice for Christmas dinner:

Menu.
Assorted appetizers
Roast goose
Mashed potatoes
Candied carrots
Creamed broccoli
Green salad with Russian dressing
Eggnog Ice Cream
Fruit Cake
Coffee

Goose or duck requires the same care for roasting as turkey does. Twenty minutes per pound should be ample to produce a finished article that is not overdone. If the bird is older frequent basting will give it both tenderness and taste. You may take your choice of either dressing given below. In this case, sauce for the duck is also sauce for the goose.

Fruit Stuffing for Duck or Goose.
Four large apples.
Two cups stale bread crumbs.
One teaspoon powdered sage.
One teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon paprika.
Grated rind one-half lemon.
Pineapple juice.
Peel the apples, core and chop them until quite fine; add to the bread crumbs or finely diced bread and blend with seasonings. Moisten with pineapple juice, keeping the mixture light and fluffy and using enough juice to moisten the whole. Stuff into the cavity of the duck; draw vent together with toothpicks; place bird in a roasting pan, put a little water in the bottom of the pan and baste frequently while cooking.

Duck With Orange Juice Basting.
Place a strip of fat salt pork over breast of duck and cook in roaster without cover in hot oven (450 degrees) until meat begins to brown. Reduce heat to moderate oven (350 degrees) and cook until meat is tender, basting every 15 minutes with orange juice. Add two tablespoons lemon juice to each cup of orange juice used. Amount of juice used will vary with size of duck. Figure on cooking 20 minutes per pound without dressing or longer with dressing.

Fruit Dressing.
Twelve oranges.
Fourteen walnut meats.
Four canned apricots.
Six stewed prunes.
Four cups bread crumbs.
One egg beaten light.
Separate orange pulp from membrane and drain fruit. Mix fruit, walnut meats and bread crumbs lightly with fork. Add egg beaten light. Stuff and truss well or bake dressing in dripping pan, two to three inches deep.

Roast Duckling.
Prepare a duckling for roasting in the usual manner, adding one teaspoon of grated orange rind to the stuffing. Place in a hot oven for 15 minutes. When the fat begins to run, baste every 15 minutes with a syrup made from the juice of three oranges, one teaspoon of thin applesauce and one-half cup sugar. Garnish the duckling with thick slices of orange on beds of water cress.

SWEDISH TEA ROLLS
Two cups flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Three tablespoons shortening.
One egg, well beaten.
Three-fourths cup milk.
Cinnamon, sugar, currants, melted butter.
Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt and cut in the shortening as for biscuits. Add the milk with the egg. Roll dough half an inch thick and spread lightly with melted butter. Sprinkle with cinnamon, sugar and currants. Roll up like a jelly roll and cut into pieces an inch long. Set on end in a shallow pan and bake in a hot oven for about 20 minutes.

Fruit Butter Sandwiches.
Here is a trick for making sandwiches that children like. Cream together equal parts of apple, peach or any other kind of fruit butter and spread it smoothly and thickly away out to the crust of the bread. Top with the second slice of bread, and if you have followed instructions carefully, the children will even eat the crusts.

CHOCOLATE COOKIE WITH ALMONDS IS OLD-WORLD DAINTY

In our recipe for Chocolate Almond Cookies given last week no sugar was mentioned. Here is the corrected recipe for half the amount given last week:

Chocolate Almond Cookies.
One cup chopped almonds, blanched.
Two and one-fourth cups sugar.
One-half cup butter.
Two tablespoons lard.
One-half teaspoon baking powder.
Four large eggs.
Four-fourth pound bitter chocolate, grated.
Four scant cups flour.
One-half tablespoon cinnamon.
One-half tablespoon cloves.
Cream together butter, lard and sugar. Beat in the egg yolks. Sift together flour, cinnamon, cloves and baking powder and add with chocolate and almonds. Fold in beaten egg whites and let stand overnight. Roll thin and bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes.

Sandwich Filling.
Date-celery filling: Place 24 dates and one-half cup diced celery in wooden bowl and chop together. Moisten with sufficient milk, cream or salad dressing to bind ingredients together.

PEANUT BALLS

One package rice flakes.
One cup peanuts.
One cup sugar.
One cup brown sugar.
One-half cup dark syrup.
One-half cup water.
One tablespoon butter.
Two teaspoons white vinegar.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Put rice flakes and peanuts in a bowl. Boil remaining ingredients, except vanilla, until when dropped from tip of spoon into cold water a firm ball is formed (24 degrees). Cool slightly, flavor with vanilla, and pour gradually, stirring gently, over the rice flakes and peanuts. Form into balls as soon as cool enough to handle. Makes 24 balls.

FOOD GIFTS PERFECT FOR CHRISTMAS

Every Day and Luxury Foods Range From Home-Made to Imported Articles.

We don't know how you feel about it but we think gifts of food are among the most welcome in the world. Everyday foods, yes, a few, but food luxuries that we sigh for longingly.

Basket on Many Lists.
The basket of choice foods and fruits has found a place on Christmas lists ever since grandmother's day. Christmas was always a busy time for her. For weeks the big wood range in the kitchen was kept going full blast turning out Christmas cookies and fruit cakes which were to go to friends and relatives. When she put up her jams and jellies in the summer she always made some extra jars for gifts at Christmas time.

Today those of us who still have the pioneer spirit of doing things our own way and baking our own cakes and cookies give them wrapped in beautiful and amusing wrappings to our friends. If we happen to know particular "likes" we may thoughtfully include some of them.

Good Things Plentiful.
The shelves of specialty shops and grocery stores are overflowing with really good things to eat. First of all there is caviar red or black, put up in tiny glass jars or tins. There are anchovies in filets or rolled about capers, suitable for gay supper party occasions.

Cookies may be had in every variety if you choose, from English tea biscuits to those German Christmas lebkuchen which are more confection than cookie. Fruit for gifts too may be purchased now. Jam, jellies and honey always make excellent and thoughtful gifts, English jams and marmalades, German preserves or that delicious French preserve made of currants with the seeds painstakingly removed, called Bar le Duc and served with game or in combination with cream cheese.

A Gift of Cheese.
Now that we are considering cheese definitely part of our American diet it will be safe to include a gift of cheese in the basket you may be planning. English Stilton, French Roquefort or Camembert, Swiss Gruyere, Italian Gorgonzola, Dutch Edam or a hundred and one other varieties may excite your interest.

Vegetables, including the tiny peas, string beans, or the mixture used for vegetable salads and called macedoine, are always good gifts. Tiny button mushrooms or French cepes makes splendid gifts.

Today practically everything in the meat and fish line may be had in jars or tins, from boned ham to turkey, chicken and selected clams. Meat and fish pastes as spreads for those crispy round butter crackers are always welcome.

Fruit Is Decorative.
At this time of year fruit is always close to perfection. Perhaps your purse warrants hot-house grapes but for most of us the California malaga serves the purpose. Oranges come in all sizes and there are or course tangerines, beautiful apples and pears. Add a few of them to your basket for color and among the gaily-wrapped packages.

Candy is always a good gift and you may choose from an imposing array of chocolate, bonbons, creams or hard candies both domestic and imported. Put a little thought with your food gifts, dress them as perfectly as you know and rest assured that the recipient will consider them among his most cherished Christmas gifts.

POTATO SOUFFLE FOR THAT HOLIDAY LUNCHEON

For that planned holiday luncheon or dinner try potatoes souffle. They are a decided change for the better in an everyday dish.

Potato Souffle.
One and one-half pound potatoes. One-half cup water from potatoes. One-half cup irradiated evaporated milk.

Two tablespoons bacon fat or butter. Two tablespoons flour. One-eighth teaspoon salt. Eight eggs.

One cup grated cheese (one-fourth pound). Peel and dice potatoes. Add just enough water to cover, one-half teaspoon salt, and boil until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain, save water and mash potatoes. There will be about three cups (scant) mashed potatoes and one-half cup water.

Make a thick sauce of the fat, flour, salt water and milk. Add potatoes. Beat in egg yolks one at a time. Then fold in the cheese and the egg whites, beaten stiff but not dry. Bake in a greased dish in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.), until set, about 40 minutes. Yield: Eight to 10 servings.

FRUIT CARAMELS

One-half pound dates, stoned. One-half pound raisins. One-half pound figs.

One-half pound grated coconut. One-half pound nut meat. One-fourth pound candied orange or lemon peel.

Two tablespoons lemon juice. One-fourth cup orange juice. Powdered sugar.

Put fruit, nuts and peel through food chopper. Roll into balls or pack into a square pan and cut into cubes. Roll in powdered sugar. This makes about three pounds.

Cake Note.
Always make cake batter higher at the edges than in the center to insure even rising.

Sandwich Filling.
Banana chicken salad filling: Dice three bananas and mix with one-half cup diced canned pineapple, diced celery and one-fourth cup spoon salt. Add mayonnaise, cooked chicken, one-fourth cup moisten and mix well.

RICH PUDDING IS IN THE BEST TRADITION

Serve It With a Hot or Cold Sauce to Bring Out Good Taste.

You may be one of those tradition-loving souls whom Christmas means Christmas without rich plum pudding. There is a great deal to be said in favor of plum pudding as a Christmas dessert especially now when it is possible to purchase the same already made up so that all you have to do is put it in the upper part of a double boiler and heat it.

Pudding Is Traditional.
Plum pudding is one of the oldest known. When you were a child you were probably disappointed to find a total absence of plums in the well-known pudding. Now that most of us have done a little reading we know that the English are raisins which to our English forefathers were rare enough.

Speaking of tradition, the plum pudding should be carried on ablaze with brandy. Most of us, I think, are perfectly willing to dispense with this bit of indoor fireworks, serving our puddings with sauce that may be either hot or cold.

There are a number of recipes for plum pudding which range all the way from a super richness to a milder and less heavy dessert. Here are some recipes in case you want to boil up your own pudding.

Plum Pudding.
One-quarter pound bread crumbs. One-half pound raisins. One-quarter cup molasses. One-quarter pound currants. Two eggs.

One-eighth pound orange peel. One-quarter cup sweet milk. One-quarter pound suet. One-eighth pound citron.

One-quarter ounce mixed spices. One-eighth pound lemon peel. Four tablespoons sugar. Pinch of soda.

Mix the dry ingredients and add the liquids. Add a little more milk if the mixture seems too firm. Turn into buttered molds and steam for three and one-half hours. This amount makes two puddings.

Here is a real English pudding recipe.

English Plum Pudding.
One-half pound stale bread crumbs. One cup scalded milk. One-quarter pound sugar. Four eggs.

One-half pound seeded raisins, cut in pieces and floured. One-quarter pound seedless raisins.

One-quarter pound finely chopped figs. Two ounces finely cut citron. One-half pound suet.

One-quarter cup currant jelly or grape juice. One-half cup grated nutmeg. Three-quarters teaspoon cinnamon.

One-third teaspoon cloves. One-third teaspoon mace. One and one-half teaspoons salt.

One cup bread crumbs in milk. Let stand until cool, add sugar, beaten egg yolks, raisins, figs and citron; chop suet and work with hands until creamy; combine mixtures, then add currant jelly or grape juice, nutmeg, cinnamon, cloves, salt, and egg whites, beat stiff. Fill buttered molds two-thirds full and steam six hours.

Spiced Fruit Pudding.
One cup molasses. One cup milk. One cup raisins. One cup currants. One-half cup butter. Three teaspoons baking powder. One egg.

One teaspoon salt. One teaspoon ground allspice. One teaspoon ground cloves. One teaspoon ground cinnamon. Three cups flour.

Cream butter, add molasses and egg and beat well. Sift flour, salt, making powder and spices together. Add alternately flour and milk to the creamed butter mixture. Last stir in currants and raisins. Boil two hours in a regular pudding mold. Two coffee tins, allow room for pudding to expand.

Hard Sauce.
One-fourth cup butter. White of one egg, unbeaten. Two cups confectioner's sugar.

Cream butter gradually, add sugar, then egg white, and stir until smooth. Flavor to suit taste.

Soft Sauce.
One tablespoon butter. One-half cup granulated sugar. One cup boiling water.

One tablespoon flour. Put flour and sugar in a saucepan, add boiling water and cook about five minutes. Take off stove and add butter and flavoring. Flavored may be juice and rind of one lemon, vanilla or brandy to suit taste.

Lemon Sauce.
One-third cup butter. Three egg yolks.

One-third cup boiling water. Three tablespoons lemon juice. Few gratings of lemon rind. Brandy or wine if preferred.

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and egg yolks slightly beaten. Add boiling water and cook over hot water until mixture begins to thicken. Remove from heat, add lemon juice, gratings and brandy. Serve hot.

Fruit Cocktail.
Two oranges. Two grapefruit.

One-third cup powdered sugar. Peel oranges and grapefruit and remove the sections. Arrange in tall cocktail glasses with the grapefruit placed petal-like in the glass. Place sections of oranges in the center. Chill and just before serving place a spoonful of powdered sugar in the center of each serving and garnish with sprigs of mint.

THE HOLIDAY DESSERT QUESTION ARISES NOW

Debate Concerns Itself With Virtues of Pies and Puddings Versus Ices.

The dessert that completes the Christmas dinner is a most important one. While most of us lean to the traditional pie and pudding, some of us feel that a large dinner topped by a large dessert induces an after dinner state of torpor that lasts for hours. And who wants to spend a drowsy, however, pleasantly weary Christmas?

The desserts suggested below are typical Christmas desserts of the frozen variety. They are truly elegant and may be served in smallest portions. Since they require less time than the puddings and pies they will be very welcome to most hostesses. Turn them into the little paper cups which may be purchased at all department stores. To complete their festive look decorate them with tiny candies or bits of angelica or the usual maraschino cherry.

Macaroon Mousse.

One cup milk.
One-fourth cup sugar.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half tablespoon gelatin.
Three tablespoons cold water.
One cup macaroon crumbs.
One and one-half cups whipped cream.

Put the milk, sugar and salt in the top part of a double boiler and heat. Add the gelatin in the cold water and then add to the heated mixture. When cool stir in the macaroon crumbs and fold in the whipped cream. Turn into the freezing trays of a refrigerator and freeze until stiff.

Christmas Plum Pudding.

One cup milk.
One-half cup raisins.
One-fourth cup currants.
Two-thirds cup dates.
Three-fourths square of melted chocolate.

One tablespoon gelatin.
One-fourth cup water.
One-half cup of sugar.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-fourth cup chopped nuts.
One-fourth teaspoon vanilla.

Two stiffly beaten egg whites.
Cook together a double boiler the milk, raisins, currants and dates. When slightly cooked add the melted chocolate. Soften the gelatin in the cold water and add to the hot mixture. Stir until dissolved and add the sugar and salt. Cool and when mixture begins to congeal add with nuts, vanilla and beaten egg whites. Turn into a mold that has been rinsed in cold water. Serve with whipped cream or pudding sauce.

Angel Farfall.

One-half cup sugar.
One-half cup of cold water.
Two stiffly beaten egg whites.
One-half tablespoon gelatin.
Two tablespoons cold water.
One cup cream, whipped.

One teaspoon vanilla.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Boil the sugar and water together until a little dropped in cold water will form a soft ball that may be lifted between the fingers. Then pour in a steady thin stream on the stiffly beaten whites. Add softened gelatin to this mixture and stir until dissolved. Cool and when mixture is cold and begins to set fold in the whipped cream, salt and vanilla. Turn into freezing trays and freeze without stirring.

Peppermint Stick Ice Cream.
One-half pound peppermint sticks broken.
One cup of milk.
One tablespoon gelatin.
One-fourth cup of cold water.
Two tablespoons of lemon juice.
One cup of cream, whipped.

Melt the peppermint candy in milk in a double boiler. Soak the gelatin in cold water, add to the candy mixture, add lemon juice and cool. Fold in stiffly beaten cream. Freeze, stirring twice at half-hour intervals.

TURKEY SALAD

One tablespoon plain gelatin.
One-quarter cup cold water.
Three-quarters cup mayonnaise.
One cup diced turkey or chicken.
One-half cup diced celery.
One-half teaspoon vinegar or lemon juice.

One-quarter teaspoon paprika.
Soften the gelatin in the cold water, then place in a bowl over hot water and stir gelatin until dissolved. When cooled add the mayonnaise, diced turkey, celery, lemon juice and paprika. Turn into individual molds and chill. Serve on lettuce and garnish with radish roses.

Raspberry Tapioca Cream.
Add three-fourths cup water to one cup of canned raspberries, and bring to boiling. Add three tablespoons of quick-cooking tapioca and five tablespoons sugar; cook over boiling water for 15 minutes, or until the tapioca is transparent, stirring often. Cool. Fold in one stiffly-beaten egg white and one-third cup cream whipped. Pile in glasses and chill. Serve, if desired, with thin cream.

Baked Rice Potatoes.
Put freshly boiled hot potatoes that have been seasoned with salt, pepper and butter through a ricer and pile lightly in a baking dish. Sprinkle with grated cheese and place in a moderate oven until the cheese is melted.

CRANBERRY FIGURES IN HOLIDAY FEASTING

Traditional Partner of Turkey Recently Admitted to Circle of Desserts.

The cranberry is as much a part of holiday festivities as are holly wreaths and mistletoe. It is the traditional partner for the turkey and has recently been admitted to the inner circle of pastries and desserts.

The cranberry was originally cranberry, probably because the cranes that inhabit the Eastern bogs were the only ones who realized its worth. The adoption of a new food is always a matter of experiment and some brave soul evidently tried out the berry with a great deal of success. The results of this experiment are a number of very tasty dishes which touch all the fields of cookery.

Cranberry Ice Box Dessert.

One can condensed milk.
One-fourth cup lemon juice.
Two-thirds cup cranberry jelly.
Twenty-four vanilla wafers.

Blend together condensed milk and lemon juice. Add two-thirds cup cranberry jelly and mix with a silver fork. Line narrow, oblong pan with wax paper and a layer of vanilla wafers. Cover with jelly mixture. Add another layer of wafers, alternating in this way until mixture is used; finishing with a layer of wafers. Let stand in refrigerator for 12 hours. To serve, turn out on small platter and carefully remove wax paper. Cut in slices and serve plain or with whipped cream. Serves six.

Cranberry Tapioca.

One-fourth cup quick-cooking tapioca.
One and one-third cups boiling water.
One cup 10-minute cranberry sauce.

One cup whipped cream.
Two tablespoons orange juice.
One teaspoon grated orange rind.
Drop tapioca into boiling salted water. Cook in double boiler five minutes, stirring occasionally. When cold, add 10-minute cranberry sauce, orange rind and juice. Lastly fold in whipped cream. Pour into glasses. Chill. Top with whipped cream.

Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce.

One pound or quart (four cups) cranberries.
One cup water.
One and one-half to two cups sugar.

Boil sugar and water together five minutes; add cranberries and boil without stirring (five minutes usually sufficient) until all the skins pop open. Remove from the fire when the popping stops, and allow the sauce to remain in vessel undisturbed until cool.

Cranberry Mold.

One package lemon-flavored gelatin.
One and one-half cups warm water.
One-half cup finely cut celery.
One-half cup drained canned crushed pineapple.

One cup thick cranberry sauce.
Dissolve the gelatin in warm water. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serves six.

Cranberry Bran Muffins.

One and one-half cups sifted flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half cup sugar.
One cup coarsely chopped cranberries.

Two eggs, well beaten.
One cup milk.
Four tablespoons melted butter or other shortening.

One cup bran.
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt and sugar, and sift again. Add cranberries to one-third cup flour mixture. Combine eggs, milk and butter; add to flour mixture, beating only enough to dampen all flour. Fold in cranberries and bran. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) 25 minutes, or until done. Makes 18 muffins.

GOLD CAKE

One-half cup butter.
Three-fourths cup sugar.
Four egg yolks.
One-third cup milk.
One and one-half cups flour.

One cup bran.
Cream the butter, add the sugar and then the well-beaten egg yolks. Sift together the flour and baking powder and add alternately with the milk. Turn into layer pans and bake in a moderate oven for about 15 minutes. Put together with your favorite icing. This amount makes two layers.

Oysters in Custard.
Oysters in custard have a sort of continental air about them. Cold, crisp salad of greens, or one of crisp apples and celery sets off the delicacy of this combination to excellent advantage. Either large or small oysters may be used. Wash the oysters, and arrange them in a buttered baking dish, preferably a somewhat shallow one. Over the oysters pour a custard made as follows: Beat three eggs or six egg yolks slightly. Add to them two cups scalded milk. Add salt and pepper to taste. Strain into baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 40 minutes, or until custard is set. Serve hot.

JOB OF CARVING GOES TO HEAD OF FAMILY

Well-Cooked Christmas Bird May Be Wrecked by Uninformed Host.

By this time holiday plans are complete. The menu is planned, the guests are invited and the poultry order is in your dealer's hand. The most important part of the dinner remains to be accomplished, the cooking and serving of the turkey itself. It seems to us that host and hostess share equally in this important rite, for no matter how well cooked the bird is, it may become a sad and sorry wreck under the hand of an uninformed host.

Stuff Bird Early.
To the cook or hostess goes the first responsibility. We suggest that the dressing and stuffing of the turkey be done the night before, so as to allow for plenty of time for the roasting. After the fowl is dressed, singed and the pin feathers removed, it should be scrubbed with cold water in which some baking soda is dissolved. Then dry it and it is ready for stuffing.

Any good bread or potato stuffing is good for a foundation. You can vary it with the addition of fresh oysters, chopped cooked giblets, celery and parsley chopped fine, chopped cranberries or a mixture of onion and sage, depending on your particular taste for dressing.

Stuff both the body cavity and the neck good and full. A metal skewer is handy to use in pinning the neck skin back to the under side of the body and an ordinary darning needle and white cord will serve to sew the body cavity shut. If the tail is left on, the feet may be tied securely to it and wings folded back under the body.

Roasting Is Simple.
Roasting is the simplest imaginable process if you remember the single word—slow. Place the bird on its back in an open roaster. Baste the surface with hot water in which butter is melted and place the pan in a fairly hot oven (400 F.) until it starts to brown (20 minutes). Now the oven is turned very low (275-300), and roasting continued with occasional basting with the butter and water mixture for about 25 to 30 minutes to the pound. Young turkeys should not be covered unless they start to get too brown. Older birds may need covering during the slow roasting to make them tender.

Slow cooking insures an evenly, thoroughly cooked bird, no splitting of skin and the retention of all the delicious juiciness of the fowl. When the breast is very tender the turkey is done.

Hot Carves.
Now comes the host's opportunity to contribute toward the success of the dinner, for he will carve. A thoughtful hostess will limit the garnish to a few crisp sprigs of green.

Place a tray cloth or carving cloth under the platter and place the bird so that the feet are to the right of the host. Hot plates are in front of the host, with an extra plate to receive cut meat if the platter is small. He starts by sticking the carving fork firmly into the breast with the left hand, then with the knife disjoints the leg and thigh nearest him. Let it rest on the platter while the wing is similarly removed.

Now, with the fork still held in the point of the breast, slices are cut from the breast meat slanting them slightly from tip of breast bone toward the wing. Cut enough slices to serve each guest once, then remove the fork and separate the thigh and leg, dividing them lengthwise for serving. Usually a slice of breast, a piece of dark meat and a spoonful of dressing are served to each guest.

Cut More as Needed.
Leave the platter with the uncut side toward the guests until you are ready to serve second helpings, then turn the platter and proceed as before.

When the table is cleared, the carving cloth is also removed, carrying with it any bits of fowl which have scattered.
No host should stand to carve. Carving is simple if the meat is properly cooked and the host knows where to expect bones and joints. An inexperienced host will do well to watch the process of dressing and stuffing, so that he will be able to tell where the joints lie before the fowl is cooked.

The same principle is followed in carving any fowl like goose, chicken or duck.

UNCOOKED CANDY

One six-ounce jar peanut butter
One tin condensed milk
One pound confectioner's sugar
One pound shredded coconut.
Mix thoroughly peanut butter and milk, then add sugar and coconut alternately. Pack in tin and let set for four or five hours. This makes three pounds of candy.

Steak Casserole.
Cut a one pound slice of round steak in four servings. Salt and pepper each piece and roll in flour. Brown the meat in drippings, then lay them in a casserole and slice over the top one onion, one carrot and one-half green pepper. Pour over the contents of one can of tomato soup and two tablespoons water. Cover and bake in a slow oven (350 degrees) for one and one-half hours or until the meat is tender.

CARP IS TRADITIONAL POLISH CHRISTMAS EVE MAIN DISH

Carp is the traditional Christmas eve feast of the Poles. It is prepared by being boiled in wine and served with a sauce of almonds, lemons and currants. At other times of the year one will encounter the carp braised, boiled in beer, fried, smoked or stewed. Here is carp in the Polish tradition:

Carp Polonaise.
Four lb. carp rubbed with one teaspoon salt.
One-third cup raisins plumped in one-third cup warm water.
One large carrot sliced.
One large onion sliced.
One cup water.
2 slices lemon.
One teaspoon lemon juice.
Three-quarters teaspoon salt.
One good pinch of pepper.
Three tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons brown sugar.
Three-quarters cup hot water.
One tablespoon corn starch.

Clean carp, cut in serving pieces and rub with salt. Make a fish stock by cooking head and tail piece of fish with the carrot and onion and one cup water. When nearly done add plumped raisins and water, lemon, salt, pepper, cloves. Melt the butter in the frying pan, add the cornstarch which has been moistened with the stock and the sugar. Stir in the hot water and the remaining stock. Let cook until thick and smooth. Put fish in a saucepan pour the sauce over and let simmer, covered tightly until fish is tender. This takes about 15 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

ICE BOX COOKIES

One cup butter.
Two cups brown sugar.
One egg.
One cup bran.
Three cups flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
Cream butter; add sugar gradually and beat until thoroughly mixed. Add egg and bran. Sift flour with baking powder and add to the first mixture. Shape into roll about one and one-half inches in diameter, wrap in waxed paper and store in refrigerator until firm. Cut into thin slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 10 minutes.
Yield, seven and one-half dozen cookies two inches in diameter.

MORE OR LESS ABOUT MARKETS AND MENUS

Let Your Pre-Christmas Meals Be Ones That Are Easily Prepared.

With Christmas just a scant few days off we find ourselves wondering where the time has gone. If you have no last minute shopping to do, no last minute Christmas cards to mail, you really deserve to be congratulated.

In planning the menus for the week we have taken into consideration that most of you will have a busy Monday and Tuesday and perhaps a busy Sunday before Christmas. Therefore we suggest simple meals that can be easily put together in a short time, things that can be popped into the stove, or that may be turned out of cans.

Hearty Breakfast.

Breakfast on Christmas morning is one of those hearty, late meals. Fried apples and country sausage and waffles will set you up to the strenuous task of preparing the Christmas dinner. We hope you have profited by our advice on previous occasions about stuffing the Christmas bird the night before. You have no idea what a relief it is to feel that you can arise on Christmas morning and have this important task done. We are suggesting roast duck with dressing for dinner and a modern fruit cake in place of the usual Christmas pudding. You may vary this if you like by selecting one of the frozen desserts given in another column. The recipe for dressing, too, is given in another column in this section.

We suggest rather lighter meals for Thursday with the remnants of the duck going into a delicious shortcake. Make the dough as you would for biscuits with a little more than the usual amount of shortening. Make a thick white sauce, heat the diced duck in it and serve between halves of biscuit dough. A few pickles, some mushrooms and some crisp diced celery will help extend the leftover meat.

Have a Candy Bee.
Since the children will be at home during the week you may find it lessens the tax upon your nervous energy to turn over the kitchen to them on some afternoon for a candy bee. Make the rule that all messy pots and dishes are to be cleaned up after a privilege of this kind.

Candies Swing Along in Gay Holiday Mood

Homemade Sweets of Many Varieties Go Well With Gift Boxes of Cookies.

CHRISTMAS is not Christmas without candies, especially some of the homemade kind. Candies are fun to make and there are a hundred ways in which they may be wrapped and packaged for gift use.

There are a few secrets that have been passed on from an expert candy maker which will benefit the home candy maker. This candy maker uses a heavy aluminum or enamel saucepan which is large enough to permit vigorous boiling, a wooden spoon for stirring and beating, and a candy thermometer for temperature. If you do not have a thermometer use the cold water test. A spatula is convenient for removing candy and a marble slab or baking sheet is splendid where the recipe calls for kneading.

Candy Temperatures.

The accepted candy temperatures are:

Syrup — — — — — 220 degrees

Soft ball — — — — — 234 degrees

Hard ball — — — — — 250 degrees

Light crack — — — — — 264 degrees

Hard crack — — — — — 290 degrees

If you use the cold water or spoon test at the syrup stage the candy drops from the spoon and spins a long thin thread. For the soft ball a little dropped in cold water can be picked up and handled easily; the hard ball immediately takes on a firm outer surface. The crack stage holds its shape when dropped into water. For fudge, cream candies and fondants use the soft ball test; for butterscotch and caramels the hard ball, and for glazed nuts and lollypops the crack stage is the test.

Glaze Nuts.

Glaze nuts which are so attractive require a special technique. The day chosen to make them should be bright and cold for best results. To make the syrup use two cups sugar, one cup boiling water and one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar. Mix well and boil until the syrup begins to discolor (310 degrees). Remove from fire and set saucepan in another of cold water to stop boiling. During dipping place in a pan of hot water to keep from crystallizing. Put nuts on a skewer, dip in the syrup and set out on waxed or oiled paper to dry.

Christmas Nougat.

Two cups sugar.

One-third cup water.

One cup light syrup.

Two egg whites.

One-eighth teaspoon salt.

One teaspoon vanilla.

One-half cup candied cherries, cut.

One-half cup almonds, chopped.

Boil together sugar, water and syrup until a little dropped in cold water forms a hard ball. Beat egg whites stiff, pour the mixture slowly onto the egg whites, beating all the time until the mixture is like whipped cream. Stir in the vanilla, cherries and nuts and pour into a buttered pan. Let stand overnight cut into oblong pieces and wrap in waxed paper.

Butterscotch Caramels.

Two cups sugar.

One and three-fourths cups light syrup.

Three-fourths cup butter.

One pint cream.

One-half teaspoon vanilla.

One cup chopped pecans.

Place one-half pint of cream, sugar and syrup in a pan on a very slow fire, stirring constantly. When mixture is boiling, add remaining cream and butter slowly, so that candy does not stop boiling. Cook slowly until a little dropped in cold water forms a firm ball. This takes about 50 minutes. Sprinkle chopped nuts on a well buttered pan. Add vanilla to mixture and pour over nuts. Let stand for several hours, or overnight, then cut in pieces and wrap in waxed paper. This quantity makes two and one-half pounds of caramels.

Fruit Nuggets.

Three cups light brown sugar.

One cup sour cream.

One-half teaspoon salt.

One-half square of chocolate.

Two tablespoons butter.

One-half cup dates, cut fine.

One-half cup raisins.

Chopped nuts and coconut.

Cook sugar, cream and salt to the soft ball stage, stirring occasionally, wiping the crystals from the side of the pan with a damp cloth. Pour immediately into a well-buttered pan, drop in chocolate and butter and allow to stand without stirring until the pan can be held comfortably in the palm of the hand. Beat until mass thickens and becomes light colored. Stir in the dates and nuts. Drop by spoonfuls into chopped nuts and coconut, roll until balls are coated and place on waxed paper to cool. Yields about two pounds of candy or three dozen one inch nuggets.

Butter Taffy.

Four cups sugar.

Three-quarters cup water.

Two-thirds cup butter.

One-quarter teaspoon cream of tartar.

Extracts and colorings.

Put sugar, butter, water and cream of tartar together in a three-quarter saucepan and cook to the hard crack stage (275-280 degrees). Stir frequently during the last 10 degrees to prevent scorching. Pour gently into buttered platter to cool (do not scrape the pan) and set platter on a cake cooler. When cool enough to handle, divide into portions, color and flavor as desired. Butter hands well and pull until candy is opaque, even colored and stiff. Pull out into a rope one-half inch in diameter and cut into half inch lengths with a buttered scissors. Set aside overnight. Yields 2 1/4 pounds.

Chocolate Fudge.

Two cups sugar.

Two-thirds cup cream or milk.

Two squares chocolate or one-half cup cocoa.

One-eighth teaspoon salt.

Two tablespoons light syrup.

One teaspoon vanilla.

One-half cup chopped nuts.

Put sugar, cream, chocolate, salt and syrup into a saucepan. Stir over low heat until chocolate has melted and sugar dissolved. Increase heat and boil steadily until candy thermometer registers 235 degrees or form a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Stir only occasionally to prevent burning. Remove from stove, add butter and nuts and set aside until lukewarm. Add vanilla and beat with a wooden spoon. When thick turn out on a well buttered plate and cut in squares.

Fondant.

Two cups sugar.

One-half cup water.

One-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar.

Combine all the ingredients in a heavy saucepan and bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly until the sugar is dissolved. Cover and let cook until syrup reaches the soft ball stage when dropped into cold water. Pour onto a platter and let cool to body temperature. Beat until it loses its gloss and then knead. Wrap in waxed paper and store in air tight tins until ready to use. Fondant may be shaped and dipped in melted chocolate or it may be used to stuff darts or other glazed fruits.

Panache.

Three cups brown sugar.

One cup milk.

One teaspoon vanilla.

One cup chopped nuts.

Two tablespoons butter.

Boil sugar and milk until it forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Remove from fire, add butter and set aside to cool without stirring.

When lukewarm add vanilla and nuts and beat until thick-ens. Pour into buttered pan and cut in squares.

HERE IS TRADITIONAL EGG NOG AS DESSERT AND PIE AT THAT

If you prefer the traditional egg nog as a dessert rather than as a drink try it this way. It's pie!

Egg Nog Pie.

Cook to a custard consistency four egg yolks which have been slightly beaten with one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt and one-half cup of hot water. Soften one tablespoon gelatin in one-fourth cup cold water and add to the egg mixture. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. When mixture begins to stiffen add two teaspoons rum or rum flavoring, one teaspoon nutmeg and one-half cup sugar, which has been beaten into the four whites. Place one-half pint of cream, sugar and syrup in a pan on a very slow fire, stirring constantly. When mixture is boiling, add remaining cream and butter slowly, so that candy does not stop boiling. Cook slowly until a little dropped in cold water forms a firm ball. This takes about 50 minutes. Sprinkle chopped nuts on a well buttered pan. Add vanilla to mixture and pour over nuts. Let stand for several hours, or overnight, then cut in pieces and wrap in waxed paper. This quantity makes two and one-half pounds of caramels.

STOCK PRICE MOVEMENTS UPWARD IN A SLOW TRADE

Aircraft, Mining, Rail and Specialty Issues A Re
Among Buying Favorites
—Further Drop in Silver
Price.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Specialized buying demand marked a session of today's stock market.

Favorite groups with gains of fractions to a point or more included the aircraft, mining, oil and steel. The close was steady.
Transfers approximated 1,350,000 shares.

Most of the commission house customers seemed to have their minds more on Christmas than on the market.

Merchandise issues did not respond with any show of buoyancy to estimates that Sears-Roebuck's gross sales for the year would be in excess of $400,000,000, or the best since 1929.

Cotton improved and grains moved about in a restricted range.
Bonds were quiet with U. S. Government securities firm. There were few changes in foreign currency dealings.

Among the relatively active share
gainers were: Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, U. S. Smelting,
Cerro de Pasco, Seaboard Oil, Continental Oil, Bethlehem Steel, U. S.
Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube,
American Can, Johns-Manville, Western Union, A. O. Smith, Thatcher Mfg. and Canada Dry.

The rails just about held their own. Chrysler became quite lively on the upside in the final hour.
The chemicals were lifeless. Allied Chemical got down nearly 4 points and Schenley, Auburn, Woolworth and American Telephone yielded a point or more each.

Wheat ended 1/4 of a cent a bushel lower to 1 1/2 higher and corn was 1/4 off to 1/2 higher. Oats edged up 1/4 to 1/2. At Winnipeg wheat was 1/4 to 1/2. Cotton was 25 to 50 cents a bale firmer.

At mid-afternoon the French franc was unchanged at 6.59¢.
Sterling was up .03 and Swiss franc gained .01. Sterling advanced 1/4 of a cent to $4.93 1/4, and Canadian dollars improved 1/16 of a cent at 99 1/2¢.

Although foreign silver at New York dropped another 2 cents to 61 1/2¢, the lowest in more than a year, the non-ferrous metal issues were evidently boostered by the theory heard in Wall Street that the U. S. Treasury has shifted its buying to silver producing countries, rather than silver importing countries. Yesterday's special dividend of $5 a share by U. S. Smelting was also a factor.

Steels were helped by the decision of Gulf States Steel to pay dividend of $5 a share. The dividend credited to accumulations. Oil responded to agitation for higher crude prices in the mid-continent area.

In connection with the rise in aircraft issues, brokers noted the new edition in London of the
"All the World's Aircraft for 1935", showing striking gains in aircraft armament.

Part of the selling which came into the market was said by brokers to represent profit taking by persons with losses earlier in the year, for tax purposes.

Weekly Trade Summary.
Foreign political crises, together with the still cloudy silver situation, tended to keep trading forces in a watchful mood.

The week-end review of Dun & Bradstreet found that Christmas buying was forging ahead with few signs of any nearby let-down. Most distributors, it was said, enjoyed the largest retail sales total since 1930 and a few approached the 1929 aggregates.

Throughout the country it was estimated retail volume rose from 7 to 15 per cent over the preceding week and from 20 per cent over above the corresponding period last year.

JAPANESE DENY CLASH TOOK PLACE IN SOVIET STATE

Tokyo They Encountered 70 Outer Mongolian Soldiers on Manchoukuoan Side of Border.

DIFFERENT VERSION GIVEN IN MOSCOW

Tokio Spokesman Says Any 'Complaints of Incident Are Likely to Bring Further Trouble.'

TOKIO, Dec. 20.—Manchoukuo is determined to use force to protect its frontiers against Mongolian "encroachments," a Rengo (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Hsing-ling reported today.

The Japanese correspondent said a frontier clash occurred Dec. 19, between Japanese-Manchoukuoan troops and a Mongolian detachment on the territory of Manchoukuo. Most reports said the clash took place in Outer Mongolia, where a Soviet state has been established.

A communiqué issued by the Japanese army headquarters in Manchoukuo said a Japanese officer, commanding Manchoukuoan troops, guarded west of Lake Bor, was engaged in posting guards Dec. 19, when his force encountered 70 Outer Mongolian soldiers, armed with machine guns, on the Manchoukuoan side of the border.

A Japanese cavalry detachment, which the communiqué said, joined in the fighting and compelled the Mongolians to flee across the border, abandoning 20 rifles. No Japanese-Manchoukuoan casualties were reported.

A Tokyo spokesman said "Outer Mongolian complaints of any incident at that point are likely to bring further trouble."

Mongolian Version of Incident, as Reported in Moscow.

MOSCOW, Dec. 20.—Invasion of the Mongolian People's Republic by 200 Japanese and Manchoukuoan troops and the killing of a Mongolian officer and several soldiers were reported from Ulan Bator, Mongolia, to the official Tass news agency last night.

The invasion was said to have occurred yesterday morning at Bulun Dersun, southeast of Lake Buir. Wednesday a truckload of soldiers was forced back across the Manchoukuoan border by border guards, the dispatch said.

Ordered to avoid fighting at all costs, the Mongolians retreated before the invaders yesterday, but the latter were reported to have sprayed them with machine gun fire.

It was recalled a recently reported threat of Mongolian occupation by the Japanese and Manchoukuoans, and said the incident was considered of the utmost gravity in Ulan Bator.

The War Minister and Premier of the People's Republic have been in Moscow for several days, conferring with Soviet leaders.

Crossed Border in Trucks. Eight army trucks carried the invaders across the border, the Tass dispatch said. The trucks were accompanied by an ambulance and automobile, occupied, it was reported, by two Japanese officers and a Russian white guard. The soldiers, it was reported, carried rifles and machine guns.

Outer Mongolia lies between Soviet Russia and the Chinese provinces of Inner Mongolia, and also borders on Manchoukuo. Its occupation would put hostile troops within striking distance of the all-important Trans-Siberian Railway, linking Moscow with Vladivostok and Khabarovsk.

Ulan Bator (Urga) is the capital of Outer Mongolia, which became a Soviet Republic May, 1924, under the name of the Mongolian People's Republic.

Friction between Outer Mongolia and Manchoukuo became apparent late in November when a conference of representatives of the two countries broke up in an atmosphere of hostility. The Rengo (Japanese) News Agency reported that the parley, which had been in session at Manchuli since June 4, collapsed because the Mongols refused to accept the Manchoukuoan proposal for exchange of diplomatic agents.

Slight Drop in Employment. WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—A slight drop in employment and payrolls in the October-November period was reported today by Secretary of Labor Perkins, who said reports from 121,921 establishments employing 6,022,812 workers in November showed employment had dropped by 24,000 and payrolls by $3,400,000. Miss Perkins said declines in factory employment were less than seasonal, and that the durable goods industries had more men on their payroll than at any time since November, 1930.

Poll Shows Big Anti-New Deal Vote in 3 New England States

Percentage Against Administration's Policies Increases Slightly to 57.69 in Literary Digest Balloting.

Steepest percentages against the New Deal in the votes of three New England states and percentages not quite so heavily in its favor from Mississippi and South Carolina, feature the fifth weekly report of the Literary Digest's nation-wide New Deal poll. The ballots ask the question, "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to date?"

Massachusetts shows 79.26 per cent, New Hampshire 76.15 per cent, and Connecticut 71.78 against the Roosevelt administration policies. Mississippi gives 72.81 per cent for the administration and South Carolina 70.37. This week's report includes the vote of 34 states, a total of 819,320, of which 472,698, or 57.69 per cent, are against the New Deal, and 346,622, or 42.31 per cent, for the New Deal. A week before, with a total of 847,711 votes, the showing was 57.24 per cent against the New Deal.

All the Southern states have now been reported, and it would seem that no large source of majorities for the New Deal remains. On the other hand, no report has yet been made from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and three of the New England states. That these have voted against the New Deal appears certain from the fact that a Northern, Eastern and Central states thus far reported have so voted. That their large vote will increase the percentage against the administration seems highly probable.

Next to the New England states named the largest anti-New Deal percentage shows this week in support of the New Deal, Georgia now ranks third, with 67.15 per cent of approval; North Carolina votes 66.64 per cent against the New Deal, Illinois 66.4 per cent, Maryland 66.17 per cent, Colorado 65.75 per cent, Ohio 64.44, South Dakota 64.24, Minnesota 63.85, Washington 61.23, North Dakota 59.5, Indiana 59.46, Oregon 59, West Virginia 58.47, California 58.28, Iowa 58.13, Kansas 57.34 and Missouri 56.4 per cent.

Florida, in contrast with other Southern states, shows 50.7 per cent

5000 SHANGHAI STUDENTS PROTEST AGAINST AUTONOMY

Japanese Embassy Threatens Intervention if Demonstrations Take on Hostile Aspect.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 20.—Their ranks swelled to 5000, many students of Shanghai universities remained throughout the night in front of the municipal buildings here, shouting protests against North China autonomy. The students presented a petition to Mayor Wei Tsh-Chen, demanding action against autonomy agitators.

A Japanese Embassy spokesman said that if the demonstrations "take on an anti-Japanese aspect we will be obliged to intervene."

Demonstrations continued in cities of Central China. At Wu-chang thousands of students paraded, while ferry service across the Yangtze was halted to prevent the entry of students into Hankow.

Gov. Han Fu-chu of Shantung Province ordered today that all middle schools in the area be closed for one month, in an effort to end student demonstrations. Reported intention of the new semi-autonomous Hopeh-Chahar political council is to order closing of schools and textbooks used in North China along lines satisfactory to the Japanese brought a protest from Hopeh teachers.

NANKING, Dec. 20.—Akira Ariyoshi, Japanese Minister to China, said last night he had received assurances from Gen. Chiang Kai-shek that the reorganized national Government would not swerve from its former fundamental policy of friendship with Japan. Efforts toward an improvement in relations between the two countries will be continued, Ariyoshi reported.

PLANE ARRIVES FOR WILKINS' USE IN HUNT FOR ELLSWORTH

Sir Hubert to Take Ship, Flown From Kansas City to Argentine, to Antarctica.

By the Associated Press. BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 20.—The plane of Sir Hubert Wilkins was being equipped today with floats and skis at Rio Gallegos, in preparation for a search by the explorer for Lincoln Ellsworth, missing in the Antarctic for nearly a month. Sir Hubert and Pilot Harold Limburner were to proceed to the nearby Chilean port of Magallanes, from which they will take the plane on a ship to Antarctica and then make an aerial search.

The lane was brought to Rio Gallegos, near the southernmost tip of South America, late yesterday, after Dick Merrill and William Klenke had flown it to San Antonio Del Oeste from Kansas City. Merrill arrived in Buenos Aires this morning by train, and said he planned to return to the United States immediately.

Reports from Rio Gallegos said Sir Hubert expressed hope that Ellsworth would be found, asserting he believed the explorer could live 60 days on the food supply carried in his plane.

BORAH A CANDIDATE IF 'LIBERALS' WANT HIM

Willing to Co-operate in Any Way to Liberalize G. O. P. Platform.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Senator Borah of Idaho formally declared today that his 1936 objective was a liberal Republican platform and said he would "co-operate fully" with plans of any progressive groups endeavoring to line up convention delegates pledged to his own candidacy.

"My primary objective," Borah said in a formal statement, "is a convention of liberal delegates which will write a liberal platform and name a liberal candidate. To that end I shall devote my efforts. If in any state or district the liberal forces think it will help the liberal cause to pledge the delegates to me, I shall co-operate fully with that plan."

"If, however, it is thought better to pledge the delegates to some other liberal I shall co-operate just as fully. In other words, inflexible as to the objective, flexible as to the tactics."

In handling his brief statement to an interviewer Borah indicated this would be as near to a formal announcement of his candidacy as he would make before the Republican convention meets at Cleveland June 9.

Wisconsin Candidate for Delegate Favors Borah.

By the Associated Press. OSHKOSH, Wis., Dec. 20.—William J. Campbell, Oshkosh lumberman, is the first Wisconsin candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention to announce himself in favor of Senator William E. Borah's nomination for the presidency.

Borah's candidacy should meet with the entire approval of conservatives of every type on constitutional grounds," Campbell said in announcing his candidacy Dec. 10.

Two Wisconsin Republicans, State Senator Philip E. Nelson and Bernard Gettelman announced in Washington last night that Borah had approved a proposed campaign to elect a Borah delegation.

WOMAN CONTRIBUTES $6628 FOR DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

Texas Donor Indorses Dividend Check From A. T. & T. Co. Over to Party Committee.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—A $7000 campaign fund contribution was reported today by the Democratic National Committee. It said $6628 of the fund from Mrs. William L. Clayton of Houston, Tex., was a dividend check from the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. which she had endorsed over to the committee.

A letter to James W. Gerard, committee treasurer, said: "I am using this method of telling you how much I believe in President Roosevelt's political philosophy and his far-sightedness. It is very significant that when all the world is in so much turmoil we should have produced our greatest American."

HEARING ORDERED RESUMED IN PHILADELPHIA GUILD CASE

Labor Board Cited Inquirer for Alleged Refusal to Bargain Collectively.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—Walter Wilbur, trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, ordered a hearing resumed today on the board's citation of "unfair labor practices" against the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The board cited the Inquirer for alleged refusal to bargain collectively with its editorial employees. Stanley W. Root, Regional Director, held the Inquirer should have dealt with the Newspaper Guild of Philadelphia and Camden. The opening session of the hearing yesterday was devoted mostly to preliminary testimony intended to show that the Inquirer is engaged in interstate business.

Charles A. Tyler, president of the Philadelphia Inquirer company, questions by Labor Counsel and cross-examined by the company's counsel, said about 30 per cent of the newspaper's circulation is outside Pennsylvania.

Other witnesses called were Abe Hurwitz, editor of the Reading Times, and Jonathan Eddy, secretary of the American Newspaper Guild.

They appeared to testify concerning Guild contracts with publishers and relations between employees and employers on contract papers.

U. S. CIVIL SERVICE BOARD URGES EXTENSION OF LISTS

Wants to Control Workers in Agencies Which Will Be Made Permanent.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Civil Service Commission proposed to Congress yesterday that employees of New Deal agencies be placed under their rule "to the extent that such agencies are to become established branches of the Government."

The Commission said there had been a 7 per cent increase in the executive payroll of the Government, from 673,095 on June 30, 1934, to 719,440 on June 30, 1935.

In its annual report to Congress, the Commission also proposed that the lawmakers "place in the competitive classified service postmasters at first, second and third-class offices, and other administrative offices which are not policy-determining, such as collectors of customs and collectors of internal revenue, and restore to the competitive classified service deputy collectors of internal revenue and deputy marshals."

CUT IN EXCESS BANK RESERVES

$600,000,000 Reduction Due to Purchase of Treasury Issue.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Excess reserves of member banks, which occupied the consideration of the Open Market Committee of the Federal Reserve System last week, have been reduced to $600,000,000.

The cut resulted indirectly from routine Treasury financing. The reduction from a total of $3,310,000,000 followed a Treasury security issue of $900,000,000, which was absorbed by the banks, reducing their excess reserves to $2,710,000,000.

JEROME FRANK TO QUIT AS COUNSEL FOR RFC

Lawyer, Who Was Ousted From AAA, to Take Up Private Practice.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Jerome Frank, storm center of perhaps the bitterest administrative feud since the inception of the New Deal, is to resign, effective Jan. 1.

Frank has confirmed reports that he would give up his position as associate counsel with the railroad division of the RFC to establish a private law practice in New York. Before he entered the New Deal, shortly after President Roosevelt took office, Frank was a member of a Chicago law firm and had a highly lucrative practice there.

He was ousted as counsel of the AAA, along with half a dozen other AAA officials in what was generally referred to as a "purge." Frank, it was said, was in fundamental disagreement with Chester Davis, AAA administrator, over AAA policies, particularly with regard to the treatment accorded tenants and sharecroppers under AAA contracts. He was at one time close to Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell, resettlement administrator.

Active in Mo-Pac Case. Following the "purge" Frank took his present position with the RFC. He has taken an active part in suits involving the control exerted over the Missouri Pacific Railroad by the Van Sweringen, appearing several times before Judge Charles E. Fair in United States District Court in St. Louis.

Recently Frank was appointed special counsel to advise the trustees of the Missouri Pacific, L. Warrington Baldwin and Guy A. Thompson, as to the proper steps to take to avoid obligation under a contract entered into by the railroad to buy certain railroad property at North Kansas City and also with regard to suits to recover money already advanced on this contract. He will be paid for this service by the Missouri Pacific trustees. The RFC has charged that the Van Sweringens' Alleghany Corporation engineered the terminal shares through "deception" and Judge Fair ruled re-

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Christmas Time in a Relief Home.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE following is my interpretation of "relief" as practiced on us. We have three children, 8, 11 and 13 years old. On Nov. 5, we got a check for $15.15, which was a reduction of $10.35 from the check for the previous two weeks, the explanation being that this was because my husband was certified for the WPA. On Nov. 8, he went to work. Requests for coal and carfare were ignored, consequently these expenses had to come out of the $15.15. After two weeks, we got a check each week for $7.55, out of which we still tried to buy coal and pay carfare. Curiously enough, this same visitor gave others coal and carfare. Why should there be this discrimination?

We endured cold and hunger for three weeks before my husband was paid for six days' work on Nov. 28. The last relief check, for $7.55, came Nov. 30. Our rent for November was unpaid, so out of the $16.50 work-relief check came $10 for the landlord. If we suffered before, think how we live now. Up till now, my husband has worked five weeks, has been paid for six days, and has not been paid since, nor have we got additional relief, being told our case is closed. My youngest child is home from school with bronchitis; there is no medicine in the house. We looked forward to this much ballyhooed job and planned the first Christmas in four years for our youngsters, but it means nothing now.

DISAPPOINTED.

A Mississippian on Hoover's Speech.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE citizens of the United States might just as well get out the old bugles, carry down old Dobbin and run the automobiles in the shed, for we are going back to the horse-and-buggy days; that is, if Mr. Hoover has his way.

The ex-President is making a bid for the nomination, and expects to run for the presidency again. He is "agin" the New Deal; he hits the A.A.A., the TVA and the CCC. Get out your old kerosene lamp and cut out the electricity; let the soil wash away; go back to 5-cent cotton and cheap corn and wheat; sit down and wait for recovery to overtake you.

He does not like the social security idea because the wealthy manufacturers must pay for the new expenses; he is against this in order to get the support of business. Lord deliver us from the days of "Hoover prosperity." Mr. Hoover claims he was a victim of the depression; he makes the bid for another chance as if to say, "See what I will do next time." The people may be fooled and go back to Hoover days, but I don't believe they will. Oxford, Miss. W. N. LORANCE.

Nail Romance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE following headline appeared in the Post-Dispatch a few days ago: "Information to be listed before Germans can marry. Doctors must give detailed information on private life in six-page form."

Next year this can be expected—The place: Berlin. The scene: A bench in the park. The time: Spring.

He: (As they sit side by side) Can you trace your ancestry as far back as 1800?

She: Yes. Was your grandmother blonde or brunette?

He: (As he moves closer to her.) A blonde. When did you learn to walk?

She: On my first birthday. Have you any criminal tendencies?

He: (As he puts his arm around her.) No criminal tendencies. Are you capable of bearing children?

She: I consider that an insult.

He: Such Aryan spirit! Such Nordic fire!

They embrace, murmuring, "Heil Hitler!"

GILBERT GETZ.

New Deal Avenue vs. Hooverville.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I JUST wondered, while listening to Mr. Hoover speaking of "New Deal Avenue," if anyone took the trouble to show him Hooverville while he was in St. Louis.

GEORGE OLIVER CARPENTER JR.

WRECKAGE OF THE PEACE PLAN.

The Hoare-Laval peace plan has burst with a loud report, and its debris is still falling. The plan itself is dead, killed by the League Council amid the denunciation of most of its members. One of its authors, Premier Laval, has won a vote of confidence, but by a dangerously small majority, and his position now is far from secure. The other author, Sir Samuel Hoare, has been forced to resign as British Foreign Secretary, a sacrifice thrown to the wolves by the Tory Cabinet in hope of remaining in power.

The plan itself was a masterpiece of betrayal. Simultaneously, it betrayed Ethiopia, the League, the world's hopes and the faith of the British public. It violated the clear promises of the Baldwin Government in the recent campaign. From dependence on the League, the Government switched to the old diplomacy of force. Hoare himself had electrified the world by his address before the League Assembly on Sept. 11, in which he pledged British support to the League, rallied the other nations to collective action against Italy and concluded:

In conformity with its precise, explicit obligations, the League stands—and my country stands with it—for the collective maintenance of the Covenant in its entirety, and particularly for steady, collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression. The attitude of the British nation in the last few weeks has clearly demonstrated the fact that this is no variable, unreliable sentiment, but a principle of international conduct to which they and their Government hold with firm, enduring, universal persistence.

The truth of those words, in so far as they apply to the English people, has now been emphasized by the outcry against the betrayal of the Government's pledge. In this striking exhibition of a vigorous public conscience is the only cheering aspect of the whole shoddy affair.

The more one examines it, the greater the shoddiness appears. For instance, Premier Laval seeks to put the responsibility for the outrageous scheme on England. He says: "I accepted the ideas of Great Britain, on whose understanding with France depends our safety." Premier Baldwin returns the compliment. He describes the peace plan as "the minimum to which it was possible to obtain the agreement of the French Government, and I attach vital importance to Anglo-French solidarity." Who killed Cock Robin?

Whatever the outcome, the disgrace will long remain. If the Italian threat forced the reversal of policy, as Laval said, then a British Government has shown the white feather for the first time in modern history. If the scheme was developed to preserve the League, as Hoare asserts, then the League desperately needs new friends, to displace those whose idea of a kind deed is to stab the League in the back. Baldwin's assertion that the Cabinet felt it necessary to stand by Hoare after the peace plan was drawn up had a fitting answer in the opposition cry, "Stand by your country!"

The pre-war diplomacy has been tried again, and once more has been found wanting, this time by the thunderous voice of popular opinion. The experiment has confused the issues and brought Europe to the brink of a fresh and dangerous crisis. Will the League nations, now that the weakness of the two major Governments has been exposed, dare to continue and strengthen sanctions against Italy? Will Italy take a more defiant attitude, now that her threat has had at least partial success? Can there now be a peace based on justice, or must it eventually be along the line of the discredited proposal?

Europe has been sliding along rapidly to destruction, with events taking their own course. The blundering statesmen now have given her a considerable push along the way.

ASYMPTOTE.

One finds that word in "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom," with an apologetic footnote explaining how it came to be used. One finds it in Christopher Morley's autobiography, which purports to relate the experiences of John Mistletoe. One finds it in some dictionaries.

One finds it, not in type, but in pungent exemplification, in the news columns. Thus: "Anybody can beat Roosevelt," says Henry L. Mencken. "Roosevelt can beat anybody," communicates James A. Farley, whom we're all hoping to identify as ex-Postmaster-General.

Well, Mencken and Farley have contrived an asymptote, or something just as good.

HOW TO IMPROVE LOCAL JURIES.

Tomorrow, at the invitation of Presiding Judge Hogan of the Circuit Court, committees, representing the Associated Industries, the Bar Association, the Medical Society and the Chamber of Commerce will meet to discuss improvement of local juries.

We suggest, as a point of departure for the discussion, a careful reading of the law regarding selection of jurors, reading in part as follows:

(The Board of Jury Supervisors shall cause the Jury Commissioner to make a general canvass of said city for jurors deemed eligible and qualified. . . . The Board of Jury Supervisors, or the Jury Commissioner, or any of his deputies, shall have the power to question, as to the eligibility of persons to jury service. . . . And every male citizen of this State, resident in such city, sober and intelligent, of good reputation and sound of mind, who shall be able to read and write the English language understandingly and who shall be able to understand clearly the proceedings ordinarily held in courts of justice . . . shall be deemed qualified.

If jurors were selected in strict accordance with the terms of this law, much of the criticism just leveled at the character of St. Louis jurors would automatically be blown away.

Perhaps it can be discovered at tomorrow's meeting why jurors have not been so selected.

NEWS REEL.

Col. Frank Knox declares for economy in government, and Col. Frank Knox urges prepayment of soldier bonus (about two billion dollars); Santa Claus arrives in St. Louis by airplane, and Santa Claus arrives at Martin, Tenn., in wagon drawn by yoke of oxen; anybody (except Hoover) can beat Roosevelt, says H. L. Mencken, and Roosevelt can beat anybody, says James A. Farley; Hollywood film actress gets divorce on ground that husband was too attentive, and St. Louis woman gets divorce on ground that husband neglected her; Liberty League attacks Roosevelt policies as Socialistic, and Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, says, "Roosevelt is one of the most conservative men in his party"; buggy is sold at public sale near Wabash, Ind., for 25 cents, and buggy is sold at public sale at Brownstown, Ind., for $17; St. Louis social workers point out difficulty of WPA workers maintaining large families on pay of $55 a month, and mother of 12-year-old heiress files affidavit in New York court showing cost of entertaining child two days a week averages $191.10.

DICTATOR GOMEZ AND AFTER.

Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez, dictator of Venezuela for 25 years, was a despot of the conventional pattern, exceptional for the duration of his reign. He gained power by force and held it by force. He put down his enemies ruthlessly. What he wanted, he took. He was crafty enough to win foreign approval by paying Venezuela's debts, and constructive enough to develop his country along modern lines. But, as frequently with despots, he lived in eternal fear—of political rivals, of victims he had despoiled, of relatives and friends of the murdered and the exiled.

Now the dictator is dead, at 78, and his country waits breathlessly to see what will follow, while the provisional President appeals for maintenance of peace. A prediction as to what will happen next is given by Herbert Spencer Dickey, the explorer and traveler, in "My Jungle Book," as follows:

I am going to take my temerity in both hands and venture upon a prognostication as to what will happen when there is no more Juan Vicente. There will be gunboats and cruisers flying the Stars and Stripes at the ports of La Guayra, Puerto Cabello and Maracaibo, and American marines will go ashore and pacify the people.

For the instant that word of the old man's death is flashed throughout the country, there is going to erupt the biggest revolution that Venezuela has ever seen. Every state of the Republic will be involved, for the President of every state—and all have been appointed by El General—covets the old man's job. Every one has his own troops and each is itching to go. And after a few youths from Iowa and Oklahoma have met their deaths on foreign soil, there will be an election, under the guns of the youths from Iowa and Oklahoma who have survived. A President, a former lawyer to one of the oil companies, will be elected. The youths from Iowa and Oklahoma will chase the bandits who dared vote against the candidate who is persona grata at Washington through the Venezuelan hills for several years. Then there will be peace and prosperity, interrupted at times by a crop of Sandinos—the aftermath of our peculiar type of pacification.

The writer may be correct in his prediction of Venezuela's "biggest revolution." As to election supervision and pacification of the country by "youths from Iowa and Oklahoma," his statement is dead wrong. For it was written in March, 1932, more than 18 months before President Roosevelt, in defining the "good neighbor policy," pledged that this country would send abroad no more such expeditions as the writer quite justifiably had in mind, that "the definite policy of the United States from now on is one opposed to armed intervention."

It had become a Latin American tradition that United States marines landed whenever civil strife broke out. That policy has been disavowed, and should remain so. The Latin American countries can settle their domestic affairs without our interference.

THE STEIN ON THE TABLE.

Earnest souls have often spoken about our slovenly, careless speech, and the embarrassments occasioned not infrequently by our inaccuracies.

It is an old but still thriving national custom. A current offense, that of using the terms ale and beer interchangeably, has brought about a serious confusion. The Federal Alcohol Administration has had to take a hand.

The explanation is somewhat technical. It seems that beer is fermented from the bottom, while ale is fermented from the top. True, both are malt beverages, and there is, admittedly, a certain relationship, but they do not belong to the same family and neither borrows the other's lachkey. Beer, we are told, has the flavor and aroma of beer, while ale has the flavor and aroma of ale. Beer is blond, ale is brunette. Beer is fascinating, but ale, under its dark diffidence, is a dangerous vis-a-vis.

Reduced to its simplest brevity, the FAA's scholarly thesis becomes a foaming, inviting truism. Beer is beer. Ale is ale. And porter is porter.

HOME, SWEET HOME.

Sorority and fraternity houses at the University of Arkansas are more like home than they used to be. A new status has been conferred upon house mothers by the action of the Board of Trustees in decreeing that they shall hereafter be hired and fired by the university instead of by the sororities and fraternities as heretofore.

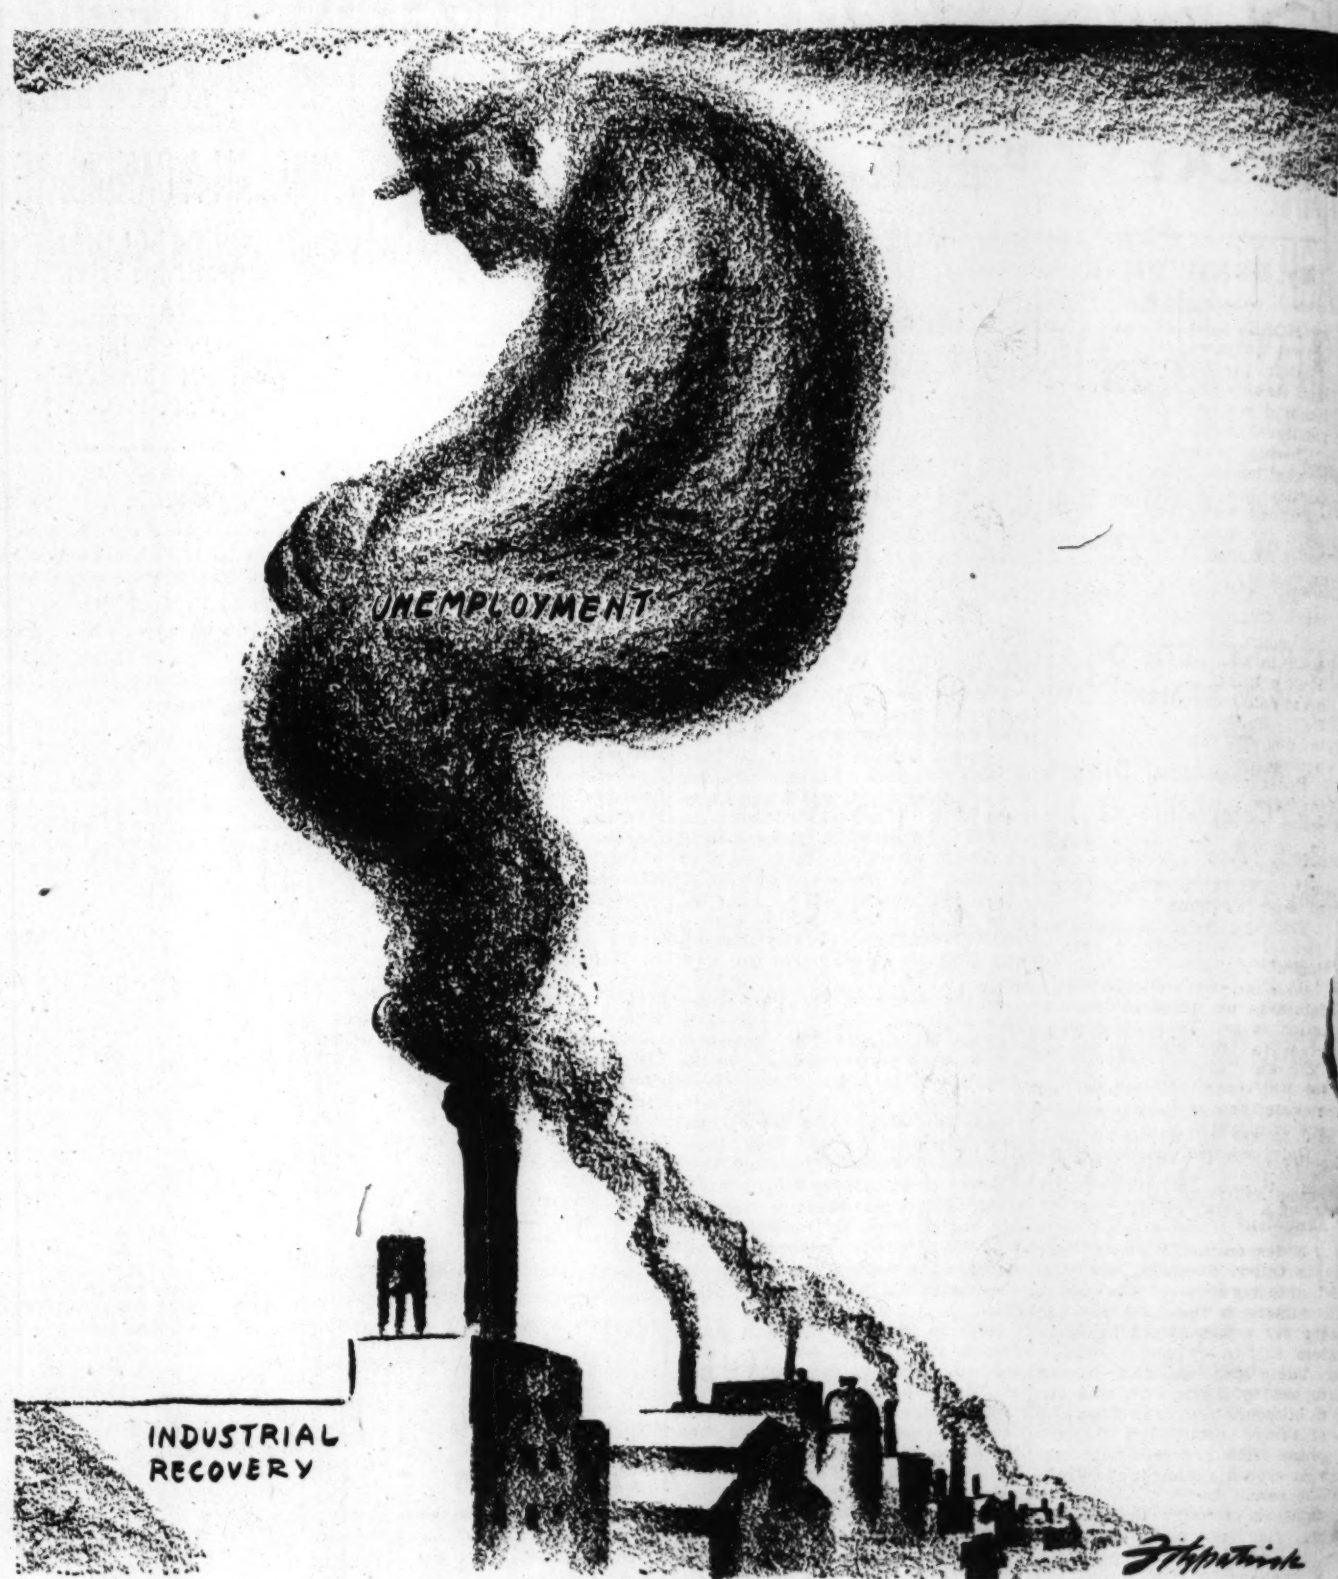

House mothers under the old system had a hard time of it. Their job was to hold a checkrein on undergraduate exuberance and slow it down just this side of absolute high-jinks. But with the students having authority over them, they ran the risk of being fired if they did what they were expected to do. In such a situation, they found themselves to be only stepmothers, with a good deal less to say than stepmothers usually say.

With the checkrein shifted to the students' hands, something was sure to happen. It happened at Sigma Nu the night before the annual homecoming. It was so bad that the house mother wanted to stop it, but if she stopped it she would be fired. So what? So nothing. But something happened when the news got around. Sigma Nu was squelched, eight students were expelled and one suspended, and the new rule for house mothers was adopted.

New rule is right. Now they can rule. If the boys and girls get gay, mother can say, "No—damma spank," and reach for the slipper, and the boys and girls, no longer allowed to bark, "You're fired," will have to take it and like it. It will be almost like home—or at least like home used to be.

HIGHLAND LIGHTS UP FOR CHRISTMAS.

St. Louisans and others in the metropolitan area who are out driving at night during the Christmas season will find themselves amply repaid if they head their automobiles for Highland, Ill., east of Collinsville on Highway No. 40. A clean and attractive town at any time, this well-paved community of grandsons and granddaughters of German and Swiss immigrants is now ablaze each night with Christmas decorations. As a stimulus to home owners and business houses to light up, the municipal power plant has cut the electricity rate in half for December. The result is a miniature blend of Pasadena's famous Christmas tree lane and Broadway at Forty-second street in New York City. Friendly rivalry has led neighbors into an effort to outdo one another with uniquely lighted trees and scenes, window and porch decorations and floodlight effects. Word of what the townspeople have done is going across the country with the tourist travel which passes through Highland after dark. Well it may!

STILL HOVERING OVER.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

Managed History

IT has been said that not even omnipotence can alter the past. But since men do not possess certain knowledge of the past, they are forever rewriting their histories. They are rewritten in each country for each generation; they are rewritten by the advocates of policies in the course of every great debate. There is in all this some desire to know the truth. But much of it is actuated by the wish to prove a case.

The more fierce the issues of the present, the more passionately do men quarrel about the past. For about 80 years, the Marxian Socialists have been propounding their own version of human history. It is a history which proves to their own satisfaction that the whole course of affairs leads directly and inevitably to the triumph of Socialism. The Italian Fascists, not to be outdone, have a most elaborate history of their own which proves, among other things, that they should and that they will conquer Ethiopia. The Nazis also roll their own. Given time, their professors will prove that the universe was created to insure the triumph of Hitler.

Here at home, the battle for the control of the past is being waged on several fronts. It is not so fierce as the European battle, because the American social ill is not as those of Central and Eastern Europe about as the chickenpox is to smallpox, or a cold in the head to a severe pneumonia. Nevertheless, the struggle to interpret the past is waged with considerable heat.

There is, for example, the argument about the Constitution in which, strangely enough, the Democrats find themselves expounding the views of Alexander Hamilton and their Republican opponents the views of James Madison. There is the argument about why America went to war in 1917. And then there is the argument between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover about the causes of the panic in 1933.

The ostensible question which Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover are discussing is whether the closing of the banks should be blamed on the Hoover or on the Roosevelt administration. Mr. Roosevelt contended in his Atlanta speech that the mechanics of civilization came to a dead stop on March 3, 1933, and Mr. Hoover at St. Louis the other day replied that "that was the most political and the most unnecessary bank panic in our history," and that it was due entirely to public fear of the New Deal.

Now, in themselves, these recriminations are understandable but not important. Mr. Roosevelt would, of course, like to prove that he cured the panic that Mr. Hoover produced, and Mr. Hoover would like to prove the opposite. But what really matters is whether either of them has a clear idea of what happened close enough to entitle the country to feel that in a similar situation the same disaster would be prevented. For it is evident that something very important went radically wrong between the summer of 1932, when the world depression reached its low point, and the inauguration of Mr. Roosevelt in the midst of a bank panic.

Mr. Hoover's explanation is a very curious one. He argues that the recovery in the early summer of 1932 was stopped by fear of the New Deal, that the Maine election in September and the landslide of November frightened the country and destroyed confidence. The logic of this claim is hard to see.

For it is a well-known fact that the first effect of Mr. Roosevelt's advent to power was to restore confidence and to put an end to the run on the banks. It could just as well be argued, therefore, that Mr. Roosevelt restored the public confidence which had been destroyed under Mr. Hoover.

But either view is very unsatisfactory interpretation. The trouble with both of them is that they assume that what happened was the result of how people felt, whereas it is much more likely that people felt as they did because of what happened. We shall have learned very little, I believe, if we let ourselves think that the panic and the revival were due merely to the personalities of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt. It seems to me evident that much bigger things played the decisive role.

Let us begin, for example, with Mr. Hoover's claim that the recovery of the summer of 1932 was stopped by fear of the New Deal. Do the facts bear him out? Take prices. The figures show that the prices of farm products started downward again in August, 1932, a month before the Maine election had indicated a Roosevelt landslide. They went down steadily and disastrously through that autumn. The general commodity index sank steadily from August, 1932, to the end of the year, and in September, 1933. All the evidence seems to point to the fact that the little boom in the midsummer of 1932 reached its peak in August, and that thereafter the deflation was resumed.

Now, what happened in August to arrest the boom? It seems to me that two great events happened. One was that the Federal Reserve System lost courage and reversed the cheap-money policy that had worked so well to stave off disaster in the spring of 1932. The other was that the pound sterling took a nose dive, beginning about the middle of July, and carried down with it the prices of our exportable farm products and raw materials.

The reversal of Federal Reserve policy put the screws on the banks; the wretchedly low British exchange (the pound was $3.14 on Dec. 3) put the screws on the American money level. The country was violently deflated by the combined effect of a hard-money policy at home and an extravagantly overvalued dollar abroad.

This may not be the whole explanation of the collapse of Mr. Hoover's recovery, but it is surely an important part of it. It also goes far to explain why and how Mr. Roosevelt stopped the deflation in the spring of 1933. He did not do it with his charm. That would perhaps have worked for a few weeks. But those who remember the end of March and early April, 1933, will remember that those who were best informed knew that, unless radical decisions were taken, the reopened banks could not be kept open.

The real reversal took place, I believe, when the Federal Reserve System resumed a cheap-money policy, and when, by leaving the gold standard, the dollar was restored to something like its normal value in relation to the pound sterling.

All of this has an important bearing on the present, because we are now confronted with an insistent demand that the Federal Reserve System should again turn toward a hard-money policy. The issue is technical. Those who wish to see a powerful argument against it should read the letter by S. Parker

The Italian Nation

From the Los Angeles Times.

EDMUND BURKE uttered a historical indictment of a nation. Yet in times of storm and tempest, when tempers are hot and war talk is in the air, people rush to do this very thing, to condemn a whole people for the acts of wrong-headed leaders.

It would be contrary to our American principles of tolerance and fair play if we allowed feelings aroused by the acts and policies of the war-obsessed dictator, Mussolini, to make us disregard Burke's axiom and proceed to indict the whole Italian nation.

There is no doubt that for the time being, by the power of his will and his magnetic personality, Mussolini has inspired a martial ardor among a majority of his fellow-countrymen in the great boot of Europe. But the inborn characteristics of these descendants of the first nation in ancient times to start civilizing barbarian Europe are not permanently changed by this sudden burst of fever.

The Italian people in the realms of culture, of art, of science, of religion, have produced figures who today stand on a par with the most honored in any other country. To Italy we owe the Renaissance, the best in grand opera, many of the most famous paintings in national galleries and the great modern invention of the radio. In our own country, men and women of Italian descent have filled and are filling many important offices with honor and distinction. Italian names are seen in the rosters of the professions, of scholarship and of business. Americans recognize as among the best. Italians in their homeland at present no longer enjoy the free opportunities of their kin in America. But let us not forget that the present dictatorship is not for all time nor indict the whole Italian nation for the acts of its present ruler.

Gilbert of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. published in the New York Times of Wednesday, Mr. Gilbert is himself an authority of the first order in these matters, and the record of his firm on questions of monetary policy since 1931 has been extraordinarily far-seeing.

Mr. Gilbert does not point out, though he might have, that the agitation for immediate action to raise the reserve requirements began with men who only last May were saying that the Federal Reserve Board ought not to have the power to raise reserve requirements. But he does show, it seems to me, conclusively, that though there is a theoretical possibility of credit inflation, in fact the country is still deflated.

He shows, too, that these excess reserves are largely the result of gold imports from Europe, that this gold may go back to Europe and that the excess reserves will protect the country when that happens. He contends, too, that to reverse the cheap-money policy at a moment like this might mean a credit inflation if and when it begins. No sane man denies the potential danger of credit inflation and the supreme importance of watching for signs of it. But at this moment, our trouble is not inflation, but deflation which has not yet been completely overcome—a deflation manifest not merely in the small volume of private credit, but in the existence of unemployed resources and unemployed men.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—THOSE close to the President say privately that a lot more than the crop control program is at stake when the Supreme Court decides on the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

The big issue, these advisers say, is whether the administration is further left before elections continues its present "breathe spell" for business. The Supreme Court decision will swing the issue.

This is how the New Dealers reach this conclusion:

A court decision discarding AAA in toto would have tremendous political and economic repercussions throughout the South. So, to keep the Farm in line, the administration will become militantly liberal.

But should the court not uphold the basic principle of the law—power of the Federal Government to regulate farm production—the administration would be tent to let things ride, at least till after elections.

That the New Dealers desire the latter, there can be no doubt.

It is clearly indicated by fact that no important new legislation is on the President's program for the coming session of Congress. Also he is urging C. I. Hill leaders to concentrate making their legislative plans and snappy.

Only powerful provocation bestir the administration to new militancy.

SECRETARY HENRY MORGENTHAU has quietly knocked the props from under one of the most popular walls made by the bankers—their claim that the Treasury was forcing too many Government bonds on them.

He has issued a Treasury regulation limiting the amount of bonds banks can subscribe for to one-half their combined capital and surplus. The purpose of the new rule is to put a stop to the first of its kind in Treasury history—was not to set up an ally against banker complaints. It is actually was to keep banks from gobbling up Government issues.

Plenty of Room for Russia in Underdeveloped Areas of Empire," He Discovers.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 20.

THE "Inland Empire" is an eye opener. Even as is the Pacific Northwest, here in Western Washington and Idaho are half a million people living in an untapped treasure of raw resources. What little depression they ever had is gone.

There is no such similar country in the world. The soil, apparently blown in by summer winds for centuries, is 90 feet deep. It is moist, cold, hot and dry here at exactly the right times for wheat—almost as though Nature had said: "Guess I'll make me a perfect wheat country."

I am changing my mind on the recent dogma that our old safety valves for depressions, "new horizons for rugged individualism," are gone. There are plenty of horizons in the northwest corner of our national garden-plot. If they were separate nations, they would be self-contained and very rich. All

Leave It to the Ladies.

MRS. ROOSEVELT's party for Gridiron Widows broke up at 1:30 a. m., later than the Gridiron Club. Apparently it was more amusing. Among the last to leave was Mrs. Cordell Hull. One shot which never leaked to the press was at the expense of the much-married Senator McAdoo, whose second wife was the daughter of Woodrow Wilson. A group of "rubberneck" Cabinet ladies making a tour of the White House, sang: "Senator McAdoo was married over there, long, long ago; long, long ago." Each Cabinet wife apparently had her own feminine brood of admirers. So also Miss Perkins, Senator Caraway, Josephine Roche. As each entered the dining room, she was escorted to a table, and their special admirers gathered round. Mrs. Roosevelt wore a plum-colored velvet evening gown with a spray of lily on her left shoulder. Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr. won admiration in a white evening gown with flowing white sleeves. The new system of having colored voting slips to ballot on the first, second and third best skits of the evening, didn't work. Users got the ballots mixed up. The 500 women present had to spread out through three different rooms—the Blue Room, Red Room and State Dining Room. They sat at little tables and were served by an army of waiters. Menu included croquettes, peas, olives—both ripe and green, but huge—ice cream and large cups of coffee. No departure. Linen was white with generous sized Chinese napkins, embroidered with open work.

Merry-Go-Round.

UNFRIENDLY colleagues of House Rules Committee Chairman John O'Connor are charging him with secretly inspiring the movement to replace all Representative William Bankhead as Democratic floor leader. It is not generally known that Attorney General Homer Cummings is one of the largest administrators of farm property in the Government. The Justice Department, through the Federal Prison Bureau, operates 10 big prison farms which produce more than $250,000 in foodstuffs yearly. The Government's prison food bill last year was $1,095,000, or a rate of 20 cents a day per prisoner. The Securities & Exchange Commission, overwhelmed with work arising from its efforts to enforce the stock exchange and holding companies acts, plans to ask Congress for additional time to compile the reports it was directed to submit on protective committees and broker and dealer activities. The reports were due at the opening of the coming session, but the advance work is far from completed. From 1876 to Sept. 30, 1935, there has been paid out in pensions and in other forms of compensation to American veterans, a total of $16,502,162.408. The first pension act was enacted in 1818, under President Monroe for survivors of the Revolutionary War "now in need." Officers received $20 a month, soldiers $8.

GOV. PARK PRESENTS MEDAL TO COL. LOWE

Retiring Commander of 138th Infantry Also Is Made Brigadier-General at Review

Col. Stephen E. Lowe, retiring commander of the 138th Infantry, Missouri National Guard, was raised to the rank of Brigadier-General and presented with the State medal for meritorious military service last night by Gov. Park, at a parade and review of the regiment at the Armory.

Two battalions of nearly 700 olive clad men and officers stood at attention as the Governor's recent executive order, promoting Gen. Lowe to his new rank on recommendation of the State Military Council, was read. A minute later, as bugles and drums sounded the commander's salute, Gov. Park and Gen. Lowe stepped from their box for the presentation of the medal.

"Your 40 years of almost continuous military service has put Missouri under obligation to you," the Governor said. "Not only have you distinguished yourself in time of battle, but also in the more important field of preparation. We salute you tonight as a courageous soldier, a courteous gentleman and a fine citizen."

Gen. Stayton Speaks.

Adjutant-General Harold W. Brown of Jefferson City placed the stars on Gen. Lowe's shoulders to designate his new rank. Following an address by Brigadier-General Edward M. Stayton, commanding General of the Missouri National Guard, the officers and guests attended reception given by the Officers' Club.

Gen. Lowe, having reached the retirement age of 64 on Dec. 13, will retire as commander of the 138th Infantry on Jan. 1, Lieutenant-Colonel C. K. King, Jr., will succeed him temporarily until a new commander is appointed.

Among the guests for the ceremonies were Col. J. Fred Brown, Kansas City, commander of the 110 Engineers; Col. John F. Williams, commander of the 128th Field Artillery; Col. Albert Perkins, commander of the Engineer Reserve; Brig. Gen. Eugene J. Spencer, retired, former commander of the 10th Missouri Infantry, and public officials and business leaders.

His Military Career.

Gen. Lowe, a native St. Louisan, began his military career at the age of 18 by enlisting in the old First Missouri Infantry, the predecessor of the 138th. While serving in the Spanish-American War he was raised to the rank of Sergeant, and on his return from Cuba was promoted to Captain.

In 1916 he served at the Mexican border, and the following year was commissioned as Lieutenant-Colonel of the 138th Infantry. When the United States entered the World War, Gen. Lowe served a short period at a training camp before going to France at the end of the war. He was sent to Greece to aid in the care of Greek and Armenian refugees, victims of the Turkish uprising. For more than two years he served at Rodosto and the Island of Corfu, and was decorated for his work with the Honor of the Savior and the Greek War Cross.

He returned to St. Louis, and in 1926 at the request of St. Louis business men, set about to reorganize the 138th, which at that time had about 100 men and 25 officers. Within six months the regiment had more than 550 men, and today has 1095 enlisted men and 66 officers.

1928 WINNER REFUSES TO ACCEPT PULITZER PRIZE

Elmer Rice, Author of "Street Scene," Objects to Committee's Policy in Awarding Prizes.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20. — Elmer Rice, playwright, whose "Street Scene" in 1928-29 won the Pulitzer prize, has refused an invitation to serve as one of the judges to award the play prize for 1935-36, it was announced last night.

Prof. William Lyon Phelps had asked Rice to serve with him and Mrs. Padric Colum. Rice's letter of rejection said he "had taken counsel with other members on the Dramatists' Guild and obtained unanimous agreement that the committee's policy of awarding the prize only once to any individual was a clear violation of the general public understanding that the award is made each year to the best American play produced that year."

Another reason for his refusal, Rice said, was the feeling that "arbitrary" overruling of the Play Committee's findings by Pulitzer Journalism School trustees on several occasions had seemed "to make the function of the committee a secretarial rather than a judicial one."

Many Pneumonia Cases in Illinois.
By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 20.—There are more pneumonia cases now in Illinois than for any previous year at this time since 1928. Dr. Frank J. Jirka, Director of Public Health, said today. He said that the disease would continue to increase during the next several weeks and said the State diagnostic laboratories have prepared to offer a serum treatment. With branches of the laboratories at Chicago, Carbondale, Springfield and Urbana, Dr. Jirka said the service, if used generally, will "make possible the saving of several hundreds of lives annually."

COPIES OF OLD PAPER SOUGHT

Mark Twain Stories May Be in St. Louis' Saturday Evening Post. Copies of a weekly newspaper known as the Saturday Evening Post, which was published in St. Louis by George Robinson & Co. for a period beginning April 18, 1847, are sought by the St. Louis Public Library. It is thought that early writings of Mark Twain were printed in some editions. Twain told his biographer that he had contributed to a publication of that name. A search of the files of the magazine published in Philadelphia did not disclose the stories.

135 CASES OF BEER DESTROYED ON ORDER OF FEDERAL JUDGE

Beverage Thrown Into Quarry Contained Only Half the Alcohol Listed on Label.
Deputy marshals destroyed 135 cases of beer yesterday on order of Federal Judge Davis because it was misbranded in violation of the Pure Food and Drug laws. Labels on the beer, manufactured by the Manhattan Brewing Co., Chicago, proclaimed it to be nine per cent winter beer. Inspectors found it to contain only 4 1/2 per cent of alcohol. The beer, seized at three downtown taverns during the American Legion convention, was thrown into Lamb's quarry on the Olive Street road in St. Louis County. Neither the distributors nor retailers from whom the beer was taken made claim for it after the seizure.

3 PUPILS KILLED IN BUS CRASH

Machine Is Thrown 200 Feet by Impact With Train.
BAY SHORE, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Three high school students were killed today on their way to school for the last session before the Christmas holidays when the Sayville School bus was struck by a Long Island Railroad train in the nearby village of Holbrook. Two of the children, Alice Bedell, 16 years old, and Robert Seecamp, 17, were killed outright when the bus was thrown 200 feet by the impact of the crash. The third, Edna Bedell, 17, a sister of Alice, died without regaining consciousness. Elinor Nagle, another student, and August Belaski, the bus driver, were said by hospital attendants to be in a serious condition. The other passenger of the bus, Gus Ring, a student, was not seriously hurt.

CROWD SEES MAN HANG SELF

He Climbs Power Line Pole in New York as Hundreds Watch.
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—A crowd of several hundred persons watched helplessly yesterday while Frederick Abel, 29 years old, who had climbed a high tension electric pole in Queensborough, attached one end of a rope to the pole, looped the other around his neck and jumped clear. His neck was broken. The body dangled for 20 minutes before it was cut down by police who said he had been bought since Tuesday when officials of a bank charged him with attempting to cash a bad check. Police said they understood he was to have been married soon.

Operator Says He Did Not See His Helper Trying to Get Tool.
Wallace Kirkendall, a laborer in the Department of Streets and Sewers, died at City Hospital today of chest injuries suffered at noon yesterday when he was crushed between a crane and the side of a truck. He was 46 years old and resided at 779 Aubert avenue.

The crane, mounted on the bed of a five-ton truck, was being operated by Morris Marshall, 4398B Chouteau avenue, at the River des Peres and the Wabash Railroad tracks. Kirkendall, his helper, was crushed as he attempted to take a tool from a box in the truck bed behind the driver. Marshall told police the place where Kirkendall was standing cannot be seen from the driver's seat.

Strangled Mate of Kansas City Fireman Denies Insurance Conspiracy Charge.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 20.—The estranged wife of a city fireman was held today on a charge of plotting to kill him so she could collect his insurance. Detective Sergeant Frank Howland said the woman, Mrs. Helen Woods, 42 years old, approached a man with a proposal to kill her husband, Forest Woods. The man informed police.

Mrs. Woods was arrested in front of her husband's home, where she had gone with the informer and a Negro patrolman who, Howland said, posed as a killer. It was charged that Mrs. Woods offered to pay the killer $100 from the amount she would receive from the Firemen's Benefit Fund after Woods' death. Mrs. Woods denied the charges.

Europe's Frankenstein.
From Alaska With Gold.
Lo, the Poor Farmer.
Ups and Downs in Silver.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1935.)
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 20.—USSOLINI calls those trying to starve his people with sanctions "egotistical, hypocritical" says Italy can go on in spite of them.

Queen Elena, the King's wife, prays at the tomb of the Italian unknown soldier "for the triumph of Roman civilization in Africa."
If it is possible to talk or think in the tomb that unknown soldier may have murmured: "So, they are still at it."

England and all Europe startled by the resignation of Samuel Hoare, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, who, with Premier MacDonald, is supposed to have invented the "peace plan" of oppressing Ethiopia, giving the larger part to Italy. European outcries against what is called a betrayal of the League of Nations but if bombs begin bursting in air over Europe's cities, starting another big war, and waves of gas begin creeping toward new lines of trenches, some of the "sanctions" people may wish they had let the Italians have their slice of Ethiopia at the risk of disrupting the Ethiopian slave trade.

Europe with its League of Nations can sympathize with the character invented by Shelley's wife in her fantastic "Frankenstein" story. Frankenstein built a monster possessing super-human strength, and it proceeded to chase him all over the country.
You may thank heaven that this country has stayed out of the League of Nations thus far. Our alleged statesmen in the past were eager for a little Frankenstein monster of their own.

From far Alaska to the big city came one who shall be called Jones, not to offend him. When times got bad he decided to go gold hunting rather than go on relief. From Alaska, according to police, he brought interesting gold nuggets and pockets full of large bills. He celebrated, not wisely, but too well. Police took care of him, persuaded him to let them put away $2000 of his money to be sent to him after he returned to Alaska.

He left, saying that he liked Alaska better "because out there, when wolves come after you, they make a noise and give you fair warning. In the East they creep up on you."
Many men old and young might solve their depression problem by gold hunting if they could get a grubstake and a start. Canadians are prospecting for gold from an airplane photographing the ground, getting advice from mineralogical experts, then dropping the miner at the right place. Flying in search of gold, instead of crawling endlessly on a donkey's back would appeal to the young in a hurry.
Seward, Lincoln's Secretary of State, bought Alaska for $3,000,000 and was criticized. Already Alaska has yielded $400,000,000 in gold, 50 times the price Seward paid, but not one-thousandth part of Alaska's gold has been touched.
There are plenty of opportunities left for the energetic.

Lo, the poor farmer, better off than he was, no longer the stepchild of a nation that he feeds. He has taken this year in cash, according to Department of Agriculture estimates, $3,110,000,000, nearly ONE THOUSAND MILLION more than last year. And last year he did well.
From crops this year, he gets $3-400,000,000 or $250,000,000 more than last year. From livestock and its products $4,320,000,000; from corn $1,271,000,000; from wheat $550,000,000 and from cotton $593,000,000.
The problem of the Republican party, which, according to Senator Capper of Kansas, himself a Republican, has lost much of the farmer vote, will be to recapture that farm vote. What to offer the farmers for voting Republican is the question.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE a married daughter I am worried about. She married a man, who we knew, was divorced. But after a week, we saw his divorce in the paper, but from a different woman. Don't you think her father and mother should find out if my daughter is the second of this wife and see if he is ever divorced from the second?

We have found out that he is the worst liar that ever lived. He got a loan and had my husband sign the paper, promising to pay; but has never paid a dime. He also got $30 more on a paper my husband did not sign. The company is trying to get my husband's wages for it.

They are living in a different town now and have promised to do just now; or is it a lawyer or go to the free Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Court Building and ask how you may look up a man's record and what measures you should take. This will all have to be done legally. Then they will tell you how, through the Bureau of Missing Persons, your daughter may be looked up. Probably this will be done through the Police Department of the city in which she lives. It can be done quietly, but you must have the proper authority.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I LIVE on a farm and have a good many peacocks, but cannot sell them for enough to buy clothes. If some of your readers could make the exchange of clothes for peacocks, we would be glad to send them. There are three of us in the family. The woman's size is 38 bust (or 18 years size), shoes 5D. The man's size, 38 chest, 34 waist, shoes 7 1/2 E. Boy, age 9, 12 1/2 shoe.

My dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE a question to ask you, but may I say, first that I don't want you to think me a crab. My trouble is that I live in South St. Louis and I am a person who has a great deal of company who come in motor cars. They park right in front of my house all hours of the night, and when my friends come there is never a place in front of my property (I own my home) where they have room to park. So, please, if you know anything to do about it tell me in your column.

I think you might ask these people, agreeably, if they would mind having their friends park a little farther away as it cuts off persons who come to your home on a convenient place to leave their cars. If they are inconsiderate and rude enough not to comply, you might look into the St. Louis parking laws and possibly get one of the small "No Parking" signs.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE been going with a young man for three years. This Christmas for the first time I have ever made him a gift. What is proper to give him a photograph of myself? He has never insisted upon having one. Should I not write anything on it until he asks me to? And what shall I write?

Much depends upon the character of your friendship. The young man might be very pleased with the surprise of a photograph of you. It is, however, a very personal gift. What you would write would depend, too, upon whether the friendship is casual or very earnest. It is always safe to write "In all friendship," Mary, or "To Ned with best wishes for a happy Christmas." Mary.

My dear Mrs. Carr: I AM a girl 13 years old. I am a Christian and member of a Baptist church. My mother and father won't let me go to church at night to B. Y. P. U. All the other girls go. Do you think she should do like that? Please give me your advice.

Of course I do not know how far you would have to go, or whether you could depend upon you to come straight home and not dally by the wayside. Then, too, you don't say just what you have to do in the evening that might interfere. You might try to find some older person who would come for you and see that you get home safely. This might make a difference.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I WOULD like for Christmas, I told him I would like some silverware or something for our new home, as we are planning on being married next summer. I said nothing would please me more, as there are so many needed things. He declares that this would be very improper and insists that the gift should be something strictly for "yself."

Which is proper and who is correct? PERPLEXED.

In Spades Doubled

By Ely Culbertson

IT WAS obvious that North and South were slightly flushed with their success on the last two hands, while East and West were correspondingly morose.

South was an ardent disciple of the "heckling system." "Of course, if they're going to hold all the cards," he said complacently to his partner, "the most we can collect is about 30 points per hand." Both opponents gave him a murderous glance, and the next hand went into play.

Neither side vulnerable.

I WAS sitting behind South and, of course, his object in bidding clubs and diamonds before his real spade suit was quite clear. He knew that West was "laying for him" and hoped that his eagerness for a killing might blind his judgment. This actually happened. West allowed himself to get into a "doubling stride," and when South apparently rescued himself from the club and diamond doubles West fell into the trap.

North deserved credit for sizing up the true situation and passing the spade bid rather than return to either of the other suits South had bid. East was blameless. His original bid was sound, and he had to trust his partner.

To make a bad matter worse, West opened the heart five, "the unbid suit." Eight tricks promptly became a laydown.

"Two spades, doubled, and game!" purred South.

If I may be permitted poetic license, East and West exuded silence in large, thick quantities.

TODAY'S QUESTION: Question: The bidding was one no trump by West (whose no trump bids always are strong), pass by my partner, three no trump by East, and all passed. My partner opened with the six of spades. The dummy went down as follows: ♠ 8, ♥ K Q J, ♦ A Q, ♣ A 3 2. My hand was ♠ A Q 4, ♥ J 9 8 2, ♦ Q 10 3, ♣ 7 5 4. What should I play on the first trick?

Answer: You should play the queen. The reason is that you hold stoppers in both hearts and diamonds and are much more apt to gain the lead later than is your partner, who must hold a weak hand. Your pressing object, therefore, is to force the declarer to win an early round of spades so that you will retain the ace and a small card with which to put your partner on lead.

Dried First: Falls for scrubbing should never be put away until absolutely dry. This also applies to floor cloths and the scrubbing brushes. Cook-coaches are easily attracted to damp brushes and cloths, and, besides, they are very apt to become evil-smelling and you would not want to use them again for cleaning purposes.

A Shoe Horn: A metal shoe horn is handy to use in place of a trowel when digging in small flower pots. It is much the same shape as a trowel and makes less dirt in a small space.

Dressing Up Leftovers Into Appetizing Meals

By BECK

WITH meals and appetites demanding meat while meat prices soar, one must resort to ingenuity with leftovers, with inexpensive cuts and with smaller amounts of the various meat items. And, needless to say, meals must still "put on a pleasing front." They must be satisfying and attractive and wholesome.

With a new touch of seasoning in the gravy, and an appetizing garnish or tasty added ingredient, diners never even recognize Sunday's roast. And meat pies and stews are wholesome and delicious, with varied vegetables. Turnips, parsnips, peas, canned tomato, okra and ever so many others may be used in these dishes with entirely new effects. Meat saves, too, offer new fields for discovery. Experiment with various seasonings. Add tasty vegetables or perhaps a bit of chopped apple or canned pineapple, and use combinations of meat.

The recipes which follow are developed along "the line of least resistance." They're easily prepared. They offer suggestions for serving meats which are not too expensive—and for "padding out" those which cost a little more.

Dutch Treat: One pound beef, cubed. Six tablespoons butter. One cup boiling water. Two cups cold roast pork, cubed. Three cups cooked potatoes, diced.

One tablespoon onion, minced. One cup cold roast pork, cubed. Three cups cooked potatoes, diced. Combine meat, potatoes, onion and seasonings to taste. Cook in remaining butter until completely heated through. Cover each slice of toast with sauerkraut, then hash. Garnish with parsley and paprika. This recipe makes six portions.

Smoked Pork Shortcake: Two tablespoons butter. Two tablespoons all-purpose flour. One cup milk. One pound smoked pork tenderloin, cooked and cubed. One cup peas, cooked. One cup carrots, cooked and chopped.

One standard recipe baking powder biscuits. Melt butter in saucepan, blend in flour and gradually stir in milk and one cup of stock left from cooking the tenderloin. Season with pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture becomes thick and smooth. Add meat, peas, carrots and parsley and cook about 10 minutes, or until they are well heated through. Serve mixture on hot buttered biscuits, garnish with halves of hard-cooked eggs and paprika. This recipe makes six portions.

Veal and Noodles: One pound veal, cut in cubes. One-quarter cup butter. One package noodles. Boiling, salted water. One No. 2 can tomatoes. Salt. Fry veal until lightly browned in two tablespoons of the butter. Cook noodles in boiling, salted water until tender, then drain and drench in cold water. Combine with veal and place in a greased casserole. Pour over this the tomatoes which have been seasoned and heated with remaining butter. Bake about one hour in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). This recipe makes six portions.

Education as A Foundation For Character

It Helps Children Find Their Way Into Useful Happiness.

By Angelo Patri

WHAT shall we do with the children? Is there any sense in teaching them trades, crafts, professions, fitting them for something they may never do? Perhaps unfitting them for the future? The statistics point to overfilled professions and the unions are overcrowded with skilled workers. What shall we do with the children so as to prepare them for the future?

When was the future certain? Many of us lived on the assumption that it was, but we discovered just as other generations had done, that there was no ground for the assumption. Life was still the grand adventure, still the uncertain road that it had always been. Yet we have lived and enjoyed it, each according to his ability. Some of us have a strong talent for living, some none at all, most of us enough to get by pleasantly enough. Our lot has not been such a hard one all things considered. Why imagine that it will be worse for the children? I believe it will be better.

How are they to be prepared? First, train them to health. Get them to know that a healthy body is the first essential to successful living. Then along with that idea, the other one—a healthy mind. Teach them to dislike wrong thinking such as shows itself in greed, envy, hate, selfishness, beyond healthy limits. Teach them to protect their minds against the infection of evil thoughts. This done, they have a fine start for life in any era.

The quality that counts most for success in life is character. It is wrong to think of those who have piled up vast riches as happy successful people unless one knows that these people are truly happy. Happiness is the measure of successful living, and until one gets the measure, one knows nothing of the matter. Stevenson said that one must be able to live at peace with oneself, be friends with oneself, in order to be happy, or successful, and he knew.

Give each child all the education he can take. I believe education should be full and free to all who ask for it. Teach each child some form of useful work. By useful I mean that it will make the worker happy and benefit his neighbors at the same time. People will always need beauty, health, the labor of the mind, the leadership of trained minds. People will always have hunger of one sort. Train the children then to be ready to satisfy such hunger in themselves and in others.

We are going to need scientists, doctors, teachers, machinists, builders, artists, workers of all sorts, all we can train and more. Find the special power of each child and each child's family.

Work is the salvation of the race. I believe that the children now in the schools will have plenty of work to do, will have more freedom in the doing of it, therefore more joy. They will have a better choice of lifework and get more personal growth and happiness out of it than the workers who prepared the way for them. That is what all our preparation is for.

To make clear the way for those who come after us. Life goes on with ever increasing joy, ever deepening beauty. There is no cause for doubting the happiness of the children in its development. (Copyright, 1935.)

THE MAN OF FASHION

By ESQUIRE

PERHAPS James Thompson thought he could solve the entire Christmas gift problem for those who go in for snooty after-dinner brandy sniffling.

"Give a man a pipe he can smoke. Give a man a book he can read. And his home is bright with a calm delight. Though the room be poor indeed."

In the preceding verse he suggests a horse or a boat, which might be somewhat beyond the usual gift budget. His final suggestion is a girl you can love—but this seems to us to be a pretty big order even for a magnificent Christmas gift. We don't mind the pipe and book suggestion and we've added several others which we hope will prove helpful. In line with the horse and the boat, however, we might say that if he has a hobby of any kind, that's the perfect lead on what to give.

TICKER TIPS Some men inherit watches, some men buy watches and some men have watches thrust upon them. For the boys in the latter class, or those others who could use one, more up to the minute, a wrist watch that is waterproof or another curved to fit the wrist are earnestly recommended.

GOLD STANDARD Our much vaunted Yankee ingenuity comes through with a cigarette case that contains its own lighter. It carries 20 cigarettes without causing your pocket to bulge. Those other pocket conveniences—fine leather wallets and billfolds are constructed with all the efficiency of a filing cabinet. Pigskin, pinseal, or crocodile are the fashionable preferences.

PIED PIPES Few men have all the essential jewelry they may need for day or evening use. A pearl scarf pin or one with a small animal figure is much in fashion. Gold knot cuff links are new and a key chain is also a good choice. A gold safety pin for the collar is a small but useful gift.

FOR BIG SHAVERS Unless he's the possessor of a beard, you'll always please with tonsorial equipment. A shaving brush of finest badger hair is a thing of beauty and a joy each morning. The excellence and luxury of many of the splendid soaps and lotions elevate them to the gift class. Or you can get him an electric razor that eliminates the need of any of the aforementioned.

FOR SIGHS AND SIGHTS Pipe smoking and pipe collecting are analogous. Have no fear, then—if he's a piper, give another pipe. Or you can be sure that he'll be pleased with a humidifier that will keep his favorite brand of tobacco at the right degree of humidity. And the pipe addicts are "that way" about pouches, too.

A portrait photograph from him to her, or vice versa, is enhanced when it arrives with a handsome frame of leather or metal. And there's no man who won't appreciate a pair of high powered binoculars. The good ones constitute a major purchase, but are worth it.

HOST DELIGHTS One of the added benefits of Repeal is that we can call 'em cocktail shakers right out, instead of beverage shakers. Modern design-

NO more paydays before Christmas—that is, alas, the story for most of us! But there's really no reason to go around wringing our hands and crying "alas" about it. On Greenfield's new extended charge you can get all the gifts you want (for men and women, too) without having to pay anything at all now. You pay one-third January 10, then on February 10 you pay a third, and on March 10, the final third. So open one today, Jenny, and let's have no more of this "oh, woe is me" act!

Chemical That Removes Odors From Breath

Chloramine Effective Even On Garlic — Acts by Cleansing Mouth.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

READER says: "Several weeks ago you had an article on halitosis. Will you kindly send me the name of the mouth wash which you said would overcome halitosis?"

Answer: Chloramine, which is an official drug that may be purchased at nearly any pharmacy. It is used in 4 1/2 grain tablets dissolved in an ounce (two tablespoons) of water and used as a gargle.

The discovery of its value for this purpose was solved in a paper by Drs. H. W. Haggard and Leon A. Greenberg of New Haven, Conn. It is the only substance which they found which will remove the odor of garlic and onion from the breath.

These experimenters believe that bad breath is always due to some decomposing matter in the mouth in the crevice of a tooth, or in a tonsil crypt, or somewhere. Chloramine liberates chlorine in the mouth which destroys these fermenting particles, and in that way overcomes bad breath. The only drawback to its use is that it is not particularly pleasant. It not only destroys odor, but taste for a little while. I am perhaps exaggerating this slightly—the taste is not really seriously objectionable, but no body should get the idea that this mouth wash is savory.

I have been wondering, though, since Dr. Haggard's article was published, why some enterprising tooth powder manufacturer doesn't incorporate a portion of chloramine into the product. It wouldn't work in a mouth wash because chlorine decomposes too rapidly when put into a solution.

Perhaps the trouble with halitosis is partly that some people have more sensitive noses than others. The same is true of body odors. It may have been the case with the King of Arracan. In selecting a Queen he employed an official sniffer. The candidates for the queenship, clad in cotton shirts were exposed to a sun bath for 12 hours, after which the shirts were turned over to the official sniffer. From this lot, he selected one of the aspiring and perspiring ladies, who seemed to him the healthiest and purest.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. Dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE been going with a young man for three years. This Christmas for the first time I have ever made him a gift. What is proper to give him a photograph of myself? He has never insisted upon having one. Should I not write anything on it until he asks me to? And what shall I write?

Much depends upon the character of your friendship. The young man might be very pleased with the surprise of a photograph of you. It is, however, a very personal gift. What you would write would depend, too, upon whether the friendship is casual or very earnest. It is always safe to write "In all friendship," Mary, or "To Ned with best wishes for a happy Christmas." Mary.

My dear Mrs. Carr: I AM a girl 13 years old. I am a Christian and member of a Baptist church. My mother and father won't let me go to church at night to B. Y. P. U. All the other girls go. Do you think she should do like that? Please give me your advice.

Of course I do not know how far you would have to go, or whether you could depend upon you to come straight home and not dally by the wayside. Then, too, you don't say just what you have to do in the evening that might interfere. You might try to find some older person who would come for you and see that you get home safely. This might make a difference.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I WOULD like for Christmas, I told him I would like some silverware or something for our new home, as we are planning on being married next summer. I said nothing would please me more, as there are so many needed things. He declares that this would be very improper and insists that the gift should be something strictly for "yself."

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION
By Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE a married daughter I am worried and getting very nervous about. She married a man, who, we knew, was divorced. But after a week, we saw his divorce in the paper, but from a different woman. Don't you think her father and I ought to find out if my daughter was the second or third wife and see if he was ever divorced from the second?

We have found out that he is the worst liar that ever lived. He got a loan and had my husband sign the paper, promising to pay; but he never paid a dime. He also got $30 more on a paper my husband did not sign. The company is trying to get my husband's wages for it.

They are living in a different town now and have promised to send me the money. I wrote her after her first letter came and got no answer. We think he opened the letters and didn't let her know. Can't we hear through authorities there, so that we may know he is treating her fair? We love her dearly and are both getting sick worrying about her. She is 18 and is 24. If he had another wife before he married her, could we get the marriage annulled.

MOTHER AND FATHER.

There is but one thing for you to do just now; that is, get a lawyer and go to the free Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Courts Building and ask how you may look up a man's record and what measures you should take. This will have to be done legally. Then they will tell you how, through the Bureau of Missing Persons, your daughter may be looked up. Probably this will be done through the Police Department of the city in which she lives. It can be done quietly, but you must have the proper authority.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I LIVE on a farm and have a good many peacocks, but cannot sell them for enough to buy clothes. If some of your readers would make the exchange of clothes for these peacocks, we would be glad to send them. There are three of us in the family. The woman's size is 36 bust (or 18 years size), size 30. The man's size, 38 chest, 34 waist, shoes 7 1/2 E. Boy, age 9, 12 1/2 shoes.

A. D.

My dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE a question to ask you, but may I say, first that I don't want you to think me a crab.

My trouble is that I live in South St. Louis next door to people who have a great deal of company who come in motor cars. They park right in front of my house all hours of the night, and when my friends come there is never a place in front of my property (I own my home) where they have room to park. So, please, if you know anybody to do about it tell me in your column.

MRS. R. E. H.

I think you might ask these people, agreeably, if they would mind having their friends park a little farther away as it cuts off persons who come to your home from a convenient place to leave their cars.

If they are inconsiderate and rude enough not to comply, you might look into the St. Louis parking laws and possibly use one of the small "No Parking" signs.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE been going with a young man for three years. This Christmas will be the first gift he ever made to him. Would it be proper to give him a photograph of myself? DAILY MAGAZINE

Is Life Free For Any One At Any Time?
A Discussion of the Common American Idea of Liberty.

By Elsie Robinson

I AM convinced that much of our present bitterness and confusion are due to loose teaching concerning Liberty. From the kindergarten on we're assured that America is the "home of the free"—said freedom to be handed out gratis, like the climate. Then which there could be no more cock-eyed notion.

Life is never free for anyone, anywhere, at any time. If a man spent his whole life in a cave, without contact with his fellow men, still he would not be free. When we are always pay our way, and the higher our standard of living, the greater the cost in cash, sacrifice and responsibility.

Democracy is the highest form of social relationship ever conceived. It is measurably hard to achieve than Communism. Under Communism you need only be a well-behaved sheep and baa-a when you're told. In fact, you're completely out of luck if you attempt to be anything else. But under democracy, you are expected to be an independent human being, responsible not only for your own fortunes but for your brother's as well.

Obviously, this is both a tall order and a very expensive one. Here we are, only half-baked at best, attempting a special program which would keep a super-intelligent saint hustling. Naturally, we're in constant conflict with our own ignorance and cussedness, with the odds going against us much of the time—as this Depression proves. For the Depression was just one more sign that we've bitten off more than we as yet know how to chew. Or, maybe, want to chew! And we'll inevitably find ourselves in more and even worse "picklements" before we finally achieve our fine vision.

EVEN so, it's worth it all, and no decent citizen would mind paying the price if it weren't for this infernal notion—bred in us from the start—that there should be no price to pay; that Liberty in America is guaranteed and given as soon as we discover that it isn't, we're not only shocked and irritated but completely burnt up! Something wrong! Someone's rotten! We've been GYPPE!

I am not now referring to that fair protest against unwarranted tax levies and spending of tax money which even the most patriotic citizen has a right to make, but rather to the popular notion that all demands above the most nominal sums are a monstrous perversion of the democratic scheme. They aren't!

No sane person ever pretended or promised that democracy would be free or that people living in a democracy would be unfettered souls. To the contrary, our fighting with the grimest reason for knowing that democracy cost like hell! And it's a cinch they didn't expect us to lounge along on an achievement for which they paid so dearly.

That sloppy sentimentality which depicts America as a free pass-around is not only asinine but vicious. Inevitably, it breeds more disillusion, discontent and disloyalty than regiments of peevish propagandists. "Something for nothing"—that notion has made moochers of the native born, has made boot-legging anarchists of disgruntled immigrants.

Don't trick yourself or your foreign neighbor—above all don't trick your child—into thinking that America is free. It isn't—it can't be—T. S. SHULZBERG. Democracy is the highest and costliest challenge the human heart has ever set for itself.

Tell your child that it is a challenge. Tell him that he is responsible for its price and penalty AND MAKE HIM FEEL THAT HE HAS WHAT IT TAKES TO BE A PATRIOT, RATHER THAN A PARASITE! Then he won't yell his head off and feel he's been Done Dirt every time a payday comes around.

(Copyright, 1935.)

no reason for thinking the gift, which might be of use to the child, is either better or worse than any other. Will you please put this in your column?

efficiency at menial tasks are doing so while acquiring learning superior to that of many whom they serve.

The case of Siyang is a striking and inspiring example of how this can be done. He came to this country after graduating from the Provincial High School of Vizcaya, P. I., with only his passage paid by his widowed mother. He ran an elevator in the Laclede Gas Building, where at the time of the explosion, in 1925, he was singled out as one of the heroes who, amidst ammonia fumes, evacuated offices and a cooking school crowded with women. This led to his getting a coveted job as waiter on a club car of the Pennsylvania Railroad, where he managed to save in 20 months $1500 out of salary, commissions and tips, with country he favors most.

Fraser Muirhead, a Canadian from Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, is president, but being new on the job and a little diffident, a San Francisco born Japanese, Joe Tanaka, stepped into the breach as master of ceremonies and soon had the company merrily joining in games, charades, stunts. It was difficult to entice anybody to the sidelines for a close-up.

"I am not a foreigner," declared Muirhead, who is a dental student at Washington. "The only difference I can see between your country and mine is that you have gray mail boxes where we have red. He does miss those good old 60 degrees below zero temperatures, though. To keep from losing out on winter sports entirely he occasionally joins the Flyers as a volunteer in hockey games.

John A. Alexander, born in Patras, Greece, but whose father is a prosperous restaurant owner in Atlanta, stood out in scholastic achievement. For honors won at Emory University he was awarded a fellowship in the classical department at Washington. He is studying to become a teacher of Greek, Latin and archeology. Studious, scholarly, modest, he seemed proudest of his father's ability to put five children through college on his earnings in the restaurant business.

Emil Royce was born in this country, but was taken to Czechoslovakia by his father when he went back to fight in the war. Emil returned here alone when he was 14 and attended McKinley High until he could qualify for the Architectural School at Washington U. He has made his own way all along as a draftsman and teacher in night schools. Now a full-fledged architect, he is one who does not talk of hard times in that profession, but of a bright and hopeful future.

HERE also was Dr. Tom Abe, described by a dean of St. Louis University as "One of the best Japanese personalities we have ever had here." He is serving his second year of internship at St. Anthony's Hospital. Also, though he was not present, much was heard in praise of Yat Chun Chow, a chemical engineering student at Washington. Leisure time with this Oriental is spent mostly on activities among his own people. He is the leading spirit of a club of Chinese boys which meets at Bishop Tuttle Memorial Sunday afternoons.

The Cosmopolitan Club does not restrict its membership to actual foreign born, but includes also those of foreign birth brought in whose homes native traditions and cultures are maintained while adjustment is being made to life in a new land. It is thought, according to Arno J. Haack, Y. M. C. A. secretary at Washington U., that those who have made the adjustment can be all the more helpful to the newly arrived. Miss Helen Cassimatis of Greek parentage, a vivid personality, a graduate of Washington U. with many social accomplishments, is a leader in this club. As is also Ludmilla Suntzeff, a senior at Washington, daughter of expatriated White Russians.

An old-fashioned idea is to put a rose geranium leaf in the bottom of the loaf cake pan and then pour the batter in on top. It gives a very delicate flavor to the cake.

Style Note There are flowing and romantic full length evening wraps in luxurious velvet, fitted as to waistline, flared as to skirt, sweeping as to line and full as to sleeves, that are the top of the mode at this time of the season.

Procedure in Second Helping During Dinner

For Hostess to Say "More" Implies Guest Has Been Watched.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: THE question has been under discussion here at college as to the correct procedure of offering a second helping of food. One of us thinks it is not impolite for a hostess to ask a guest if she cares for more meat and another one insists that it is impolite to say "more" and thus draw attention to the fact of a second helping. Which of us is right?

Answer: This depends somewhat upon circumstances. It is not quite polite to say "Will you have some more?" to one who has helped himself to something standing on a table—candy for example, or cakes or sandwiches at tea, or fruit in a dish on a veranda, or cigarettes—because "more" suggests that you have been watching his eating. And to say "Do have one of these" or "Some of this" is to be unaware of his having had anything. But at your table should a dish be passed for the second time, and your guest's plate bears frank evidence of his having eaten his previous helping, I think it is perfectly proper as well as natural to say "Won't you have some more," or "Oh do have a little more."

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you tell me what topics of conversation should be avoided at a company dinner?

Answer: Private personal concerns or beliefs. Controversial subjects, unless you know the opinions of those present will not be offended, or anyone's feelings hurt. Also topics should be pleasant. Gruesome motor accidents and war horrors and personal life are not pleasant at dinner, or for that matter—at any time!

Dear Mrs. Post: How long must one wait for others to be served before starting to eat? I have always thought that having to sit helplessly still while food got cold was the one thing that didn't make serving the guest of honor. Her other ladies first before the hostess seem quite polite. However, I've been told that it isn't necessary to wait very long for others.

Answer: When two others a table have been served it is entirely proper to begin to eat—if this beginning be a leisurely one. To eat fast and hungrily and be finished before the last is served would suggest that one train oneself to wait until all have started. For the matter of that, there is no reason why one should be over-anxious to begin except where one belongs to the salamander species and can't endure food not scalding hot.

Banana and Coconut Pie.
Three-quarters cup sugar, a pinch of salt, one cup milk, one can coconut milk, two eggs, one-half teaspoon almond extract, two sliced bananas, three-quarters cup grated fresh coconut, pastry. Mix sugar, flour and salt, add milk and coconut milk and cook over boiling water for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour milk mixture over well-beaten eggs, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook until thick. Add flavoring and let cool. Slice bananas into a baked pie shell, pour cool mixture over them and sprinkle the grated coconut over the top. A delightful change in dessert.

Pineapple Salad.

Cruel Words Sharp Tongues And Tempers

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

THADDEUS STEVENS, in talking with Lincoln one day, made a sharp remark about Cameron, with whom he had many a tilt. "You don't mean to say you think Cameron would steal?" asked Lincoln.

"No," said Stevens, "I don't think he would steal a red-hot stove." Finding that too deep to keep, Lincoln repeated it to Cameron, who flew into a rage, and indignantly demanded that Stevens retract it.

Stevens went forthwith to the White House. "Mr. Lincoln, why did you tell Cameron what I said to you?" he asked. "I thought it was a good joke and didn't think it would make him so mad," said Lincoln.

"Well," said Stevens, "he is very angry and made me promise to retract. I will now do so. I believe I told you he would not steal a red-hot stove. I now take that back!" And out he went in a huff.

No doubt he had a certain sour joy in making the matter worse, as we usually do in such cases. He simply ran the knife in deeper and gave it a twist or two.

By contrast, take the time when Stanton called Lincoln a fool. Someone told Lincoln about it. He only smiled and said, with a drawl, "Well, Stanton is a wise man, and he may be right about it."

How kindly, how completely he took the edge off a sharp word, and made it seem foolish, as indeed it was. Think of an able-bodied man saying such a thing. Stanton must have felt a fool when he heard of it. Lincoln was no fool, and Stanton knew it. He was a great and wise man, wise enough to be humble of heart, gentle of spirit, and infinitely patient, unforgivingly kind; and here is no higher wisdom.

My reason for recalling the stories is the number of letters that come of keen, cutting, cruel words spoken in many homes. Short tempers and sharp tongues may make a terrible thing.

Best Age For Learning List of Radio Programs

Let's EXPLOR Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.
See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

In his new researches, "Adult Interests"—a sequel to his book "Adult Learning," Prof. E. L. Thorndike of Columbia shows again that we learn faster and better at any age between 15 and 45 (and possibly beyond) than we do at any age from childhood to 14. The best age is in the twenties, but it is advanced years with proper incentive and interest the actual mental output is often as great, even greater, than in the twenties. So you are never too old to learn and the best time to begin is today.

—Developing Peace Psychology is going to be a long, tough job, but I believe we may pull it off in time by developing at William James called the "Moral Equivalents of War," chiefly, I think, by modifying our ideas of social rewards. Suppose, by educating children in a new way, the profession of soldier came to be despised and that of teacher, philosopher, philosopher and social engineer should take his place in public esteem—the trick might be turned. I said recently men lower war, but I think it is mostly due to their education and not to any special "fighting instinct."

Stevens went forthwith to the White House. "Mr. Lincoln, why did you tell Cameron what I said to you?" he asked. "I thought it was a good joke and didn't think it would make him so mad," said Lincoln.

"Well," said Stevens, "he is very angry and made me promise to retract. I will now do so. I believe I told you he would not steal a red-hot stove. I now take that back!" And out he went in a huff.

No doubt he had a certain sour joy in making the matter worse, as we usually do in such cases. He simply ran the knife in deeper and gave it a twist or two.

—My only source of authority is the reports I frequently see in the newspapers where some woman on trial has requested that no women be on the jury. This is especially true where the trial involves sex problems.

They seem to think men will be less critical and more fair—at least more lenient. Seems to me if I were a woman I would prefer a jury of men. I should be glad to hear from both men and women on the subject.

He caught her in his arms as she turned to him and swiftly planted a kiss upon her flushed cheek. "You must be more careful," she admonished. "You know what would happen if I saw you even talking to me after he warned me the other day. With his terrible jealousy, he might shoot you, or beat me with his whip!"

Circus Sonya

By George Morrison

SONYA held the flap which separated the dressing tents from the entrance to the big top open with one hand as she watched Ivan working the cats in the middle ring. A look of mingled amusement and hatred momentarily erased the prettiness and left in its place a grimly ironical mask.

The morning light filtering into the main tent revealed to Ivan the Great, resplendent in his crimson and gold uniform and polished black riding boots. This morning it was only Ivan, the cat trainer, who tirelessly, unmercifully, put the snarling animals through their paces.

Sonya watched hopefully as she noted the actions of Suva, the new and frightened lion Ivan was breaking into the act. Time and again the lashing bullwhip cracked on the nose of the stubborn and vengeful cat as Ivan carefully backed about the cage so as to keep all the animals in front of him. She hoped that Suva would overcome his fear of the whip and the outstretched chair for just one moment!

"He's going to have plenty of trouble with that cat if he doesn't watch out!" The voice at her shoulder thrilled Sonya with an unfamiliar feeling of happiness. She quickly dropped the tent flap. "Armand!" He caught her in his arms as she turned to him and swiftly planted a kiss upon her flushed cheek. "You must be more careful," she admonished. "You know what would happen if I saw you even talking to me after he warned me the other day. With his terrible jealousy, he might shoot you, or beat me with his whip!"

LOVE'S GREATEST SACRIFICE—When Sindath Soonech Singh of Kashmir died in 1843, 525 of his young wives committed suicide by voluntarily walking into his funeral pyre to be immolated with him. This mass suicide (suttee) took place at Rannagar, India. Before the British conquered India, suttee was obligatory upon every wife surviving her husband. The widow was usually placed in a sort of decorated outhouse until the day of the funeral. When the dead husband was about to be burned, the widow took tearful leave of her relatives, and in the expectation of endless bliss in after life, would voluntarily mount the funeral pyre, to be reduced to ashes within a short time. The English prohibited this custom, but the mass suicide caused by Sindath, one of the largest in history, was perfectly voluntary.

of the crimson-clad Ivan. The trainer's hand dropped the whip and flashed to his coat pocket. Falling to one knee, he evaded the first onslaught of the infuriated Suva, and jamming his pistol almost in the lion's very face, squeezed the trigger. Nothing happened. Again, frantically, he pulled the trigger while his eyes filled with fear and horror. In the unearthly silence, Sonya closed her eyes and waited for what she knew was inevitable, the scream, the crunch of snapping bones before the animal men could possibly prod the lion away with sharpened pikes. "Now," she said simply, "we shall see what the fine friend has been filling my head with!" Her clenched hand opened, and five shiny brass cartridges dropped to the sawdust.
